Taft, Stassen Ohio Battle Leaves Race Wide Open

Senator Victor by 14-9 but State's 'Favorite Son' Delegation Is Split

A virtual stand-off between Senator Robert A. Taft and Harold E. Stassen in the Ohio Presidential primaries left the Republican nomination still wide open last night.

Ohio's delegate verdict in 23 contested areas was 14 to 9 in favor of Taft, slowing down the Minnesotan's bandwagon momentum but splitting the Ohioan's "favorite son" delegation.

A lively row promptly opened between the two camps over who "won" the convention advantage, but politicians without an ax to grind said they thought it was a draw.

Each Candidate Hurt

Each candidate had been hurt by his failure to solidly hit the Ohio jackpot but both were just as clearly still in the race. Stassen will try again in Oregon on May 21 against equally big game—New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

But he had paid a high price for his nine Ohio delegates. Senator Taft, embittered by Stassen's invasion of his own front yard, remained a potent convention force. Singly or in combination, he certainly will throw that weight against Stassen in Philadelphia.

Returns from the 23 Ohio contests in which Stassen men filed against Taft's see-sawed back and forth all day in the slow counting but finally settled down to the 14-to-9 Taft lead.

In addition, Taft picked up automatically the 30 other delegates who ran unopposed.

Of the 23 contested posts, Taft held 11 of his 14 certain and was leading in three. Stassen held six of his nine certain and was leading in three.

Biggest upset was the failure of Stassen's lone entry in the delegate-at-large race to come through in the only State-wide contest. The Stassen man—former Ohio Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall—trailed Taft's full slate of nine at-large delegates.

In the District races, two Stassen men each led in the Third District (Dayton), Ninth (Toledo), Fourteenth (Akron) and Nineteenth (Youngstown).

Taft delegates led two each in the Sixth District (Portsmouth), Seventh (Springfield), Sixteenth (Canton), Eighteenth (Steubenville), Twenty-first (Cleveland), and Twenty-second (Cleveland).

Bricker Tops Taft Ticket

Senator John W. Bricker was Taft's biggest vote-getter, topping the Taft nine-man State-wide ticket.

In Washington, Taft promptly hailed the results "a victory for me and a defeat for Mr. Stassen." In Minneapolis, Stassen termed his own capture of nine delegates from Taft's infield "one of the most significant developments of the entire national campaign" and added: "The Republicans of Ohio have advanced us another step toward nomination at Philadelphia."

Then the two got into a bitter long-distance row over whether

New Parleys Expected in Rail Strike

President Still Hopes to Avert Walkout, Seizure

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Still hoping to prevent next Tuesday's scheduled railroad strike without Federal seizure, the White House probably will undertake a new series of settlement conferences.

After receiving a report yesterday of the failure of National (Railway) Mediation Board sessions in Chicago, it was expected that Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman would seek to arrange talks here with the disputants. He was assumed to be in touch with representatives of both the unions and the railroads.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said President Truman still hopes the strike will be averted. Ross made clear that there was no concrete factor leading to this hope, but pointed out that until the last minute before a strike is called, there was "always a chance" for settlement.

In another strike situation, however—the 51-day packinghouse walkout—the Government virtually gave up yesterday. The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service announced that it had ended conferences held here for the last week with the "Big Four" packing companies and the CIO Packinghouse Workers.

The service said it would continue to consult with the parties, and asked them to be available for talks in Chicago, but it gave no indication of when it might try to resume conferences.

In the railroad situation, it ap-

Johnston Says Poor Housing Disruptive to Family Life

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Lack of decent housing, Eric Johnston said last night, is "one of the great disruptive factors in American family life."

The President of the Motion Picture Association, keynoting the four-day National Conference on Family Life, declared that both Government and private industry must do its share if families are to be properly housed. And, he added, "we must have houses if there are to be homes."

He told the first plenary session at Interdepartmental auditorium that Government and industry must both take "positive, constructive action" in meeting the family crisis. He said:

"We need a Federal housing program, Federal aid to education, and a vastly expanded public health service. These are essential.

"In my opinion, private industry could and ought to do the bigger part of the job. That, after all, is the way to tackle things best in America. Voluntary action is always superior to action by the State.

"The opportunities for constructive action by private industry appeal to me as tremendous."

He reminded management that what it wasn't spending in voluntary help to families it certainly was spending in taxes, and said the high cost of public welfare often bore a "shocking relationship" to inadequate pay.

He said that care should be taken to safeguard "the sacred Anglo-Saxon tradition that every home is a castle, inviolate and secure in its sanctity." With that in mind, he declared:

"Our job is to find ways to help the family strengthen itself, and I emphasize that phrase, 'strengthen itself.' Our job is to be one of

Senate Beats 'Scuttling' of Housing Bill

By Mary Spargo

After slapping down, 43 to 28, the Cain amendment to continue the Government's home loan insurance program for a full year, the Senate yesterday voted to continue it through June.

Passage of the shorter extension was a victory for Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) and other backers of public housing.

The amendment introduced by Senator Harry Cain (R., Wash.) would not only have extended the so-called Title VI home loan insurance but would also have removed Title I and most of Title II

To Combat It Abroad

Methodists to Train Workers In Ideology of Communists

Boston, May 5 (AP).—A plan to train Methodist workers in Communist ideology—the better to counteract it abroad—won approval of the church's general conference today.

"The more they know about communism, the more they can do about it," said the plan's sponsor, Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer of New York.

Dr. Diffendorfer envisioned 200 workers with such training annually combatting "the non-Christian ideologies all the way from Latin America to India and China."

"And believe me, I'm not afraid of how much they learn about communism," he told 54 bishops and 800 delegates, many from overseas.

The general conference also agreed that each church member should be asked to give 50 cents a year to help support the denomination's 128 educational institutions.

The proposal was offered by Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University.

Dr. Marsh, chairman of the Methodist education committee, reported that the 128 schools have an enrollment of 208,665 students—nearly one-tenth of all students attending institutions of higher learning in the United States.

"The maintenance of free educational enterprises within a free state will be imperiled," he said, "if the future of our schools depends upon Federal aid, for Federal aid eventually can mean Federal control."

The general conference—the church's legislative body—also approved a four-year plan of teaching and preaching Methodism here and abroad. The campaign also involves world-wide relief.

Bishops Exchange 'Reunion' Invitations

Massachusetts Episcopal Bishop Norman B. Nash told the Methodist General Conference:

"The tragedy of our Protestantism is that Methodism ever broke away from Anglicanism. We bid you prosperity and success in reunion."

Methodist Bishop A. Frank Smith of Houston, Tex., promptly responded:

"We gladly acknowledge our relationship as children to your church. And as children grown up we will gladly provide you a home if you will only come."

Board of Trade Acts

Landlord-Tenant Program Proposed to Clean Up Slums

The new president of the Washington Board of Trade, Leon Chatelain, jr., has launched a program which he hopes will force landlords and tenants to work together to clean up Washington's slums.

Chatelain, Charles C. Koones, chairman, and other members of the trade board's public and private buildings committee hope the Commissioners will sponsor the program before Congress.

The three-way program:

1. A board would be established to deal specifically with the sanitation code, cite property owners for violations of this code, and speed clearance of slum conditions in existing dwellings.

2. Voluntary clean-up of slum properties by landlords and tenants would be promoted.

3. Once property is cleared of debris, and has proper sanitation facilities, the board would see to it that tenants allow no new slum conditions to develop.

As proposed by the Board of Trade committee, the program follows closely the plan adopted in Baltimore in 1941, which has resulted in the improvement of nearly 9000 homes.

Both Chatelain and Koones emphasized yesterday that the slum improvement plan would not interfere with existing plans for redevelopment under the District of Columbia Urban Redevelopment Land Agency.

It would supplement existing District statutes and clarify the conditions under which property used for dwelling purposes must be maintained to protect the surrounding properties from the effect of blight and to fix responsibility of both the occupants and the owners, they said.

House Passes D. C. Budget Unchanged

Defeats Attempts To Continue Free Tuition, Eliminate Red Union Pay Ban

The District's 101 million dollar budget for fiscal '49 sailed through the House yesterday without upset, despite two squalls.

A move by two Maryland Congressmen to permit free schooling here for nonresidents was defeated by a close vote.

Also beaten was an attempt to eliminate a ban against the payment of District funds to any employe who belongs to a labor union whose officers have refused to sign non-Communist oaths.

Senate action on the big budget bill will be held up pending a House start on finding new revenues for the District, it was announced yesterday by Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho), chairman of the Senate District Appropriations Subcommittee.

Waits for Revenue Proposals

Senator Dworshak said he wanted to see what the House was going to do about the six-million-dollar gap between anticipated revenues for fiscal 1949 and the 101-million-dollar budget. The District Commissioners would close the gap by a 2 per cent sales tax. Failing that, or some other new levy, the Commissioners would have to cover any budget deficit by increasing the property tax rate, now $2 on $100.

Dworshak indicated that there was an alternative to finding a new levy—cutting the budget by four or five million dollars.

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), who as chairman of the House District Appropriations Subcommittee was chief author of the new budget bill, urged the House to pass it without change. The House did, by voice vote.

In the first of two clashes preceding House approval of the District money bill, Representatives J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) and Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) called on the House to erase language in the money bill which bans free tuition in the District public schools for pupils who live outside the District.

Horan and Representative Karl Stefan (R., Nebr.) defended the ban on free tuition, declaring that to remove it would add up to half a million dollars to the burden on District taxpayers. The House sided with Horan and Stefan by a standing vote of 14 to 10.

Fogarty Hits Non-Red Rider

By a voice vote, the House kept in the bill language forbidding payment of District appropriations to union-member employes whose officers have refused to sign non-Communist oaths under the Taft-Hartley law. The language is like that which last week went into the Labor Federal Security supplemental money bill.

A demand that the language be taken out of the bill was made by Representative John E. Fogarty (D., R. I.), ranking minority member of the Horan subcommittee. He protested that no hearings had been held on the "rider" and that its intent was to "get at" the United Public Workers of America. He said it would also hit at members of the Typographical Union, including several hundred Government Printing Office workers. He said it would mean they would have to give up their jobs or their union.

Representative Frank B. Keefe (R., Wis.) opposing Fogarty, declared "we're in a fight to stop Communistic penetration at all points," and won the backing of the House for his appeal to keep the language in the bill.

'Don't Widen the Gap'

By Ferdinand Kuhn jr.
Post Reporter

Secretary Marshall cautioned Congress yesterday against any action that might push Russia out of the United Nations.

"It is a principal objective of our foreign policy," he said, "to find peaceful solutions to our differences with the Soviet Union.

"We do not want to widen the gap between us nor to intensify the tension of the postwar world."

The Secretary was answering a question by Representative Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.) at a House Foreign Affairs Committee hearing on resolutions to revise the U. N. Charter. It was not the usual offhand reply to a Congressman's offhand question; the Secretary read it from a single page of manuscript.

It was clear as he went along that he was reading an important statement of policy, designed as much to reassure the worried European nations as to caution Congress.

"The U. N. is a forum in which many of the questions involving the USSR can be negotiated," he continued, still reading. "Under the auspices of the U. N. we are meeting with the USSR in hundreds of meetings each year. It would be unfortunate to break off this relationship.

"The U. N. is a world forum in which we can challenge Soviet policies which we do not like and attempt to correct misconceptions of the Soviet leaders about what can and can not be done in their relationship with the rest of the world. Although we believe that somehow their policies are not in accordance with the Charter, their membership in the U. N. exerts a measure of discipline which is beneficial to the world community.

"If the USSR withdraws or is driven from the United Nations, a number of nations near Russia may find themselves in an impossible position and may refuse to remain members of a U. N. which would appear to be a grand alliance against the Soviet Union. We do not wish to place such nations in this dangerous and awkward position necessarily; hence we believe the universality of the U. N. should be maintained if possible.

"If we split the U. N. into two pieces we may find that we have splintered it into many more, and we may be left in the unenviable position of losing a highly useful world organization with nothing to put in its place."

The Secretary then explained that he was "under constant pressure from other nations"—he did not name them—"to try in every possible way to avert a rupture."

Behind this statement, The Washington Post learned later, were re-

Greek Cabinet Is Reshuffled To Ease Crisis

Two Liberal Party Ministers Reported To Have Been Let Out

Athens (Thursday), May 6 (U.P.). Greece's American-supported coalition cabinet apparently was saved from collapse today when the Liberal Party agreed to permit two of its cabinet ministers to resign.

Reliable sources said that all Liberal ministers in the eight-months-old Liberal-Populist coalition had placed their resignations at the disposal of their party leader and premier, Themistocles Sophoulis.

It was understood that George Varvoutis, Minister of National Economy, and F. Zaimis, Minister of Supply, would be dropped in the reshuffle necessitated by the assassination May 1 of Minister of Justice Christos Ladas.

This apparently solved the dispute between Sophoulis and his Minister of Foreign Affairs, Constantine Tsaldaris, who is leader of the Populist Party.

The situation became so serious that Dwight Griswold, chief of the American aid mission, conferred with Sophoulis for 30 minutes last night. At that time, both Varvoutis and Zaimis had refused to quit. They changed their minds later.

[The Associated Press said the Greek parliament was suspended for one month tonight as a result of the crisis. Parliament had been scheduled to reconvene in five days. There has been belief the cabinet would not get a vote of confidence in Parliament. Suspension of Parliament thus avoids any such test for a month.

[Sophoulis accused Tsaldaris of violating an agreement on reshuffling the cabinet. Tsaldaris apparently wanted to oust Varvoutis, a leader of the Liberal Party, and Sophoulis felt he could not risk losing Varvoutis' support in the party.]

Truce Attempt In Palestine Fighting Fails

Abdullah to Invade, Armistice or Not, Consular Group Told

Jerusalem, Palestine, May 5 (U.P.). An attempt to arrange a truce in Palestine and head off a bloody Jewish-Arab war has failed, reports here and in Amman, Trans-Jordan, indicated tonight.

A three-man consular committee returned here from a conference at Jericho, however, with hope that a "truce of God" might be arranged for Jerusalem itself, under the International Red Cross.

It was disclosed the committee had discussed with Arab leaders proposals for a truce for all Palestine. Reliable informants said no progress was made.

Big Stumbling Block

One reason for the failure, apparently, was the determination of King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan to make it a fight to the finish with the Jews.

Abdullah announced at Amman, his capital, that he intended to enter Palestine with the Trans-Jordan and Iraq armies when the British mandate ends at midnight May 15 "whether the Arab League accepts an armistice or not."

Informants here indicated that the consular committee got on well in the Jericho conference with the Arab League delegates, representing all the seven Arab nations. The implication seemed now to be that they did not get on well with Trans-Jordan's delegation.

Foreign Minister Recalled

Abdullah told Arab reporters at Amman he had recalled his Foreign Minister, Fawzi el Molki Pasha, from a conference of Arab leaders in Damascus "because I am tired of negotiations and propositions."

"I have decided to enter Palestine after May 15 with an Iraqi army even if the Arab League decides to accept armistice proposals," he said. "I refuse to accept them.

"The moment the British abandon their mandate my armies will go immediately."

Earlier reports said Abdullah had rejected proposals for a 10-day truce in Palestine after May 15 to enable the United Nations to work out a last-moment solution.

These proposals were said to have reached him both from the United States and Jerusalem.

Eisler, 1000 Others Affected

Present Procedure Bars Aliens' Deportation, U. S. Court Rules

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, in District Court here, yesterday ruled that aliens cannot legally be deported under present procedures.

The ruling is expected to delay deportation of Gerhard Eisler and four others from United States for alleged Communist connections, and affect as many as 1000 other pending cases.

Justice Goldsborough granted a temporary injunction to restrain United States Attorney and the Director of Immigration and Naturalization Service from continuing deportations under present methods. The injunction was sought by Lee Pressman and Joseph Forer, Washington attorneys for the five defendants.

The court ruled that the Immigration Bureau comes under the Administrative Procedures Act, which entitles an individual to a hearing before an impartial hearing officer outside the bureau. Effect of the ruling would be to hold up all deportations ordered under present methods until the courts decide the issue.

Pressman and Forer argued their clients were denied such impartial hearings when their cases were heard before immigration officers.

Besides Eisler, who has been described as "America's No. 1 Communist," the defendants included Irving Potash, vice president of the International Fur and Leather Workers Union, CIO; Ferdinand C. Smith, national secretary of the National Maritime Union, CIO; Charles A. Doyle, vice president of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union, CIO, and John Williamson, labor secretary of the Communist Party.

Attorney General Clark served notice he would appeal.

Oleo Forces Win Senate Test Vote By 47 to 30

Bill Is Assigned To Finance Group After Vandenberg Picked Agriculture

(Roll Call on Page 12)

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Repeal of Federal taxes on margarine passed another battle-marked milestone in its stormy passage through Congress yesterday.

Supporters of repeal by a vote of 47 to 30 succeeded in having the measure the House passed last week assigned to the Finance Committee for recommendations.

In doing so the Senate overruled President Pro-Tem Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) who Tuesday referred the bill to the Agriculture Committee.

Heated Disagreement

Repeal advocates argued that the bill was a tax measure in an attempt to keep it from the Agriculture Committee. That committee, they feared, would pigeonhole the measure as the House Agriculture Committee earlier had done. The House got to vote on the measure only through the unusual method of a petition to discharge the committee from further consideration of it.

The debate on the action was marked by heated disagreement between the two factions. Members of the Agriculture Committee were vehement in declaring that early action would be taken if the bill were referred to them.

Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.) declared that the "butter lobby" planned to delay action by offering "at least 100 witnesses" before the Agriculture Committee.

Supporters Jubilant

"As far as I am concerned the bill will be reported out in time for the Senate to act," Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), member of the committee, replied.

"It would be a perversion of the legislative process to move this bill to the Finance Committee because its supporters can get more votes there," he added. Aiken declared that "the merits of this bill are not an issue in this vote."

Supporters of repeal of the 62-year-old taxes were jubilant at the Senate action. They predicted that when the measure reaches the floor from the Finance Committee its passage would be even more marked than by yesterday's vote.

Loyalty Report On Condon in Hands of Truman

The Federal Bureau of Investigation report on the loyalty of Dr. Edward U. Condon, which has been sought by the House for weeks, is now in the personal possession of President Truman.

This was learned yesterday at the Commerce Department, which said that the report, in the form of a letter from the FBI to the department, was sent to the White House at its request last Tuesday.

At the White House, it was learned that the letter is now in Mr. Truman's personal possession. The White House declined comment on the reason for the change.

It was reported elsewhere, however, that President Truman asked for the letter because he did not want to involve his new Secretary of Commerce, Charles Sawyer, in the controversy over the letter, which the House has sought to make public, but which Mr. Truman has declined to give up. Sawyer is to take the oath of office today.

Dr. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, was accused by a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities of being a "weak link" in the security surrounding this Nation's atomic secrets. He denied the charge and was cleared by the Commerce Department's loyalty review board, which had the benefit of the FBI letter.

PEOPLE In The NEWS

Donor of Original 'Alice in Wonderland' Runs Factory on Frontier of Knowledge

Luther H. Evans, the man who bought the original "Alice in Wonderland" and now is giving it away to the British Museum, looks anything but the scholar he is.

Husky, black-haired, square-faced, he resembles more nearly a fiarly successful businessman than the author, which he is, of a comprehensive study of the American administration of the Virgin Islands, the director of a project which resulted in publication of hundreds of guides to historical source material, or a onetime teacher of political science.

Now widely traveled, Evans, 46, started life as the son of George Washington Evans, a railwayman, and Lillie Johnson Evans, on a farm near Sayers, Texas. He worked his way through school, receiving a B. A. and an M. A. from the University of Texas, traveled abroad, taught at Leland Stanford University, at New York University, Dartmouth and Princeton before, in 1935, he accepted a post as director of the Historical Records Survey of the WPA and so distinguished himself that he was offered a post as director of the Library of Congress legislative reference service.

From that point, in 1939, to his appointment as tenth librarian in June, 1945, Evans has taken an active part in molding library policies which, he believes, should establish the institution as a reference center, making its collections available to other libraries throughout the Nation through increased interlibrary loans.

Evans believes in the widest possible distribution of library facilities. He has called the library "a great factory on the frontier of knowledge."

First librarian since the Civil War to be appointed from the ranks of the staff, the Texan remains easily accessible to members of his staff for discussion of personal or official problems.

He serves as adviser to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, and is a member of the American Library Association, the American Political Science Association, the Society of American Archivists and other professional organizations.

When he has time, the head of the Nation's largest library, likes to go to a movie or canoeing.

'Alice' Script To Be U. S. Gift To British

LUTHER EVANS
Gentleman and scholar

The original manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland" will return to England this month, a gift from "America to the British people."

Back of the gift is Dr. Luther Evans, Librarian of Congress, who engineered purchase of the volume for $50,000 in April, 1946, when it was auctioned in New York. All but $6215 of the price has been supplied by several anonymous donors.

Now locked in a vault in the Library of Congress, the manuscript will be sent back with Lord Inverchapel when he retires as British Ambassador, Dr. Evans disclosed yesterday, provided the $6215 can be raised by then. "I have some ideas along that line," the Librarian said.

Dr. Evans bought the manuscript with the philanthropists' help, two years ago with the intention of one day returning it to England. He believes that "things which have a peculiar relation to a given people—like the original manuscript—ought to be returned to those people."

But he has another reason, also. Dr. Evans hasn't forgotten that England staved off Hitler's legions during the early part of the late war.

"Sending the manuscript back," he said yesterday, "is an expression of thanks to the British for holding out while we got ready to lick the Nazis . . . for holding off the enemies of freedom."

It will be placed in the British Museum, he said.

Taft, Stassen Draw in Ohio

Democrats in the industrial districts where Stassen showed best crossed over into the Minnesotan's column.

The 14-to-9 outcome was short of both Taft and Stassen advance claims. Taft, who had left his Senate post for two weeks to campaign in Stassen's own direct-question-and-answer style, had refused to concede Stassen a single Ohio delegate. Stassen had said he would take 12.

But privately, both the Taft and Stassen people had hit on the figure 10 as the number of delegates the Minnesotan must split from Ohio's favorite son to seriously hurt Taft or materially help himself. Stassen missed the "number" by one.

Stassen's main chance in Ohio was to maintain the momentum he gained in Wisconsin, where he aced Governor Dewey and punctured the MacArthur boom, in Nebraska, where he topped all of the big name Republicans, and in Pennsylvania, where he led Dewey and Senator Edward Martin.

His incidental purpose was to divorce himself in the public's mind from the Republican old guard by directly challenging its top man.

He stood up against Taft, but he clearly failed to put him out of the race, and his bandwagon hit its first rut. In Oregon, where he is leading in the polls, another "stop Stassen" man is waiting for him. Governor Dewey, out for blood in the May 21 primary to offset his Stassen-administered Mid-West lacing, is already in Oregon and campaigning. Stassen, who has been there ahead of him many times, will return to Oregon May 17.

Convention Fight Next

Taft's bout with Stassen was his last until the contest reaches the convention floor. The Senator's Ohio stake was the biggest. A sweep by Stassen of 23 hand-picked districts could have started wholesale desertion of Taft delegate backing particularly in the South and border States. Stassen split Taft's ace-in-hole delegation, but failed to start any stampede to himself.

In claiming victory over Stassen, Taft further claimed in a statement that he now has more delegates who will support him on the first ballot at Philadelphia than any other candidate but he mentioned no total. Stassen said Monday he would have 340 and Dewey earlier claimed 400. None yet have claimed a nominating majority.

The Ohioan declared Stassen himself had figured he would have to elect 11 district delegates in Ohio to win there. He said Stassen further had said he would not regard it as a victory unless Marshall, his one delegate-at-large, equaled the average of the nine Taft State-wide candidates. He noted Marshall failed to pass any of the nine.

He noted Stassen did best in Akron, Youngstown and Dayton, cities which are "strongly Democratic with a large labor vote," and added this thrust:

"There is evidence that many New Dealers and radical Democrats crossed over and voted in the Republican primary, on the request and instruction of the Stassen managers."

Stassen Slaps Back

In Minneapolis, Stassen slapped back with this statement:

"The fact that we decisively carried the solid Republican wards of Dayton, Akron, Youngstown and Toledo and the strong Republican suburbs of Cleveland should explode the smoke screens and unfounded alibis which have been used seeking to attribute the results to the votes of others than Republicans."

Stassen added:

"The obviously combined forces developed since the Nebraska election were unable to stop our mounting delegate total, even in Ohio. This may well be the forerunner of the complete failure of the national stop movement.

"I accept this new backing as support for our stand for a sound, liberal Republican program with a sensible world-wide viewpoint, rather than in a personal sense . . ."

Civil Rights, Truman Lose In Alabama

Birmingham, Ala., May 5 (AP).—Alabama's Democratic voters today had turned thumbs down on President Truman and the civil rights program.

But yet unanswered as final returns drifted in was the question of whether the rank and file party members would decide for a walk-out by their 26 delegates to the national convention over the civil rights issue. Final decision probably must await a run-off election June 1.

The primary election yesterday had been watched closely by national party leaders as the first measure of whether the South's revolt over civil rights really stemmed from the grass roots. They declined comment today.

Equivalent to Election

Through yesterday's primary, which in Alabama is the equivalent to election, the State Democratic Party by-passed any action the national convention might take in naming a presidential candidate and carried the issue into the Electoral College.

The electorate made certain that neither Truman nor any other candidate advocating a civil rights program would get the State's 11 electoral votes.

Actually, therefore, the State's Democrats voted for President without knowing who the party's candidate would be.

The voters were asked to select 11 electors from among 28 candidates, 21 of whom were pledged not to vote for Truman or any other candidate on a civil rights platform.

Late returns indicated that the 11 leaders were all from the anti-Truman, anti-civil rights camp.

The Democrats showed they didn't think too highly of Gov. James E. Folsom's bid for the Presidency. Running for delegate-at-large, he was in the eleventh place among 24 candidates. Eight were to be elected.

Senator John Sparkman won renomination easily over a Folsom-supported candidate, Philip J. Hamm.

In the congressional races, incomplete and unofficial returns indicated deefat for two incumbents. Edward De Graffenreir was leading Representative Pete Jarman 13,535 to 12,077. Carl Ellicott was leading Representative Carter Manasco, 15,749 to 8687. Manasco conceded.

The delegate situation shaped up thus: In a field of 84 candidates, 28 were pledged to walk out if the National Party included civil rights in its platform.

Thirty-five were opposed to such a move on the grounds that the fight should be kept within the party. The others were not committed. Many of those pledged to the walkout were doing well in tabulation of returns. The number of candidates involved indicated a runoff would be necessary to settle the issue finally.

Other Congressional races:

Second District (226 of 325)—Representative George Grant, 15,515; James G. (Country) Oliver, 3013; Frank J. Mizell, jr., 2360.

Third District (184 of 229)—Representative George Andrews 18,784; John E. (Boozer) Pitts 2925.

Fifth District (206 of 290)—Representative Albert Rains, 21,005; Theo Steed, 9453.

Ninth District (250 of 256)—Representative Laurie C. Battle, 24,144; Luther Patrick 10,344; George D. Patterson, 8751.

Gov. Folsom of Alabama Weds Girl He Met on Campaign Tour

Surprise Marriage For Widower, Whom Divorcee Is Suing

Rockford, Ala., May 5 (AP).—Alabama's Gov. James E. Folsom was married here today to 21-year-old Janelle Moore.

The surprise wedding was performed at 4:30 p.m. at the Rockford Baptist Church by the Rev. B. F. Hixon.

The pretty brunette has been employed as a secretary in the State Highway Department.

The 6-foot 8-inch chief executive has been a widower since the death of his first wife, the former Sara Carnley in 1944.

Folsom recently announced as a favorite son candidate for President. Shortly thereafter a paternity suit was filed by an attractive red-haired divorcee.

The woman, Mrs. Christine Putnam Johnston, of Hanceville, Ala., asked the courts to declare Folsom the father of her 2-year-old son, James Douglas. The suit is pending in Circuit Court at Cullman, the Governor's home town.

"We just took off from work," Folsom explained, adding "she quit her job today. She just up and lost her job at the Highway Department."

"I feel like I'm going around in circles," she sighed. "This is the most wonderful thing that's ever happened to me."

2 Veterans Face Runoff In Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., May 5 (AP).—Fuller Warren of Jacksonville and Dan McCarty of Fort Pierce moved today into a second primary race for the Democratic nomination as Governor of Florida.

They ran far ahead of seven other candidates in Tuesday's primary.

The two young war veterans, who started their political careers when they were 21, beat out two State cabinet officers who sought to move up to the governorship. Both have served in the State legislature, McCarty being Speaker of the House in 1941.

Unofficial returns from 1133 of the State's 1537 precincts gave Warren 129,518 votes and McCarty 127,065. Trailing them were Colin English, State school superintendent, with 67,588; Senator W. A. Shands of Gainesville, 47,774, and Attorney General Tom Watson, 40,870. Four others had a combined total of 20,000.

In an almost unnoticed Republican primary, Bert Acker, Miami public relations counsel, held a slim lead over John L. Cogdill, Jacksonville lawyer, for the governorship nomination.

Congressman Bob Sikes of the Third District won renomination in Tuesday's Democratic primary.

But Congressman Emory Price of the Second District had such a close race with a young war veteran that the official canvass will be necessary to decide it.

Charles E. Bennett of Jacksonville, disabled by infantile paralysis while serving in the Pacific war zone, apparently defeated Price 37,883 to 35,647 on unofficial returns from 247 out of 277 precincts in the Second District.

Ten Indiana Congressmen Renominated

Indianapolis, May 5 (AP).—Ten of Indiana's 11 members of Congress will be on the ballot in November as a result of yesterday's primary.

Most of the Representatives won by tremendous majorities and three of them had no opposition.

Representative Ray Madden, the lone Democrat seeking reelection, piled up the greatest percentage by winning, 14 to 1, over his opponent in the industrial First District (Lake County).

The voters in the Second District gave Representative Charles Halleck, majority floor leader, a rousing indorsement, with the greatest number of votes of any of the candidates. With returns almost complete, he had 28,071 votes to 6558 for Paul E. Rhine.

The other Republicans renominated, by margins ranging as high as 8 to 1, were Representative Robert A. Grant, Third District; Representative George Gillie, Fourth; Representative Edward A. Mitchell, Eighth; Representative Earl Wilson, Ninth; Representative Ralph Harvey, Tenth.

Representatives Forest Harness, Fifth District; Noble Johnson, Sixth, and Gerald Landis, Seventh, all Republicans, were unopposed.

George Denny, former Mayor of Indianapolis, was nominated on the Republican ticket, and Andrew Jacobs, attorney, on the Democratic ticket in the Eleventh (Indianapolis) District.

The election brought out a light vote of around 550,000. County officials also were nominated, and delegates to the State conventions were named. These delegates will elect the delegates to the national conventions, but there was no campaigning by any of the presidential candidates.

Lausche Stages Comeback in Ohio

Columbus, Ohio, May 5 (AP).—Independent Democrat Frank J. Lausche emerged today from Tuesday's primary as a formidable foe for Republican Gov. Thomas J. Herbert in the November 2 elections.

Former Governor Lausche's victory margin over his primary opponent, Ray T. Miller, former Cuyahoga County Democratic boss, approached 3-to-1 with vote counting nearly done.

Six incumbent congressmen—five Republicans and one Democrat—were practically assured renomination as they took substantial leads over challengers in the primary.

The GOP incumbents are Edward O. McCowen of Wheelersburg, Frederick C. Smith of Marion, Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, Walter E. Brehm of Logan and Henderson H. Carson of Canton, who won in a landslide.

In the Democratic Congressman-at-large race, former Congressman Stephen M. Young of Cleveland was an easy winner over T. L. Thomas of Akron.

Dewey Calls Truman Rule 'Incredible'

By Bert Andrews

Eugene, Oreg., May 5 (NYHT).—An eight-point program for assuring lasting peace was offered tonight by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who declared that "this incredible national Administration of ours" has failed in leadership for peace because "it has just had no policy at all."

The New York Governor said he confidently believed his program would succeed "and that your sons and mine need not be sent into another war."

Governor Dewey spoke at the University of Oregon as he continued his whirlwind campaign to beat Harold E. Stassen in the May 21 contest for Oregon's 12 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

He put his eight points in this order:

1. Make America so strong that no nation on earth will dare to attack us. Continue making atomic weapons and build our Air Force into the mightiest striking power in the world, so no dictator will repeat the mistakes of 1917 and 1941, attacking us, believing we are weak.

Intelligence Service Urged

2. Create a first-rate intelligence service "so that we can be informed about what is going on in the world." He said the recent Bogota uprising was a demonstration of "the pitiful failure of our intelligence service."

3. Combat the evil propaganda of communism by telling the world "the thrilling story of our American system of freedom and enterprise."

4. Help China to "save herself" so that the power of dictatorship can never again strike at Hawaii. He blasted the administration for making "a secret deal with Stalin enabling Russia to dominate Manchuria and all of north China."

5. Build a federation of free countries, through the use of the Marshall Plan, so it can become economically unified—"A Europe so unified and revitalized would no longer be an invitation to aggressors."

Wage Peace With Energy

6. Wage peace with the energy and determination and force that were used in the war. "We must put aside petty bickerings, the small-time politics, and sheer muddle headedness that has cluttered up our postwar policy. There must be a genuine bipartisan effort in which the interests of our country come before the interests of any section, group or party."

7. Keep cool during the war of nerves, in which our opponents are trying "to make us angry and provoke us into doing foolish things."

As his final point, Governor Dewey declared that America must launch "a great moral offensive."

GOP Draft Accord Pushed by Taft

To Meet Voters

President Plans Swing Around West

The White House announced yesterday that President Truman will make a cross-country train trip next month.

The election-year swing will give Mr. Truman a chance to show himself to the voters at stops in Illinois, Nebraska, Washington, Oregon and California. Other stops may be added.

Under present plans, the President will leave June 3, and wind up June 14 at Los Angeles, whence he may fly home, or return by train. That will be decided later.

The journey comes barely a month before the Democratic National Convention meets at Philadelphia to pick its presidential nominee. At this writing, Mr. Truman is the choice, but there is opposition to him within the party, especially in the South.

Most of the President's trip will take him through territory that Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath claims is friendly to Mr. Truman.

McGrath covered much of the same ground last month, and returned predicting the President would have the convention votes of every State west of the Mississippi.

The President will speak in Chicago June 4 to a centennial commemorating the settlement of Swedish pioneers in the Middle West. He will spend June 5 at Omaha, Nebr., at the reunion of the 35th Division with which he served in World War I.

Then he will swing west, probably making back-platform appearances along the way.

In Washington State he will visit the Columbia River Basin reclamation project, the Hanford atomic project, Spokane, and Olympia before reaching Seattle June 10.

Turning South, he will stop in Portland, Oreg., June 11 for the annual Rose Festival. He will deliver a commencement address at the University of California, Berkeley, Calif., June 12.

He will participate in a Flag Day celebration sponsored by the Elks in San Francisco June 13. On June 14 he will attend "an editorial luncheon" in Los Angeles.

In Washington State, the President is expected to be a guest of his old friend, Gov. Mon Wallgren, who has been mentioned as a vice presidential prospect. He also may be joined there by Senator Warren Magnuson (D., Wash.) who discussed the tour during a White House visit.

Proposes Leaders In Congress Meet, Settle Differences

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) proposed yesterday that GOP congressional chiefs get together and attempt to reconcile wide Senate-House differences on the draft.

He suggested such a meeting after the Senate Republican policy committee deferred action on the military manpower issue but decided to speed passage of the 70-group air power bill. The latter comes up today.

Taft, chairman of the Senate majority policy group, said he would try to arrange with House Speaker Joe Martin (R., Mass.) for a meeting of the GOP leaders of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees on the draft question.

"Nice" if GOP Could Agree

Major difference between the two groups is over a Senate plan to induct 18-year-old youths for a year's training—a modification of universal military training. The House committee has approved a 19-through-25-year-old, 24 months' draft, while the Senate group is readying a similar bill, coupled, however, with the training for 18-year olders.

"It would be nice," Taft told reporters, "if we Republicans could get together."

The Senate leader said that a draft bill will not be taken up on the floor before week after next. Senators on the Armed Services Committee have been trying to finish with the measure by Friday, with the hope of starting floor debate next week.

Speaker Martin said he thought the House selective service bill might come up on the floor about May 18.

This raised the prospect that the issue—perhaps the most explosive of a session of controversial subjects—might be considered in both houses at the same time.

Just before adjourning last night, the Senate made the House-approved $3,198,000,000 aircraft appropriation bill its "unfinished business." It carries close to 2.7 billions for new planes for the Air Force and Navy—822 millions more than recommended by the Administration.

Despite the opposition of President Truman and Defense Secretary Forrestal to the additional money, it passed the House by an overwhelming vote, and indications are that it will slide through the Senate by a similar majority.

Taft told reporters yesterday that he favored the big air power program.

Conference Studies Allen Idea

He added, however, that he considered it inaccurate to call the measure the "70-group Air Force bill." The real issue, he said, is whether the Air Force should have "old or new planes," and not as to its size.

The Senate policy leader revealed that yesterday's conference considered Representative Leo Allen's proposd substitute for the draft. That bill—submitted Tuesday—would pay cash bonuses of $1000 to $1500 to encourage voluntary enlistments. Taft said there was no indication of how Senators felt about the plan.

Allen frankly terms his bill a "trial balloon." He hopes that sentiment for it will mount and House members will jump on the bandwagon. The only comment thus far, however, comes from out-and-out opponents or backers of the draft. The former hail it, and the latter declare it is merely a subterfuge to avoid voting on the politically unpalatable draft.

Meanwhile, Owen J. Roberts, chairman of the National Security Committee, put his organization behind the Senate Committee's compromise draft—18 year old training plan. The retired Supreme Court justice previously had said that his committee—formed by patriotic, fraternal and veterans' groups to back UMT—was against the new proposal.

Roberts wrote Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee that the committee would support the draft-training "blend" as a temporary substitute for UMT.

Senator Taft told reporters that he was not yet ready to commit himself on this proposal, though inclined against it.

Fight Opens On Reciprocal Trade Pacts

By The Associated Press

The Administration opened a Capitol Hill battle yesterday to save the reciprocal trade program, due to end June 12 unless Congress extends it.

Defense Secretary Forrestal urged an extension in a letter to the House Ways and Means Subcommittee. He said it is essential to defense program of stockpiling critical materials from other countries.

W. Averell Harriman, roving ambassador for the foreign aid program, and Undersecretary of Commerce William C. Foster backed up the plea. They said in statements the program is necessary to build commerce and promote world recovery.

The Administration leaders were joined by H. J. Heinz II, president of H. J. Heinz Co., and chairman of the United States Associates of the International Chamber of Commerce.

By a vote of the Republican majority, newspapermen and the public were barred from the subcommittee's sessions, and only sketchy reports were available on most testimony.

Senator Taylor Held Not Exempt From Arrest

Senate authorities agreed yesterday that Senator Taylor (D., Idaho) was not exempt from arrest in Birmingham for several reasons.

They explained that the constitutional immunity from arrest for Senators and representatives does not extend to "breach of the peace," which was the basis of the charge made by Birmingham police.

The Constitution, Article 1 and Section 6, in regard to members of Congress states:

"They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same."

J. A. Keefer, administrative assistant to Taylor, said the Senator did not raise this issue in Birmingham "because he was not there on official business of the Senate."

Fairchild Named To AF 2d Spot

President Truman yesterday nominated Maj. Gen. Muir Stephen Fairchild to be Vice Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, with the rank of four-star general.

Army Report Clears GIs In Germany

A high Army official said yesterday that reports of black marketing, crime, drunkenness and immorality among United States troops in Germany are greatly exaggerated.

Orville J. Taylor, special assistant to Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, made public a long-awaited report on his two-month inspection of the American occupation zone.

Royall sent Taylor to Germany February 4 to look into charges by visiting Congressmen, clergymen and others of widespread misconduct on the part of United States troops. Taylor returned April 12.

Should Be Proud

He reported that, all things considered, "America has every reason to be proud of the Army of Occupation and the men and women who compose it." He added that he saw "no need for any radical change" in regulations, or discipline for the occupation force.

Taylor conceded that "liaisons" between American soldiers and German women "do exist and on a very broad scale." He held this was understandable, however, because "conditions were abnormal, temptation was great and gratification was easy."

He pointed out that "the continental attitude toward extra-martial relationships has always been somewhat different from our own," and said the recent influx of wives and children from the States has "greatly" eased the situation.

He cited figures showing a sharp decrease last year in the number of soldiers tried by court-martial on charges of "illegal billeting . . . commonly referred to as 'shacking up.'"

As for drunkenness, Taylor said there is probably less of it in Germany than in this country.

Belgian School Subsidy Row Ousts Cabinet

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 5 (U.P.).—The two-party coalition government of Premier Paul Henri Spaak resigned today after 13 months in power because of a dispute over state support for church schools.

Spaak, premier since March 20, 1947, and former president of the United Nations General Assembly, handed his resignation to Prince Regent Charles, who immediately began talks with political leaders on a new government.

Faced with a split in his own party, Spaak decided to quit rather than ask Parliament for a vote of confidence on his proposal for state subsidies of $1,170,000 to Catholic technical schools.

The socialists, alarmed by a rapid increase in the number of church schools, want more money spent on secular education. Traditionally opposed to government aid for church institutions, most of the party refused to back Spaak.

When socialists pressed for a vote today, the premier cried, "I no longer am supported by my group. I ask permission to leave the chamber."

It was widely believed that another Socialist, Achille van Acker, Minister of Communications, would move up to the premiership.

During the defense of his proposals, Spaak said to Parliament, "I need not tell you how great would be the joy of the Communists if this government were overthrown this afternoon."

The resignation meant that Spaak was not actually overthrown. This eased what could have been—and may still become—a serious crisis.

Talk of War Is Dangerous, Attlee Warns

London, May 5 (AP).—Prime Minister Attlee said today that talk of war as inevitable was "utterly wrong and dangerous."

Intervening in a House of Commons foreign affairs debate, the Prime Minister agreed with Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative Party leader, who had declared earlier that "no one has the right to say that war is inevitable."

Attlee said he did not believe any people in the world wanted war and "if there is a drift to war, and if war does arrive, it will be because someone has 'chanced his arm' (taken a chance) too far."

Eden declared United States military help was "indispensable" for western Europe because Europe's western powers could not by themselves build up their defenses to a standard that would guarantee peace.

He bade the Soviet government to "rid itself of what appears to be this communist obsession—if we are to judge by their own propaganda—as to the inevitability of war."

He declared there was "no provocation or menace of war" in the project to create a western European union, and said he thought there were "men in the Kremlin far-seeing enough to understand this."

Orr Assails U. S. Food Stand

London, May 5 (U.P.).—Sir John Boyd Orr, director-general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, said today that full stomachs are the answer to communism, "but the United States won't or can't understand this."

Orr said in an interview in the Daily Mail that "America talks about Russian misuse of the veto, but the United States herself has vetoed and therefore destroyed a world plan to feed the world. We had a blueprint and we were ready to go ahead. Then America said 'No.'"

He said the United States was "making one mistake after another" in its efforts to crush communism and socialism.

"World hunger is a far greater danger to civilization and mankind than the atomic bomb could ever be," he said.

Food Strikes Trouble U. S., British Zones

Frankfurt, Germany, May 5 (AP).—Strikes for more fat and meat troubled the American zone today and threatened to cripple the British zone where 600,000 in lower Saxony considered a walkout.

Officials in both the British and American zones said Communists were stirring up dissatisfied workers.

The Hannover area in the British zone already was paralyzed. An almost general strike prevailed there.

In the American zone, 10,000 metal workers walked out in Munich and 2500 in Kassel. In Augsburg 7000 were idle for the second day. The situation eased in Nuernburg where only 2500 remained out after 15,000 returned to work, and in Mannheim where all but 670 of 6000 voted to return to their jobs.

Trade union officials debated whether to call a walkout throughout lower Saxony. Such a call would affect 600,000.

In U.N. Meeting

Russian Calls Harriman Roving Ruler

Geneva, May 5 (AP).—The Soviet delegate to the U. N. Economic Commission for Europe said today W. Averell Harriman, roving Ambassador for the European Recovery Program, was America's governor general of western Europe.

Harriman, a former Ambassador to the Soviet Union, was appointed by President Truman. He had been the United States Secretary of Commerce.

Amazsap Arutinian, the Soviet delegate, did not refer to Harriman by name but said:

"We are accustomed to the colonial powers of Europe sending governors to their colonies. But now the United States is sending a governor general to supervise the economic life of western Europe."

Arutinian urged the European Economic Commission to set up an economic reconstruction committee which would respect the "sovereign rights" of participating nations.

Arutinian said the Soviet Union was in a position to enter into closer economic relations with other European nations "on the principle that none of the parties shall tolerate any discrimination against the other."

He said a committee for European industrial development and mutual aid would help extension of trade within Europe and with non-European nations. He said it should discuss the conditions underlying possible long and short-term credits with full respect for "the sovereign rights of participating countries."

It was the first positive proposal of its kind to be made by Russia since the European commission was established a year ago.

Reds Seek to Curb Packages Mailed in Berlin to the West

Berlin, May 5 (AP).—The Soviet-licensed press published new postal regulations today which banned a long list of articles from Berlin mail addressed to the western zones.

A British spokesman described the new regulations as a "presumption on the part of the (Soviet) zonal administration to issue regulations for Berlin."

The regulations said packages could be mailed only in the Russian sector where they would be inspected and licensed. The mailing of foodstuffs, liquor, gold, silver and other precious metals and valuables was prohibited.

British-Soviet talks to clarify Soviet restrictions on the western allies' traffic in and out of Berlin, which have been enforced since April 1, were postponed. The Russians said the chief of their transport division had suffered a heart attack and could not attend.

The British agreed today to accept a Soviet demand that all inland waterway craft must be re-registered by May 20.

Paris Wants Draft Of 15 Months

Paris, May 5 (NYHT).—The French government decided today that the period of compulsory military service should be increased provisionally from one year to 15 months. The National Assembly will be asked to approve the cabinet action, one phase of plans to rebuild the French armed forces.

The defense budget of $1,400,000,000 is a little more than one third of the total national budget for 1948.

Marshall Warns Against U. N. Rift cent appeals to the United States from France and other western European countries to avoid needless "provocation" in dealing with Russia in the next few months.

These governments were alarmed by what they regarded as reckless talk in Washington, and by the growing opinion in Congress in favor of revising the Charter, whether Russia liked it or not.

The Secretary did not go into this background, but he did say that the present moment was a "most difficult" one for curbing the use of the veto, or controlling atomic energy, or settling other major issues between the United States and Russia.

Hopes for ERP Effect

"We first require economic and psychological improvement in Europe," he told Representative Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.). "There is no escaping the fact that there is a deep suspicion about us on the part of the Soviets.

"I feel they have been victims of their own propaganda. One of our great problems is to disabuse them of their suspicions—and that's very difficult, because we have very strong feelings of our own about the procedures they have been following.

"What we are doing now will certainly not accomplish a miracle in a short time. But I am hopeful that ERP and our military legislation will have a healthy effect on the Soviet Union."

In a long prepared statement, and in answers to questions, the Secretary insisted that such American measures would strengthen the U. N. by restoring a sense of security to the non-Soviet world.

Hits Pending Proposals

Without specifically indorsing a mutual defense pact with western Europe, he reminded the committee that the Charter authorized treaties of "collective self-defense" like the Rio Treaty of last year. But he thought a mutual defense pact of all the non-Soviet nations, in all continents, in the guise of a "regional arrangement," would violate the spirit of the Charter.

As for the proposals now pending before Congress, he was unsparing in condemning them.

One is a resolution asking the President to call a conference to consider amending the Charter, under Article 109. He thought a resolution on Charter reform could be helpful "in crystallizing world opinion," but only if its phrasing did not threaten the continuation of the United Nations.

At the request of Representative John Davis Lodge (R., Conn.) he said the State Department would draft such a resolution and suggest language that would not be "harmful."

Three Objections

As to the other resolution now pending in both Houses—the so-called Culbertson plan to abolish the veto on enforcement measures, recast the Security Council and impose quotas on heavy armaments—the Secretary expressed strong objection to it on three grounds:

1. The plan would reduce the power of France, China and the smaller nations on the Security Council, and accordingly would be bitterly resented and opposed.

2. It would abolish the veto on enforcement measures, and thus endanger American security, whereas the United States is striving to abolish the veto in matters of peaceful settlement.

3. The proposed equal quota of heavy armaments between the United States and Russia would weaken this country in precisely the field where it is strongest, but would leave Russia's armed manpower still paramount.

All the projects for revising the Charter or setting up some new form of international organization, the Secretary said, rest on wrong assumptions.

"It is not changes in the form of international intercourse which we now require," he declared. "It is to changes of substance that we must look for an improvement of the world situation. And it is to those changes of substance that our policy has been directed.

"When the substance of the world situation improves, the United Nations will be able to function with full effectiveness. Meanwhile, we will continue our efforts in cooperation with other governments to improve the working of the United Nations under the Charter."

In the afternoon Ambassador Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate to the United Nations, suggested five measures for strengthening the United Nations: (1) to "strengthen our own military posture;" (3) to "strengthen the military posture of our friends;" (4) to promote "associations of like-minded States;" and (5) to support specific efforts to strengthen the U. N., including the proposed 65-million-dollar loan for the permanent headquarters in New York.

Senate Money Bill Assailed As 'Pork-Barrel Legislation'

The "most outrageous park-barrel legislation within the last decade" was the way Senator Clye M. Reed (R., Kans.) last night described the Civil Functions Appropriations bill as reported out by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A quick glance at the increase added for rivers and harbors and flood control by the Senate group shows that at least 50 per cent of the additional funds will be spent in States fortunate enough to have members on the Senate Appropriations Committee, he said.

Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) and Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) and Reed have launched a battle against the committee-approved bill.

Consideration Put Off

Reed said the GOP policy committee has promised to defer consideration of the measure at least until Monday.

The three Appropriations Committee members opened fire on the bill after the committee jumped the House total of $606,558,766 to $708,586,666.

The Senate group voted an additional $3,900,000 for Garrison Reservoir in North Dakota, home State of Senator Chan Gurney (R.), ranking majority member of the committee.

The group put in a $2,200,000 appropriation for the Overton-Red River Waterway in Louisiana, representated by Senator John H. Overton (D.).

California, which has Senator William Knowland on the committee, got a $2,128,000 appropriation for Sacramento River.

California got another $270,000 for San Diego River and Mission Bay.

Georgia, represented by Committeeman Richard B. Russell (D.) got a million for Alabama-Coosa River control.

Minnesota, home State of Senator Joseph Ball (R.), found the Senators adding $1,447,600 for rivers and harbors.

Oregon, which has Republican Senator Guy Gordon on the committee, got more than $8,500,000 in extra appropriations for rivers and harbors.

For Idaho Projects

Idaho, which has Senator Henry Dworshak (R.) on the committee, gains by a Senate adopted addition of $1,820,000 to its flood control projects.

Bridges, Ferguson and Reed declare these additions are "totally inconsistent" with the will of Congress in adopting the legislative budget as provided under the Reorganization Act.

The Joint Budget Committee and the Senate recommended a two and a half billion-dollar cut in the budget, the three said in a letter to the GOP Policy Committee.

With the Nation in grave danger of inflation, and with huge national defense expenditures coming up, the Senators declared this is no time for any but the most necessary public works.

Post to Honor Dead

Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer, of Maryland, a member of the Marlboro American Legion Post, will speak at exercises honoring the dead of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing Post Friday at 8 p. m. at the American Legion Club, 2437 15th st. nw. The Legion's National Guard of Honor will participate.

Emergency Regime For Palestine Seen

Committee of U. N. Seeks Temporary Method of Action

(From Press Dispatches)

New York, May 5.—An emergency United Nations regime to rule Palestine appeared tonight to be the temporary U. N. answer to the Holy Land problem, the Associated Press reported.

It was emphasized that the suggested emergency administration would not be A. U. N. trusteeship, as advocated by the United States, nor a permanent answer to the Arab-Jewish deadlock.

It was becoming increasingly evident that Britain is calling the turn, inside the United Nations and out, on the kind of authority which will succeed her mandate in Palestine, the United Press said.

Although the U. N. is struggling to reach some solution on grounds that British responsibility will end 10 days hence, the vague outlines of what actually is going to happen were beginning to emerge.

Subcommittee Confers

The first glimmer came from two closed sessions of a 12-nation subcommittee at the French delegation offices today.

The Assembly's political committee—in effect the Assembly itself—asked this subcommittee yesterday to go over the whole issue and try to find a solution before Britain ends her mandate over Palestine May 15.

The situation appeared to stand this way:

1. An "emergency mayor" will be named by the British high commissioner to take over supervision of municipal functions in Jerusalem. The U. N. trusteeship council will recommend that course, thought up by the British, to a general session of the United Nations Assembly Thursday morning.

2. Some "neutral authority" will be sent to Palestine by the U. N. to leave the world organization at least a foothold in the Holy Land. That is another British idea and this "neutral authority" may well be a Briton. The United States gave evidence today that it was shoving its coldly received trusteeship plan into the background to support the British idea of retaining at least a "thread of legality" for the U. N. in Palestine.

Talk of Plebiscite

The United States move came at the meeting of the subcommittee which heard Cuba call for a plebiscite if Jews and Arabs cannot agree on a final solution.

The British plan, by naming at least a nominal U. N. authority, would keep the original partition plan from going into effect by default, so that when the Jews announce formation of an independent state they could be held up as aggressors against the United Nations.

In recent U. N. debates, the British have referred increasingly to the "assets" which they have built up in 30 days as the mandatory power. The United Kingdom is determined that these assets, including one oil pipeline now in operation and another under construction, military supplies, real estate, office buildings and equipment, shall not be lost.

The subcommittee will meet again Friday.

The delegates will be busy at an Assembly meeting Thursday and at a Security Council session in which Palestine's civil war is expected to be aired.

Child Film Star Joins 'Crusade'

Truce Hopes Get Setback

portant victory by taking the key town of Safad, between the Lebanon border and the Sea of Galilee.

Possession of Safad would give the Jews a hold over all big towns in the northeastern area of the proposed Jewish state under the United Nations partition plan.

There has been no official confirmation of the report.

It was announced today that Lebanon and Syria had assured the United States that none of its troops had entered Palestine.

[The Associated Press said Jerusalem remained mostly quiet. British troops are enforcing a temporary truce in parts of the city. A British army statement said the Arabs broke the cease-fire order in the battered Katamon quarter by firing on St. Simeon's Monastery with mortars.

[A Damascus dispatch said the Arab liberation army in Palestine had been warned by the British that unless they cease to shell Jewish positions in Jerusalem the British will use planes to destroy Arab artillery. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the Commons Britain had "very seriously warned" Arab League countries against actions in Palestine which might result in clashes with British forces.]

Compromise Prevents Breakup of WFTU

Rome, May 5 (AP)—The threatened breakup of the World Federation of Trade Unions was staved off tonight when the executive bureau accepted compromises proposed by a six-man sub-committee.

Crux of the compromise was an agreement to keep WFTU leadership off the necks of member federations pursuing national policies, such as collaboration in the Marshall Plan.

James B. Carey of the American Congress of Industrial Organizations, was quoted as saying he was now convinced "WFTU can play a big role and be of great use to workers."

Jewish State To Proclaim Independence

Sarona, Palestine, May 5 (AP).—The new Hebrew state—with its army of more than 50,000 men, but still lacking a flag or a name—will proclaim its independence 11 days hence in this suburb of Tel Aviv.

The proclamation will be sent to the United Nations at Lake Success in a formal request for international recognition. David Ben-Gurion, chairman of the Jewish provisional government, will address the document.

The area that would become one of the world's smallest nations has under arms and in the field the largest army of any state of its size, more than 50,000 men ready to fight for their sovereignty.

Sarona is an old mansion residential suburb 10 minutes by automobile from midtown Tel Aviv. It was founded in the last century as a German Templar colony. (The Templars, originally a German religious sect organized for "gathering of the people of God in Palestine," later supported German economic interests in the Middle East.)

Family Life Disrupted by Poor Housing

self-help—the principle of the European Recovery Plan brought down to the family level—not in dollars, but in spirit."

Johnston warned against handy scapegoats for juvenile delinquency and breakdowns of family life. There are many causes, he said, and to attempt to fix the blame on any one might result in finding no solution at all.

The problems, he said, require "more than resolutions deploring the state of affairs. It is action we need. Here is a case of a gap in our social structure which needs filling. We will fill it or fall into it."

War Effects Cited

It is necessary, Johnston said, to take into consideration the effect on family life in one generation of two World Wars and a great depression. This era he described as "cyclonic" and said "it requires no crystal ball to forecast the years ahead as times of struggle, uncertainty, and perhaps more cyclones."

The conference, called to explore into reasons for the progressive deterioration of American family life, is attended by representatives of 127 organizations. Among delegates are lawyers, businessmen, doctors, housewives, teachers, social workers, clergymen, psychologists and psychiatrists.

Though privately sponsored, the conference has strong Government support. President Truman showed his "official, personal interest" by permitting use of the White House Tuesday for its first press conference.

Family Life Statistics

At the opening session last night, Johnston was followed by Dr. Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, who presented the report of a committee on American Families: the Factual Background, which he used as the basis for an exposition of "Family Economics—Trends in Social and Economic Patterns." The committee was headed by Miss Jane M. Hoey, director of the Bureau of Public Assistance of the FSA and brought together for the first time statistics on family life from all Government agencies.

Between 1790 and 1940, the report showed, families in the United States grew at a consistently more rapid rate than population. During the same period the size of the family grew progressively smaller, so that the family of 5.7 persons in 1790 had declined by 1947 to 3.6 persons.

Statistics on marriage and divorce, it said, are limited, but estimates are that both marriage and divorce increased more rapidly between 1867 and 1947 than the population, while divorces increased more than marriages. Since 1940, it said, there have been three million more than the normal number of marriages and one million more than the normal number of divorces.

Higher Costs a Factor

Increased costs of living, the report said, has had a marked effect on family life, particularly in reduction of hard money in the hands of those with moderate incomes. It found Washington the most expensive place in the United States, with an average family budget, at March, 1946, prices, of $2985 annually. By June, 1947, the Washington family's budget had climbed to $3458, as compared with $3007 in Houston and $3004 in New Orleans.

Family health, Clague reported, has received support in improved maternity and child care, better sanitation and increased immunization. Many families with low incomes, his report said, still suffer from inadequate diet, in general, those families suffer more frequent illness, more members are attacked by illness and illness is of longer duration than in families with higher incomes.

The report noted psychosomatic illnesses in children, induced by family tensions, which appear to be hereditary because the children tend to manifest the same symptoms most frequently found in other members of the family.

Mental Health Report

A report on "Dynamics of Family Interaction" was presented by Dr. Lawrence K. Frank, executive of the Central Commission of International Congress on Mental Health. The report was prepared by Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall, executive secretary of the National Council on Family Relations, and Dr. Reuben Hill, cochairman of a committee on the subject.

"The Family," the report said, "is the primary agent for basic mental health . . . Only the family can offer what is essential to guard the emerging personality and protect the mental health of the individual. Neither psychiatrists, psychologists nor social workers can substitute for this need."

The historic family pattern, it continued, no longer is suitable for the demands of modern living. The family, it said, is under constant pressure to meet these demands, and the youth is faced with complexities which did not exist a few decades ago.

"It is little wonder," the committee reported, "that many youths falter at the brink of the yawning chasm of autonomy and cling to the protective security of the parental family. Psychiatrists screening men of 18 and over for the recent war reported alarming losses of manpower through immaturity.

"It is easy to lay this toll in the lap of 'Mom,' as writers have done of late. It is a bit more difficult to realize with clarity the immensity of the job of growing up in this kind of world."

The report traced the family from its formation by marriage, its fruition in child-bearing, its responsibility in rearing its children and its readjustment after the children have gone out on their own. Breakdown of the family in the early stage of marriage is attributed partly to the fact that many young couples "have not been aware that a period of adjustment is a normal part of all marriages." Chief areas in which adjustment is necessary were given as:

"(1) Sex relations; (2) spending the family income; (3) social activities, recreation; (4) in-law relationships; (5 religion activities; (6) mutual friends. How these potential conflict situations are resolved and how soon they are resolved is fundamental to the happiness of the marriage partners."

The advent of children, the report said, requires fresh adjustments, as does each stage in the child's development. Eventually, it pointed out, the child himself must take on the job of adjustment along with his parents and the nature of his adjustments changes with his growth.

The child is in an atmosphere conducive to development, it continued, when each adult member of the family has been able to accept himself as he is, physically and mentally and when parents continue to grow personally and socially. The adolescent, it said, must be permitted to feel himself an independent person and is aided by being given jobs to do at home for which he is responsible.

After the children have grown up and left home, the report said, a new phase in family life has developed in which the parents are alone again and which presages the process of aging, which requires a new adjustment.

A brief conference orientation was given by Dr. Ernest G. Osborne of Teachers College, Columbia University and author of "Family Scrapbook," now appearing in The Washington Post.

Today will be devoted to section meetings followed by a plenary session tonight at Lisner Auditorium. Boris Shishkin, chief economist of the American Federation of Labor, will preside and Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, will speak on "Dealing With Forces of Disintegration in Family Life."

Daughter Admits Killing Father

Frances Korbelik — William Korbelik

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS

Dark-haired Frances Korbelik, 17, confessed yesterday in Wheaton, Ill., that she killed her father and hid his body in a woodpile in the basement. The girl said she shot her father, William Korbelik, 42, a steelworkers' union official, with a .22-caliber rifle when he came home drunk and tried to attack her last January 10. His decomposed, nude body was found last Sunday by the girl's mother

Bacon and Bread Ordered for British

Hoffman Says $33,500,000 Shipment By ECA Will Be Purchased in Canada

Bacon and bread worth $33,500,000 were started on their way to Great Britain yesterday under the European Recovery Program of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Britain was one of five nations that submitted their "letters of intent" yesterday that made them eligible for aid under the recovery program. The others were Belgium, Iceland, Ireland and China.

Administrator Paul G. Hoffman

ROGER LAPHAM
His mission, China

indicated that reconstruction aid to China will be stepped up. He announced that Roger D. Lapham, colorful former mayor of San Francisco, had been appointed to direct the special ECA mission to China.

Purchases in Canada

Lapham, now 64, completed a two-year term as San Francisco mayor last January. He was chosen because of his intimate knowledge of Far Eastern affairs, gained while president and chairman of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co. from 1925 to 1943. He will oversee the use of 643 million dollars earmarked by Congress for assistance to China.

The shipments to Britain will be purchased in Canada, Hoffman announced. They will include 11 million dollars worth of bacon, and 22½ million dollars worth of wheat and flour. Earlier letters of intent, making them eligible for assistance, were submitted by France, Italy, Austria, the Netherlands, Norway and Denmark.

Yesterday's action was designed to benefit both Canada and Great Britain. Canada will get much-needed American dollars, and England will get immediately-necessary foods.

Orders Total 108 Million

The "letters of intent" signify the intention of the nations to sign formal agreements later on the conditions of the four-year rehabilitation program. The orders for Great Britain brought the total outlay of ECA last night to almost 108 million dollars.

Meantime President Truman, in his first report to Congress on the 522-million dollar interim aid vote last December, declared that measure made it possible for the European Recovery Program to "build on sure foundations."

Interim aid, which was voted to assist France, Italy and Austria during the winter, was administered by the State Department. It has been superseded by Hoffman's ECA.

"A break in the flow of supplies during this period could have irreparably jeopardized what the long-range program is expected to accomplish," Mr. Truman told Congress.

"The effectiveness of interim aid has made it possible for the European Recovery Program to build on sure foundations which nowhere are undermined by the inevitable ravages of intolerable hunger and cold.

"No better proof is needed on the wisdom of providing this interim aid."

Top Appointments Announced

Two top-flight appointments were announced by Administrator Hoffman. They were Richard E. Bissell, economist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as assistant deputy director, and Eric L. Kohler, Chicago consulting accountant, as comptroller.

Bissell was executive secretary of President Truman's Committee on Foreign Aid, better known as the Harriman Committee, that outlined the policy for the European Recovery Program. He was employed by the War Shipping Administration during the war, and later was economic adviser to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

Kohler was formerly comptroller for the Tennessee Valley Authority from 1928 to 1931.

Cotton Trader Given Suspended Penalty in La.

The Agriculture Department yesterday gave Thomas Jordan, New Orleans cotton trader, a suspended penalty for alleged violation of the Commodity Exchange Act.

Thomas J. Flavin, the department's judicial officer, gave Jordan a penalty of 10 days' suspension as a commission merchant on futures commodity markets. But he ordered the penalty held in abeyance for two years on condition that Jordan obey the exchange act and government regulations relating to commodity trading.

The same action was taken with regard to Jordan's partnership, Thomas Jordan & Co. and Edmund H. Crane, a member of the company.

Cain Housing Plan Beaten in Senate

of the Senate-passed Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill.

Backers of public housing maintained that the amendment was an attempt to "scuttle" the T-E-W bill by offering those sections wanted by real estate interests so the rest of the T-E-W measure could die in the House.

Increases Loan Authority

The Senate-passen extension increases the loan authority of the Government to $5,600,000,000.

Defeat of Cain's proposal came on a roll call after Taft read to the Senate propaganda from the National Association of Home Builders calling for defeat of the T-E-W bill "in its entirety."

Taft said he did not say it was the purpose of anyone in the House, which earlier passed the year's extension, but it was clear the real estate lobby intended to scuttle the T-E-W bill by having the features they wanted passed in separate legislation.

Senator Francis Myers (D., Pa.) said public housing backers felt it was not only an attempt to scuttle housing but also an attempt to stab Taft in the back.

Didn't Refer to Cain

When Cain rose up to protest, Myers replied with a smile:

"Well, I would not say the knife was in the hands of the junior Senator from Washington."

Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Neb.) commented that apparently the House wanted to act in this manner, rather than acting on the housing program as a whole.

Senate Minority Leader Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) said the House should have an opportunity to vote on the whole program, and noted that if the House did not agree on any particular section it could defeat it.

"Since when did the House become so impotent," he demanded, "that it could not defeat a bill section by section, and since when did it become so tongue-tied it can't even talk about it?"

House Hearing Open

The House Banking and Currency Committee, headed by Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.), opened its hearings on the T-E-W bill yesterday. Walcott shares Cain's bitter opposition to public housing.

Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York told Congress yesterday there is a "desperate need" for low-cost and low-rental housing which private enterprise cannot supply. He urged House passage of the T-E-W bill to provide for 500,000 low-rent public housing units in five years. The measure is also designed to spur construction of 15 million homes in 10 years.

O'Dwyer's support for the housing bill came in a letter read to the House committee by Representative Abraham J. Multer (D., N. Y.). O'Dwyer said the T-E-W bill "is of primary importance to the City of New York, where the low-cost and low-rental housing situation is still extremely serious.

"Despite huge city and State programs," O'Dwyer said, "there is still a desperate need for this type of housing which cannot be supplied by, and which does not compete with, private construction."

30,000 Units in N. Y.

New York's mayor estimated Gotham's share of the public housing units would total 30,000, housing 120,000 persons.

The committee was also told by John Taylor Egan, Public Housing Commissioner, that there is an urgent need for the Government to expand its financing on low-rent housing. Egan said private enterprise "has nothing to fear" from the public housing provisions of the T-E-W bill. The bill, he pointed out, restricts low-rent public housing to those families private enterprise cannot adequately serve—and that, he said, is as it should be.

Senator Taft told the National Public Housing Conference in New York that the Nation's slums cannot be eliminated without Government intervention.

Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.) said the T-E-W bill is "a bargain this Nation cannot afford to pass up." Its benefits, Flanders maintained, will far outweigh its costs.

U. N. Association To Hear Welles, Cohen

Baltimore, May 5 (AP).—Former Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Benjamin Cohen, assistant secretary general of the United Nations, will address a dinner to be given by the United Nations Association of Maryland at the Southern Hotel tomorrow night.

The dinner will launch a campaign to raise $50,000 and increase the association's active membership to 50,000.

Shad Bake Planned By Corinthian Club

The Corinthian Yacht Club will hold its first shad bake in six years Sunday afternoon on the club grounds, and expects to be host to 350 members and guests.

Entertainment will be provided by a barbershop quartet, an accordianist and an amateur orchestra composed of members of the Corinthian and Capital Yacht Clubs.

Quarters of Social Security Unit Called 'Worst'

The present quarters of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Bureau were described yesterday as the "worst" housing of any Federal agency on the American mainland, at a hearing before a House Public Works Subcommittee.

The description was offered by W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of public buildings, in supporting a bill authorizing the construction of a $9,500,000 building in or around Washington for the unit of the Social Security Administration.

The bureau, "largest insurance business in the world," has its 4000 employes spread through a huge, warehouse-type building on the Baltimore waterfront under "shocking" conditions of noise, dirt and vermin, according to Commissioner Reynolds.

Representative Russell V. Mack (R., Wash.), a member of the committee, who had visited the Baltimore building, added that it was a fire hazard.

The bureau was intended to be housed in the new Social Security Building at Third st. and Independence ave. sw., but gave way to the War Production Board when the war came along. It's been in Baltimore since.

Will ½¢ a Pound halt inflation?

Following the lead of the United States Steel Corporation, the steel industry has refused to grant an equitable wage increase to steelworkers. United States Steel and some other companies . . . but few, very few . . . have announced price cuts. These cuts are less than ½ cent per pound of steel. We submit that the steel industry is in a position to make a sizeable, rather than a paltry, price reduction and still retain a sufficient profit margin to grant the Union's just demand for a real wage increase. These are the reasons why:

1 Since June of 1946, the effective end of OPA, to the beginning of 1948, the cost of living has increased 26⁵⁄₁₀% according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics Index, or thirty-four and seven-tenths cents per hour. During this same period, wages in the Steel industry have risen 17⅞% or twenty-two and three-tenths cents per hour. Workers in the steel industry have sustained a loss in real wages of 9⅛% or twelve and four-tenths cents per hour.

2 According to Department of Labor figures, the minimum budget required to maintain an average family and to provide its members with the necessities of life, is $3520 annually or $1.76 per hour based upon an average working year of 2,000 hours, which is approximately the hours worked by employees in steel last year. The average hourly earnings in the steel industry are $1.52 per hour resulting in a real deficit of twenty-three and four-tenths cents per hour for each hour worked. Their savings have been depleted.

Steelworkers are being forced into debt to make ends meet. Their family budgets are not balanced, and the average steelworker is less and less able to provide the necessities of life for his family. That is why we asked for a wage increase.

3 The steel industry can well afford to pay a real wage increase and at the same time cut prices substantially. In 1947 the profits of the steel industry exceeded five hundred million dollars . . . after taxes, a record high and an increase in excess of 55% over 1946, in itself a profitable year. United States Steel Corporation, the bellwether of the industry, enjoyed staggering profits last year of approximately $244,000,000, before Federal taxes and $153,000,000 after such taxes. This Corporation's profits in the year 1947 increased 73% over 1946.

4 The Union has done its part to halt inflation. It accepted a two-year contract in April of 1947, providing for a moderate wage increase, in the hope that this would help stabilize costs and prices and halt inflation. The steel industry used this moderate wage increase as an excuse to raise prices three times as much as the cost of the wage increase.

This action of the steel industry contributed to a new inflationary spiral. The union has fought to reinstate government controls and excess profits taxes which could impose some effective control over present inflationary trends. The steel industry has resisted restoration of effective price control.

5 The price decrease proposed by United States Steel Corporation and followed by few, very few, members of the industry, represents a decrease of slightly less than one, percent of the industry sales revenues in 1947. This price decrease is approximately $1.00 per ton. (And, remember, the industry increased prices $11.32 a ton, since April, 1947!) It is not even a ½ cent a pound. In fact, it isn't even ¼ cent a pound. Such a paltry decrease cannot halt inflation. Since its announcement the press has carried reports from other industries of price rises on various commodities.

6 If the steel industry were in good faith, they would have accepted the Union's offer to delay final action on the wage issue until the effect of this price decrease could be measured. But the industry refuses to execute supplemental agreements with the Union extending the time for wage negotiations to test the effect of this paltry price decrease.

7 The workers represented by the Union are contributing to lower costs by maintaining high production and by increasing labor productivity. For instance, in 1947 man-hours worked by steelworkers of the United States Steel Corporation increased by 18% over 1946, yet steel output increased by nearly 34%. Thus the output per man-hour during the past year has shown a large increase over 1946.

Despite the lack of cooperation shown by Steel in dealing with its workers; despite the industry's unfairness in refusing to recognize the real need of its employees; despite the industry's paltry lip service efforts to halt inflation with even less than ½ cent a pound price cut; despite the fact that last year's tremendous profits enable the industry to cut prices substantially and yet grant wage increases . . . The United Steelworkers will live up to its two-year, no strike contract with the steel industry. We are a responsible Union. We will honor our word and our obligations. The industry professes to believe in fairness to its workers and a long range spirit of cooperation with our Union. We leave to the public whether this profession is borne out in the industry's adamant and unjustified refusal to grant an equitable wage increase.

Woods Asks Firings On 157 Rent Boards

Housing Expediter's Probe Finds Only 109 Of Over 600 Groups 'Truly Representative'

By the United Press

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods revealed yesterday that his office has completed a check-up on "more than 600" local rent advisory boards in all parts of the country, and has found only 109 truly "representative."

The new rent control law gives local boards broad powers to recommend general or specific ceiling hikes or decontrol. But it stipulates that the boards must be "representative of the affected interests" in each community.

Woods said that as a result of his Nation-wide survey, he is asking State Governors to remove "some of the present members" of 157 local boards, and to nominate additional members to 439 boards.

Some Groups Overbalance

He said the ousters have been requested in cases where "one of the affected interest groups has been found to have a preponderance of membership on the existing board." He did not elaborate.

(The CIO and some consumer groups have charged that many local boards are "packed" with landlord representatives.)

Woods gave this breakdown of the cases in which he is asking Governors to nominate additional members to boards:

More tenant representatives needed—380 boards.

Governors Have 30 Days

Under the law, State Governors have 30 days within which to make nomination to local boards. If they fail to do so, Woods can make his own appointments.

Woods has asked all local boards to name their own chairman from the ranks of their impartial public representatives, rather than from tenant or landlord members.

The boards can recommend decontrol, rent hikes, or other adjustments in ceilings, with the approval of the Housing Expediter. If the expediter disagrees with a local board's recommendation, the dispute is automatically thrown into a special three-judge Federal Court for decision.

Power Plant Called Threat To Airport

Federal and commercial aviation officials yesterday expressed fears that 193-foot smokestacks on a new power plant in Alexandria, Va., will hamper development of all-weather flying at National Airport.

The huge plant, being built by Braddock Light & Power Co., to supply power to the Potomac Electric Power Co., is in Northeast Alexandria, 8200 feet south of the end of National's north-south runway.

Its stacks, originally planned for 284 feet, have been scaled down on plans to 193 feet, same height as those on Pepco's Buzzards Point plant across the river. Air Transport Association spokesmen say the stack height will force raising of ceiling minimums and divert heavy payloads from the airport annually.

A Pepco spokesman said yesterday that company representatives have been meeting with the Civil Aeronautics Administration, but he added, the "situation is certainly not a controversy."

A report that the Air Coordinating Committee, which coordinates Federal air policy, would ask Pepco to halt construction of the plant until the matter could be settled was not verified.

However, John Sherman, secretary of the committee, said "something" might develop on the matter early next week.

Pepco said the plant is at the western edge of the 3600-foot-wide approach zone, which was widened after the company was committed to the project.

Auctioneers Protest Permit Change

The Commissioners were urged yesterday to nullify an April 27 amendment of police regulations permitting out-of-town auctioneers to work here on a temporary basis.

Attorney Ringgold Hart, spokesman for a group of local auctioneers who appeared before the city heads, charged the amendment was adopted without a public hearing or consultation with Washington citizens and business groups.

He told reporters the Commissioners "apparently were unaware of" the fact that the original regulation was adopted more than 20 years ago to keep "fly-by-night" auctioneers from operating.

The Commissioners passed the amendment at the request of Thurman Arnold, executor of the estates of Evalyn Walsh McLean and J. R. McLean, who s d the auction of their personal property beginning May 8 required "special qualifications" of a N. Y. auctioneer.

Hart, who maintained local auctioneers were capable of handling the sale, nevertheless did not protest against the temporary license which the Commissioners granted yesterday to Meredith Galleries of New York.

Md. Milk Cooperative Formed

About 100 farmers in the vicinity of Cumberland, Md., have formed a milk producers cooperative that will serve the Embassy Dairy here—exclusively and "indefinitely."

Embassy President James J. Ward said the new Cooperative Milk Service, Inc., is made up of former independent producers who have been shipping to Embassy via the dairy's receiving station at Cumberland.

Following creation of the organization, Ward said, the co-op bought Embassy's plant for $100,000 anad signed a contract to supply the dairy indefinitely.

Ward and officials of CMS hope the new setup will attract many independent farmers who neither ship to Washington nor are members of the big Maryland-Virginia Producers' Association, from which Embassy does not buy.

Antitrust charges against MVPA, which supplies the bulk of local milk, were dismissed in District Court last week.

Ward said additional members may be attracted to CMS since the organization could help producers who like Washington's higher prices, but who must ship elsewhere because they cannot meet District health requirements, or for some other reason.

Current production at the Cumberland receiving plant is about 5000 gallons daily. Ward said it is hoped this can be increased to about 10,000. MVPA handles about 5000 daily. Ward said it is hoped this can be increased to about 10,000. MVPA handles about 120,000 gallons a day and has some 1500 members, Ward said.

D. C. Women Smoke Pipes Of All Colors

The Washington Post
NASTIA KRAKOW

Bringing milady her pipe and slippers may not be so farfetched as you think.

For some Washington women are smoking pipes, although they usually send their husbands in to buy them.

This was learned yesterday from one of the downtown pipe specialty shops which offers small meerschaum pipes for those of the femininity who so prefer.

These pipes, which come in all shades of color, hold about a third as much tobacco as the sturdier men's pipes. There is one lady around town—identity unrevealed—who swears by such pipes, has her own pipe rack, and buys aromatic tobaccos from which she blends her own mixtures, according to one pipe salesman. Mostly, however, the women stick to cigarette holders for their smoking pleasure.

What's behind the "Esso" Sign?...

THOUSANDS OF MOTORISTS know the red-white-and-blue ESSO Oval as "The Sign of Happy Motoring." It is their roadside mark of quality in gasoline and motor oil, of fine Atlas Tires and Batteries and other motoring supplies.

But perhaps the most outstanding thing behind the Esso Sign is not just the great laboratories and refineries of Esso Standard Oil...

Instead... the greatest and most unusual thing behind that familiar sign is probably just the people who work at Esso Standard Oil and the kind of jobs they have!

Workers who have not had an important strike or labor disturbance in over 30 years! ... Workers who today average over 14 years apiece of service with the company! ...

Workers with regular, paid vacations each year. Workers with good wage scales and steady work. Workers with retirement income assured for life. Workers with opportunities for advancement, with company training to help them get it! ...

These and other unusual employee benefits result from Esso Standard Oil policy that was set up many years ago. It is a policy that believes good jobs draw and hold good workers.

And it's a policy that gets worthwhile results for all concerned—*including, right now, the greatest production and delivery of petroleum products in our history. Wholesale Prices On Soap Cut 6 Pct.

Woman Accused Of Robbing Dorms

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
LILLIAN LUCILLE BECKER, 33, of Topanga, Calif., sobs in a courthouse at Chestertown, Md., where she faces charges of stealing $81 from a girls' dormitory at Washington College. Meanwhile, girls from half a dozen colleges in the East were on their way to Chestertown to see if their belongings are among the clothing, jewelry and money found in a car driven by the woman. Police said she acknowledged ransacking Reid Hall at Washington College and implicated herself in similar incidents at other schools, where coeds have reported seeing a strange woman in their dormitories

Reduction Expected In D. C. Area Stores Within Few Days

Major soap producers yesterday announced a 6 per cent price cut at the wholesale level.

The reduction, expected to be reflected in retail prices locally within a few days, was announced by Procter & Gamble Co., Lever Bros. Co., and Colgate-Palmolive Peet, according to the Associated Press.

The manufacturers said the price cut was occasioned by a decline in raw material costs.

One Washington merchant reported considerable "resistance" to soap purchases in the past few months.

"The soap people have been trying to put their sales over with coupons but their prices have been high," he declared. "Now I guess they've seen the light."

Another market manager said he had noted no decline in soap sales but attributed this primarily to "contests" sponsored by some soap manufacturing firms. He anticipated a decline in purchases because "everyone is loaded with it."

The supervisor for a chain grocery said sales have been "pretty steady" over the past several months.

Haircut Price Goes to $1.25 At One Shop

Haircuts are up to $1.25 at the Carnes barber shop, 1903 Massachus etts ave. nw., believed to be the first shop to step over $1 here.

Dallas Carnes, who has been running the five-chair shop off Dupont Circle for about 20 years, had his own answer yesterday to whether this was the beginning of another general haircut price rise:

"If the others don't do it, they'll starve to death."

Carnes' shop is one of about 50 nonunion shops among the city's 360 or more. The $1 price set by union vote last June 1 marked a 25-cent increase.

Carnes posted the new price May 1. He said there have been no complaints.

At the District Barbers' Examining Board, however, one telephone caller with a fresh Carnes haircut thought $1.25 was too much, according to Tony J. Durso, secretary-treasurer.

Carnes said his barbers get 81.4 cents out of the $1.25 and the rest must cover overhead that has increased in some cases "as much as 100 per cent." He guarantees his shoeshine boy $40 a week, he said.

His shop was also the first to hit $1, he said, preceding the increase in other shops by several years.

"I was also first to cut out shaving nearly four years ago. I was losing 6 cents on every shave then. But I was first, too, in improving working conditions and wages. I have four of the best men in the city and my shop is clean."

Wallace Backers Again Rebuffed At Glen Echo

A second request by Montgomery County's Progressive Party to use the Glen Echo (Md.) Fire House for a Henry Wallace rally has been rejected by the fire board.

Party leaders will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Silver Spring Dispensary Building to decide whether a third request will be made. S. A. Abbott, publicity chairman of the county party, said.

The fire board's decision was forwarded to the party by letter Tuesday, Abbott said. A rally set for April 25 at the fire house was cancelled after the fire board denied permission to the party on April 23. At that time Henry T. McCuen, fire board president, and a justice of the peace, said arrangements for use of the hall were "only tentative" and that it was not "a political thing."

New Parleys Expected in Railroad Strike to Avert Walkout, Seizure

peared probable that an announcement of the Government's next step might not be forthcoming for a day or two. There were reports that the three unions involved and the railroad managements planned to sit quietly for a period to see what the other side would do.

May Just Sit Tight

Steelman, meanwhile, might do the same thing. Yesterday, he heard a detailed report from Frank J. Douglass, chairman of the National Mediation Board, on the history of the dispute and of his fruitless efforts in Chicago to get an agreement.

The unions, with 190,000 members, are the Brotherhoods of Firemen and Enginemen, Locomotive Engineers, and Switchmen. They want a 30 per cent or $3 a day wage increase and some changes in operating rules.

The railroads have accepted a recommendation from a Federal fact-finding board for an increase of 15½ cents an hour—about a 12.4 per cent increase.

Federal attorneys are convinced that the legal authority exists to seize the roads, and have the Government operate them.

Such a step, however, will not stop a walkout, but only "irritate" it, one union leader said yesterday. He is David B. Robertson, head of the Firemen and Enginemen.

But in Cleveland, Alvanley Johnston, grand chief of the Engineers, said he wants to "obey the law." The implication was that if the Government seized the roads, he would not strike.

Arrangements in anticipation of a strike got under way yesterday. The Missouri Pacific and the Louisville & Nashville lines announced they would accept no shipments of perishable goods and livestock after Friday. Many other railroads were expected to take a similar action, soon.

Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway System here, and C. McD. Davis, president of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad in Wilmington, Del., both issued statements indicating that they would close down their lines if a strike materialized.

Meat Talks Stop

In the meat-packing situation, there was apparently no hope of settlement.

The talks were understood to be at a standstill because of the union's refusal to accept a 9-cent hourly wage increase offered by the companies and the packing concerns' refusal to boost the amount.

The four companies are Swift, Cudahy, Wilson and Armour.

J. E. Wilson, general superintendent for Swift, said "there are no prospects of reaching an agreement with the union for settling the strike." He said "the company has commenced operations in the struck plants, and production is rapidly increasing."

Wilson's statement was issued as the talks with Cyrus Ching, director of the Federal Conciliation Service, came to a halt.

The strike started March 16. The CIO packinghouse workers are demasding a 29-cent an hour increase.

Senate Passes Bill to Found Science Board

The Senate yesterday unanimously adopted a revised version of the National Science Foundation bill which President Truman vetoed last year.

President Truman called the measure as originally passed "administratively unworkable," although he said he wanted such a foundation to oversee the Government's multimillion-dollar annual investment in research.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) told the Senate yesterday the measure has been so changed as to meet Mr. Truman's objections to the original bill.

President Truman complained particularly about a provision which would have given the 24-member board of the foundation, rather than the President, the authority to select a director.

The revised act provides for the President to nominate the director subject to Senate confirmation.

Woman's National Democratic Club Seeking $10,000

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, president of the Woman's National Democratic Club and former U. S. Minister to Norway, said yesterday the club needs $10,000 to fireproof its headquarters at 1526 New Hampshire ave.

"We're going to have a good time in the club this year if the Republicans get in," she said. "Some members will pull out like rats deserting a sinking ship."

Chinese Dollar Sinks To Record Low Mark

Shanghai, China, May 5 (U.P.)—The Chinese dollar sank to a record low of 935,000 to a United States dollar today with every indication it would drop to 1,000,000 Thursday or Friday.

The Chinese dollar was quoted at 730,000 to the U. S. dollar earlier this week. Shortly after the war it was 12,000 to the dollar and in the 1930's it was 20 per dollar.

Strike Called on Six New York Transit Lines

New York, May 5 (AP).—A strike against six privately owned transit lines carrying 3,500,000 passengers a day has been called for 3 a. m. (EST) Friday.

The strike threat—the third in three weeks—was made last night by the Transport Workers Union (CIO) in an attempt to force an immediate pay increase of 24 cents an hour for 7300 workers.

The lines operate the buses and trolleys in Manhattan, the Bronx, lower Westchester County and part of Queens.

The new strike move was announced two hours after the Board of Transportation gave final official approval of a 24-cent-an-hour increase for the 40,000-odd employes of the city-owned subway, elevated and surface lines.

Lewis Asks Court To Dismiss Suit

Van Horn Plea for Injunction Against Pensions Made in Bad Faith, He Says

John L. Lewis yesterday asked the District Court to throw out an injunction suit, brought by the coal operators' representative, to prevent the miners' $100-a-month pension plan from taking effect.

Lewis charged that the representative, Ezra Van Horn, the operators' trustee on the miners' welfare and retirement fund, had not come to court with "clean hands."

Van Horn, on April 21, asked for an injunction to block the pension plan, which Lewis and the third trustee, Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) had agreed to. Lewis' answer, filed by his attorneys yesterday, said Van Horn was engaging in "studied efforts" to frustrate and delay the purposes of the fund.

Van Horn's whole purpose, the answer continued, was to prevent the activation of a retirement fund, although that was one of the agreed upon purposes of the welfare trust.

"It is axiomatic," the answer said, "that a trustee must act in utmost good faith in the performance of his duties."

Furthermore, Lewis argued, the court had no right to set aside the pension plan because it was properly authorized—under the law and under the trust agreement—by a majority of the trustee board.

Lewis conceded that there had been differences between him and Van Horn. But he said, one of the differences—over election of a third trustee—was resolved when Bridges was accepted. The other differences—over selection of a pension plan—was legally resolved by "a majority" of the trustees, i.e., himself and Bridges.

The court therefore could not substitute its judgment, or interfere with the operation of the pension plan, once its terms were lawfully agreed upon by a majority vote of the trustees, it was argued.

Bill Would Supplant GSI With New Federal Corporation

Replacement of Government Services Inc. by a new Federal corporation to provide cafeteria and related services in Federal and District buildings is proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.).

The new organization, to be known as Federal Building Services Corp., would take over the operations of GSI in Federal buildings both here and over the country, but would be prohibited from operations outside of them. GSI activities in national parks would be assumed temporarily, for a limit of two years.

The bill provides that the business affairs of the FBSC be conducted by a board of directors, consisting of the Public Buildings Commissioner as chairman and four other members appointed to serve at the pleasure of the Federal Work administrator. The four would be selected from officials and employes of the executive establishment, serve without compensation, but have their expenses paid.

Employes of FBSC would be given, in effect, the employment benefits of civil service workers, have their pay set by wage boards, and be subject to loyalty tests.

GSI, a two-million-dollar nonstock membership corporation, operating 120 units, including 42 cafeterias in Federal buildings, has been under attack in both House and Senate for "loose" administration and questionable practices. The Senate Civil Service Committee announced several week ago that a subcommittee was drafting a bill to set up a successor corporation.

Salesmanship Is Topic

The role of salesmanship in the national economy will be discussed at a salesmen's rally Thursday at 6 p. m. in the Presidential Room of the Statler Hotel under sponsorship of Sales Executives Club of Washington. Principal speaker will be Zenn Kauffman, merchandising director of Philip Morris & Co., Ltd.

Denham Holds Union Shop Votes Needless

Official statistics of the National Labor Relations Board, released yesterday, gave point to recent moves to abandon union shop elections.

At the same time, the NLRB's general counsel, Robert E. Denham, said that the election requirement in the Taft-Hartley Act was a needless burden on his agency.

The board's statistics, for the month of March, showed that of 2755 union shop elections conducted by the board, 98 per cent resulted in authorizing this form of union security. The percentage was in line with the results of votes in previous months.

Board officials feel, therefore, that the election procedure is fairly academic or meaningless. When a union shop is negotiated with an employer, in almost every case the workers involved support it.

The Taft-Hartley Act specifies, however, that a union shop cannot be installed unless a majority of the employes vote for it in a secret election. This week, Senator Ives (R., N. Y.) and Representative Landis (R., Ind.) indicated they would offer a bill to strike this requirement from the law.

The congressional "watchdog" committee on the new labor law also announced it will open hearings later this month on amendments to the act, including the question of the union shop elections.

Yesterday, speaking before the Upholsters' Union, Denham departed from the prepared text of his speech to add that the present requirement is burdensome and apparently not needed.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment, sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Family Epilogue

The epilogue of a drama common to American life will be enacted in the auction Saturday of the fabulous furnishings of Friendship, home of the late Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean. This dispersal of the treasures of the McLean dynasty is symbolic of what has happened and is still happening to the long accumulated lares and penates of many a wealthy family that proudly thought it was building and furnishing its solid mansion for posterity. This week a curious public, for an admission fee, is surveying the handsome McLean tapestries, the richly upholstered chairs and sofas, the valuable oil paintings, antique jewelry, exquisite linens and laces, the glass-topped tables that serve as display cases for objects of art garnered throughout the world, the collections of china animals and crystal birds, and other furnishings, all valued at a quarter of a million dollars. These have been assembled in and passed down from at least three other family mansions. Soon they will be widely scattered.

Only a few weeks ago one of the last of New York's magnificent old residences, the Schwab mansion, erected at a cost of two and a half million dollars, and with walls seemingly built for eternity, crumbled at the hands of wreckers. Its art treasures and furnishings had already been dispersed. On lower Park Avenue, Henry Wallace conducts his presidential campaign from the last surviving brownstone mansion in that area. All over the country the big houses have long been going, and now the physical limitations and high cost of modern living make it necessary to sell and scatter family treasures. Rarely does a home and its heirlooms continue as a family unit into the third generation.

Many influences are back of this—smaller families, lack of servants, higher taxes and cost of upkeep, more informal social life, changed living habits and tastes, American restlessness. There is also the growing tendency in this country of young married couples to start new lives in new surroundings. And a strong psychic influence is the uncertainty of the times. In the pre-1914 era, when many of the family mansions were built and their treasures amassed, people felt that they could dig in permanently for a familiar and secure world lying ahead. Now they probably sense that it is better to be prepared to "travel light."

Power And Security

Governor Dewey's proposal that New York State and the Canadian Province of Ontario jointly develop a 300-million-dollar power project on the St. Lawrence River comes at an apparently favorable moment. Canada is thinking strongly in terms of international collaboration. Her Minister of External Affairs, Mr. Louis St. Laurent, told Parliament last week that, pending the strengthening of the United Nations, Canada should join any group of free states that might be formed as an effective guarantee of the peace. His remarks left no doubt that Canada would welcome the expansion of the so-called union of western European nations into an Atlantic community of states with a common defense policy.

The trend of world events makes closer ties between the United States and Canada inevitable, in our opinion. Both are working toward greater integration of the free world in the spirit of the United Nations Charter. That movement can be pushed by a progressive merging of the economies and the defense planning of these two North American countries. The St. Lawrence project, which would be of immense benefit to both, fits neatly into this picture. And since Congress has again delayed action, there seems to be no reason why New York and Ontario should not jointly proceed with the harnessing of the St. Lawrence's power, without in any way prejudicing future development of the river for navigation.

The power project could proceed upon agreement between New York and Ontario if it should meet with the approval of the International Joint Commission set up under an already existing treaty between the United States and Canada. That commission has authority to permit changes in the natural level of boundary streams and the diversion of water from such streams. A. O. Stanley, chairman of the United States section of the commission, has long contended that development of St. Lawrence power can be obtained quicker by this means than by waiting for Congress to act. Launching of the project in the months ahead as a great international cooperative venture would certainly strengthen the forces that are pulling the democratic nations together.

Equal Protection

The Supreme Court decision forbidding judicial enforcement of restrictive realty covenants based on race is perhaps the most effective step in the emancipation of American Negroes since Abraham Lincoln struck off their chains in 1863. Ghetto life is not liberty. And the progressive confinement of Negroes to ever contracting, ever more squalid, slum sections of American cities, in the North no less than in the South, has been a root cause of all the other disadvantagements suffered by their race. From it has flowed the high incidence of disease among Negroes, the tendency to juvenile delinquency and crime, the principal ground for segregation in schools, playgrounds and places of public entertainment, the extortionate rentals which sapped Negro earnings, the cramped conditions which stultified the development of Negro children. The stamp of the ghetto, in other words, has given the Negro just those attributes which have made him seem an undesirable neighbor to so many whites.

No one need either hope or fear that the Supreme Court's action will change this situation quickly. The ghetto wall is merely breached, not demolished. As the court made clear, restrictive covenants remain valid where the contracting parties wish to observe them; and they will continue, no doubt, to exclude Negroes from many areas. That is a social consideration. Economic considerations will, for a long time at least, prove an even more formidable barrier so far as the more expensive and "fashionable" white residential sectors are concerned. Thus the depreciation of real estate values feared by the defenders of restrictive covenants is unlikely. All that the Supreme Court has done is to strike down a legal barrier to the gradual integration of Negro citizens in the American society — an integration which is the necessary eventual solution of a dilemma burdensome to white and colored Americans alike.

Great credit for the insight which led to the Supreme Court decision is due Justice Henry W. Edgerton of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. When that court upheld the enforcement of a local restrictive covenant on the ground that the issue had already been decided by the Supreme Court, he insisted in an extraordinarily trenchant, illuminating dissent that only the validity of the covenants themselves, not the validity of judicial enforcement, had previously been passed upon. And he argued that courts, being instruments of government, may not do what Legislatures are forbidden to do under the Constitution.

Once this distinction was recognized, as it was by Mr. Chief Justice Vinson speaking for a unanimous Supreme Court, it followed inescapably that the enforcement of racial covenants by injunction violated the Fifth Amendment, the Fourteenth Amendment and the Civil Rights Act. In the Missouri and Michigan cases before the Supreme Court, the Chief Justice grounded his verdict, without going any further, upon the conclusion that "in these cases the States have acted to deny petitioners the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment." In the District case, he held simply that "it is not consistent with the public policy of the United States to permit Federal courts in the Nation's Capital to exercise general equitable powers to compel action denied the State courts where such State action has been held to be violative of the guaranty of the equal protection of the laws."

The Constitution, in brief, is a shield for the protection of all citizens. And no agency of government acting under its authority may make distinction among classes of citizens in the application of the laws. The reaffirmation of this great principle at this juncture in the world's affairs will serve certainly to enhance the prestige of the United States and the value of American citizenship.

Bribing Patriotism

Representative Leo Allen's scheme to substitute a $1000 enlistment bonus for the draft shows an unimaginative disregard for the democratic tradition of equal responsibility of all citizens for the common defense. On moral grounds alone it is indefensible. Worse than that, however, it reflects the dangerous idea that security can be bought with money alone, in much the same way as feudal lords or even American "gentlemen" of Civil War days hired mercenaries to do their fighting for them. It implies that patriotism is a mere dollars and cents quality purchasable by the highest bidder.

Theodore Roosevelt in a time of crisis once wrote of the need to use the collective power freely and unhesitatingly. "And yet," he added, "No exercise of collective power will ever avail if the average individual does not keep his or her sense of personal duty, initiative and responsibility." Security in the atomic age, or the relative security we can reasonably expect to attain, will not come easily or in a single package. It will require sacrifice, in one form or another, by every American. As a people we Americans are prone to talk about our privileges under the democratic form of government. The time has come to consider seriously the corollary duties which those privileges entail.

Selective service has become one of those duties. The armed forces desperately need men to fill the new quotas Congress is in the process of approving. It has proved impossible, in spite of all the emoluments thrown in to date to attract enough volunteers to bring the services even to their old statutory level. It is, of course, possible that an additional $1000 bangle might have different results. But if the country is in a defense emergency, then it is perilous in the extreme to be talking about an expedient sop which would merely provide a convenient dodge for evading the responsibility all persons must share.

To be sure, young men of draft age should not be called upon to bear the whole burden of preparedness. In addition to materiel, the defense program also requires controls over the national economy in the form of allocations and priorities. Some of these preferential controls are included in the selective service bill reported out by the House Armed Services Committee, which is properly the initiator of military legislation. Representative Allen, however, has chosen to delay granting a rule to the draft bill until his proposal has "time to jell." This is the same Representative Allen, incidentally, who as chairman of the Rules Committee is still sitting on universal military training legislation approved by the Armed Services Committee more than nine months ago. It is to be hoped that Mr. Allen's colleagues on Capitol Hill will sense the bankruptcy in what patently is a last frenzied attempt to stave off the draft with a shoddy subterfuge. Mr. Allen says that his proposal for buying enlistments is his own idea and he has not discussed it with anyone. He should have kept it to himself.

Invisible Enemy

A great deal has been said about the possibility of an all-out attack on cancer similar to the concentrated effort that produced the atomic bomb. Certainly cancer is a serious enough menace to warrant such attention—it accounted for an estimated 189,400 deaths in the United States last year. The multimillion dollar approach is one that stimulates the imagination. The fallacy in such an approach is that an answer to this disease lies in research, and at the present time there simply are not enough scientists trained in such work to enable funds of great magnitude to be spent intelligently. Hence efforts can now be best directed toward encouraging and expanding training and research—especially in fields of such tremendous potentialities as radioisotopes—and at the same time in concentrating on public education to insure early detection of cancer.

One such effort is that of the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory, for which ground will be broken at Bar Harbor, Me., today. This institution's work was largely disrupted by the disastrous forest fire last October. It has had a unique function in supplying many of the inbred strains of mice used in cancer research. The public appeal for 1½ million dollars to assist in rebuilding the laboratory is something of sufficient worth to need little additional emphasis.

Another endeavor with which the public is perhaps more familiar is that of the American Cancer Society. Currently the society is conducting a campaign for $16,042,000, of which the Washington quota is $175,000. The extension of the drive to May 17 reemphasizes the importance of not overlooking this work. The money thus raised is apportioned three ways—in research grants, for education, and for clinics and other service to cancer patients. Last year, for example, some $200,000 was allocated to the District division. This was spent on projects approved by the National Research Council in the form both of research grants and of support of operating agencies such as the Warwick Memorial Clinic at George Washington University.

From 30 to 50 per cent of all cancer cases can be arrested if they are discovered in time. The field for education thus is tremendous. Already the American Society and allied efforts have had impressive results in breaking down Victorian taboos against the very mention of cancer. There is, moreover, reason to believe that at least some of the recent apparent decrease in cancer deaths is the fruit of better diagnosis, which in itself is the result of education. Educational as well as research activities are of course dependent largely on public contributions. The 16 million dollars the American Cancer Society is asking is indeed a small sum to pay for exposure of an enemy which during World War II killed twice as many persons as died in combat.

Pension Squabble

Ezra Van Horn, operator-trustee on the board of the miners' pension fund, has followed up his petition for an injunction to prevent payment of pensions, as provided under the Lewis-Bridges agreement, by a warning to banks holding the fund on deposit that any money paid out without his signature would be at their own risk. We should not venture to pass judgment on the legal points at issue in the contest between Mr. Van Horn and the other members of the board. But it does seem to us most high-handed and irresponsible conduct for Messrs. Lewis and Bridges to go ahead with plans for carrying out an agreement the legality of which is under attack.

Moreover, it is sheer recklessness to pay pension benefits of the contemplated amount without first determining whether contributions to the fund will permit such a high scale of payments to be maintained. For the protection of the miners as well as the operators, Mr. Van Horn is, in our opinion, justified in demanding that before payments begin, questions of eligibility should be settled. Authoritative decisions should also be reached concerning allocation of fund resources to the various welfare purposes for which the fund was established and a detailed written agreement should be drawn up as contemplated by the 1947 wage contract between the UMW and the operators.

Draft Not Needed

President Truman's proposal for selective service has been proved unnecessary as a result of the clarified international scene. The Italian elections resulted in a defeat for the Communists. Although the election results were influenced by American dollars, it is clear that selective service was not needed, as Mr. Truman implied it would be, to stem the Communist tide.

Moreover, Secretary of the Army Royall told Senate and House committees that "war is not imminent." And General Clay, the American commander in Germany, on March 25 said that the present conflict "is a political one and not a military one."

Even General Bradley told the Senate Armed Services Committee that if selective service should pass and the size of the Army should be increased, the Army would not increase American strength in Europe but would actually withdraw 3000 men. This is no evidence of a crisis and no justification of a draft. We certainly don't need thousands of new soldiers in this country.

A further reason for believing that a peacetime draft is unnecessary is seen in the testimony of General Spaatz and Admiral Denfeld that the Air Force and the Navy can rely entirely on volunteers. Only the Army wants men by compulsion.

The Army could get all the volunteers it needs if it would accept the Doolittle report which recommended modifying the officer caste system and improving military courts so that the enlisted man really had a chance. Decent housing for enlisted men with families, and the release of uniformed men from clerical jobs which civilians could perform, would improve the Army's manpower situation.

The Army is rejecting about half of its applicants for enlistment because it has raised its passing grade from 70 to 80 in the Army general classification test. Not every man in the Army needs a lot of education. A draft certainly doesn't seem to be justified when the Army could get all the volunteers it needs.

These and many other facts which have not been widely publicized need to be carefully weighed by Americans before establishing a draft which may set our minds in the direction of war.

Arlington Candidates

For the past two years, at least, the cause of Government folks living in Arlington has been espoused by an organization variously known as the League of Independent Voters and the Better Government League. Their rallying cry has been their stated solicitude for the welfare of the semidisfranchised Government folks. The Hatch Act has been deplored as discriminatory legislation which has kept Arlington from utilizing some of its best citizens by virtue of the fact that they can't run for or hold office under the banner of either of the two recognized political parties.

On April 28 they had the opportunity through the efforts of Congressmen Howard Smith of Virginia and Lansdale Sasscer of Maryland to take up the cudgels where it would do the most good, at a public hearing before the Civil Service Commissioners. Representatives of both parties from Maryland and Virginia spoke ably and appealed forcibly for a ruling from the commission which would permit Government employes to participate in local partisan politics.

One voice was raised in what the concensus of those present decided was in opposition to the general tenor of the appellants. It was the voice of Mr. Arthur F. Souther, who, I am reliably informed, actually represents the views of one of the founding fathers of the Better Government League, Mr. Harley Williams. Mr. Souther appeared to be absolutely against a relaxation of the present rulings and stated that he wanted nonpartisan rights extended to the Federal level, or something.

Of course, I hasten to point out that my informants as to Mr. Souther's connections could be wrong. Adopting that premise for the moment, it leaves no alternative but to point out that if Mr. Souther didn't represent the Better Government League or Mr. Harley Williams, neither the organization nor the individual was represented at least to the extent of taking active part in the proceedings. "T-E-W Housing Bill"

I was much interested in your April 25 editorial entitled, "T-E-W Housing Bill." The justification for public housing as expressed in your editorial is that "millions of self-supporting American families cannot provide themselves with decent housing." With that premise you conclude that it is the duty of the Government to provide them with homes.

Does not the same reasoning apply to those who are without "decent" clothes and "decent" food, and that this deficiency should likewise be supplied by the Government? Is this what you advocate? FRANK LYON.

Ruling Ourselves

As a native Washingtonian I want to express great appreciation to The Washington Post for its championship of home rule for the District of Columbia.

Although there are many cultural advantages available to those growing up in Washington, I have always felt inadequately educated as an American citizen. Never have I had the opportunity to observe the process of local self-government—the basis of our American system, to learn its advantages and pitfalls or to experience the creative, positive action of directly effecting change for the good of the community.

Without this education I have a far less intelligent understanding of the events in our national life and know less well how to write other peoples' Congressmen. I welcome the opportunity of home rule and expect the Congress to grant us this measure of self-reliance.

Oleo And Principle

In all the discussion incident to the removal of oleomargarine taxes, there has never been a reference by either proponents or opponents of the removal of the shameful and clearly unconstitutional discrimination against the marketing of oleomargarine to any principle that may be involved. From start to finish it has been a contest between the members of Congress who represent the dairy interests and, opposed to them, the members who represent the soy-bean oil and cottonseed-oil interests.

The decision to be arrived at would seem to depend upon which of these two sets of industrial interests is able with its peculiar inducements to muster the greater number of votes, and not at all upon an adjustment arrived at after an intelligent and honest consideration of the principles inherent in our Bill of Rights.

Electric Power And Defense

Statements appearing in a story in The Washington Post for May 2, to the effect that unidentified "Air Force officials" believe the proposed 70-group Air Force can be attained without any effect upon civilian economy, are as obviously naive as the contentions of last fall that the United States could undertake the recovery of Europe without curtailing domestic consumption of basic goods.

Unfortunately, there are still too many people who think air forces and armies and navies are created out of mere legislative fiat or an executive order. All of them still take men and materials and machinery.

The statement that "aluminum is abundant in the United States" is about the most ill-informed remark I have seen in years. The qualifying comment that "Since the war ended, the aluminum industry has been running at far less than capacity" indicates an absolute lack of background knowledge, either on the part of the reporter or the "Air Force official" (still unidentified) who made the statement.

The facts are that aluminum production in the United States today is short of sufficient to supply civilian demands, particularly because of its increasing use to replace even scarcer steel. The aluminum industry is operating at about one half potential capacity for one reason only—an acute shortage of industrial electrical energy, the most essential "raw material" of this metal. If the electric power supply were ample, producers could sell from 10 per cent to 30 per cent more aluminum for consumer goods right now. Obviously, then, any increased use for aircraft must be taken from commercial consumption.

As Representative Walt Horan so ably pointed out in the House on April 12, our peak wartime aluminum demand for all purposes was about 3,700,000,000 pounds annually, of which the most we could produce in this country was 2,500,000,000 pounds. The rest had to be imported (and the United States paid the cost of building plants in Canada and elsewhere to produce it). At present, the capacity in operation totals only 1,300,000,000 pounds and the national stockpile has been reduced to zero.

Since the end of the war, six of the largest aluminum plants have been dismantled or cannibalized to the point where they can never again be used. Of the plants now operating, none is running at capacity, but every one has orders on file for more electric power whenever it becomes available. If the Air Force demanded stepped-up production tomorrow, the power could be obtained only by taking electricity away from some other users having lower priority. The same story holds with magnesium and the ferro-alloys needed for engine parts.

In spite of these facts, some of the same people who are demanding an increased aircraft production program are at the same time trying to block the first essential means of meeting that program—the construction of the Federal hydroelectric dams and power plants necessary to make available the millions of kilowatts which must be "frozen" into aluminum before aircraft can be manufactured. In the Pacific Northwest, location of the cheapest and most efficient sources of electric power in the world, the power shortage is so severe that many vital plants are on an "interruptible" power basis.

There is no other way of offsetting this power shortage than the speedy construction of McNary, Foster Creek and Hungry Horse Dams, and the installation of the remaining generators on order for Grand Coulee Dam. Yet some of those who demand rearmament most loudly are trying to characterize those projects as "boondoggles."

Anyone who thinks use of electrical energy for defense purposes has no effect on domestic economy should read the Federal Power Commission's recent report on consumption of fuels for electric power. It clearly indicated the most extreme increase in consumption of fuel oil was for power generation. Eastern residents who shivered last winter derived little comfort from the fact that millions of barrels of oil were burned to provide industrial power, which could have been supplied by hydroelectric dams in the Northwest. Increased aluminum production next winter will make this situation more acute—unless our unidentified "Air Force officials" wake up to the fact that an aluminum plant can be shut down for reasons other than a lack of market.

Our defense leaders can do all the planning they want and can have Congress pass all the laws they want but we still will have nothing but paper defenses in this country unless we get realistic and determine what really is necessary to increase military production without completely upsetting domestic economy. Perhaps the housewife who can't buy a new set of pots and pans next winter will set them wise.

U. S. Level Of Living

By Malvina Lindsay

Bottom Group's Pay

WHETHER AMERICAN workers are to receive a minimum of 50, 60, 70 or 75 cents an hour might now seem to be a question affecting relatively few of the employed. For in these boom days relatively few workers are getting less than 75 cents. Nevertheless the decision on this, which a Senate subcommittee now faces, may have far-reaching influence on American life.

It will determine whether the American standard of living is to be given official backing to advance or fall back. It will inform the world whether the American system can continue to keep its people's level of living at the top of the economic charts. It will indicate the course the Government will take in handling its low income groups—whether they are to be given more opportunity to help themselves, or more paternalism. It will serve notice to employers whether in the postwar competition to cut costs they will be undercut by those who exploit cheap labor.

The worker who, under the minimum wage act of 1938 got 40 cents an hour, now is paying 109 per cent more for his food. The general increase in living has been 68.8 per cent—as reported in January. The consumer's purchasing power is lower than at any time since 1942, acording to a recent report of the President's Committee of Economic Advisers.

HENCE advocates of the Thomas bill—one of two on which the Senate Subcommittee on Labor and Public Welfare has been holding hearings—insist that at least the 75-cent-an-hour minimum they ask is necessary to insure that the bottom-of-the-scale worker has a decent subsistence. Even that for a head of a family falls far short of the budget for minimum decent living standards arrived at a year ago in cost of living studies by the Department of Labor. For a city family of four this varied from $2734 to $3111. The 75-cent minimum gives a yearly income of $1560.

However, advocates of the Ball bill, which offers a minimum of 60 cents an hour, and permits cuts to 50 cents and increases to 70 cents, maintain that wages should be aimed at making the individual, rather than the family, self-sustaining. They envision the average low-income worker as not being the head of a family, but frequently the beginner who lives at home.

But those seeking the higher minimum wage point out that the single woman or girl, so frequently the symbol of the low income worker, needs at least $1460 for existence if she lives alone—and that even if she lives with her family she is likely to have partial or even whole dependents of some sort. In a great majority of cases she contributes to household expenses, as studies of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor have shown.

ANOTHER STOCK argument against a minimum wage is that some persons are not physically or mentally capable of earning it. However, minimum wage laws have always provided that special certificates of exemption could be issued to persons who are handicapped. The prevailing idea that the low-paid worker is always the most inefficient does not hold, say labor authorities. Low earnings are frequently due to the workers' lack of bargaining power. They are frequently a matter of geography, or of inability of a worker to leave a certain region.

Right now the bottom income worker, whether single or head of a family, is bearing the brunt of inflation. Wives are leaving such homes to work in factories, and frequently their children are on the neighborhood. The first economies of this group are in food, especially the cutting down of milk for children. More doubling up in living has become necessary.

Meanwhile there is a great deal of study and talk as to how the American living standard can be raised, and healthier and better educated citizens produced to give this Nation strength in its testing and trials ahead. There is also concern as to how the United States can avoid developing such "soft spots" economically as have invited totalitarian advance in Europe and Asia. While a fair minimum wage would not remove substandard living conditions from the American scene, it would at least give some economic strength to the American democratic system while it operates in a goldfish bowl.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Towards A Solution In Palestine

THE STATEMENT made to the United Nations on Palestine by the British Colonial Secretary, Mr. Arthur Creech Jones, is an auspicious event. That is not only because it is the most sensible and useful contribution yet made to the discussion, but because it shows that Great Britain, now that she is about to be relieved of her thankless burdens as the ruler of Palestine, is preparing to take a leading part, which no one else can take, in working out a general settlement.

Lippmann

BRITISH leadership is indispensable to a settlement because, as a matter of fact, what has to be settled is the relationship between the Jewish state, which already exists de facto, and the Arab Kingdom of Trans-Jordan, which is a British protectorate. In this situation Britain has a dual role: as one of the great powers in the U. N. responsible for making and keeping peace; as the one great power which by treaty and by its military and financial connections is responsible for the conduct of the only Arab state which can wage a serious war or make a genuine peace in Palestine. These two roles are not contradictory but complementary.

WHAT Mr. Creech Jones has proposed is that the U. N. give up the notion of creating and imposing a new regime on Palestine, and that it concentrate its efforts on mediation between the Jewish and the Arab communities. To do this he suggests the appointment of a commission, which would hold, so to speak in escrow, the legal titles to the undivided assets of Palestine, and would seek to arrange a truce, then presumably a treaty of alliance or confederation, between the de facto provisional governments of the Arab and the Jewish communities.

This suggestion disposes of the false problem which has so confused and obscured the real problem. It does away with the imaginary problem that partition was something that had to be "enforced" by an international army, that a unified country had to be divided forcibly from the outside. It does away with the imaginary solution that partition could be renounced or abandoned. It recognizes the plain fact that partition has occurred, that "services, once run by the central government, are now in the hands of Jewish and Arab communities; and that, psychologically, a new sense of responsibility towards the maintenance by each community, of its own life, has been created."

THE REAL problem, therefore, is not whether Palestine is to be partioned, or whether it ought to be, but how—since partition has occurred—a truce, a peace, and finally some form of confederation can be negotiated and accepted. In this the role of Trans-Jordan is crucial. For events have shown that the Arab guerillas in Palestine are no match for the Haganah, and that they lack the organization and the force to establish a provisional government. It is reasonably certain that they must lean on King Abdullah and his little Trans-Jordan army.

It follows that the military truce, which everyone must desire, will have to be arranged between the Haganah and the Trans-Jordan army, and that a political peace will have to be negotiated between the Kingdom of Trans-Jordan and the provisional government of the Jewish state.

For that there is needed the mediation of Great Britain, closely and sympathetically supported by the United States, and operating with the moral authority of the United Nations.

IT IS fairly evident that the real problem, as respects King Abdullah, is how to enable him to enter Palestine for the purpose of annexing the Arab territory and of making a treaty with the Jewish state. Obviously neither the British government nor the United Nations can permit him to enter Palestine for the purpose of annexing the whole of it. They are bound to restrain him from doing that. But they have at the same time every reason to make arrangements by which he is invited to come in to the Arab territory peaceably and to participate in the negotiation of a treaty of settlement.

That requires the exercise of British influence to restrain him from aggression, and of British statesmanship, with American and United Nations support, to make the enlargement of his kingdom an orderly process. Almost certainly it requires also promise of reinforcements by which he can protect himself against conspiracies and assassinations on the part of the Grand Mufti and his other Arab enemies. For it is the danger of being stabbed in the back that almost certainly stands in the way of his playing the part which is so greatly in the interest of his kingdom, his dynasty, and of the peace and prosperity of Palestine.

IT WOULD seem to be indicated, therefore, that Britain and the United States should strengthen the military position in Trans-Jordan, that they should in fact make that sparsely inhabited but strategically important country their principal military position in the Middle East. What needs to be done to solve the problem of Palestine needs also to be done to solve the problem of maintaining the position of the western world in the Middle East.

The place to halt the British withdrawal from the Middle East is in Trans-Jordan. There is no other place of comparable importance where a firm footing can be established. The political situation in Iraq and in Egypt is notoriously insecure for the British, and therefore for all the western countries. Iran is inaccessible. Turkey, though vitally important, is too exposed. Saudi Arabia is too far away. Cyrenaica is not strategically related to the vital position at Suez.

If the western powers—and primarily Britain and America—are to remain in the eastern Mediterranean and in the Middle East, they must have a real foothold somewhere. They cannot rely solely on the paper pacts with the Arab states which Mr. Bevin has with so much persistence and so little success been trying to use as a substitute for actual power. These pacts are all very well, and they may come to have some substance if at some specific, strategically central place in the Middle East, Great Britain with American help and support, creates a center of power, and therefore of influence and authority.

Washington Calling

Wages And Free Enterprise

IN THIS era of flood-tide prosperity it is hard to remember the past. Perhaps that is because so much has happened in the crowded years between 1938 and 1948.

Childs

From 10 million unemployed to 60 million jobs! That is the jump in a single decade—the decade that saw America's productive capacity nearly doubled in order to win a global war.

In the new era, the New Deal of the '30s is customarily referred to in sulphurous language. The phrase is uttered as though it had been the slogan of the devil himself. And you can find stout-hearted members of the Union League Club who will prove just that.

The young who have come of age in the war decade must have an odd impression of that dim and distant day. Their more vociferous elders would have them believe that a sinister figure named Roosevelt sent his cohorts about the country to clap decent citizens in jail. The chains rattle and the ghost of Roosevelt is something to scare babies with.

That picture is slightly distorted. It happens, of course, that the distortion is useful to those who would chip away the reforms of the New Deal. They are hard at work with their little pickaxes on one stratum in particular right now.

BUT BEFORE going into that, I would like to put down one point about the New Deal that is conveniently ignored. In their most charitable mood, the detractors explain the whole thing away as the misguided puttering of a lot of do-gooders.

There was, it is true, a deep and very real strain of idealism in the New Deal. In spite of the smearing and the sneering by the scoffers and the jeerers (some of them very highly paid), it had a broad humanitarian base. Year after year, 10 million Americans had no way to earn their daily bread, and millions of their fellow citizens felt that this was unjust and unfair even though they happened to be more favorably circumstanced.

Basic to the concept of the New Deal was the theory that purchasing power should be got into the hands of the unemployed and the underpaid so that they could buy the products of industry. The idea—and this is the point it seems to be important to make—was to try to save free enterprise in spite of the tendency of the free-enterprise system to throw millions out of work.

One of the last pieces of so-called New Deal legislation was the Minimum-Wage Act or, as it is officially known, the Fair Labor Standards Act. The act put a floor under wages. It provided that workers, except for those in certain exempted classifications, should not be paid less than 40 cents an hour.

THE FLOOR was pretty low, or so it seems when measured in terms of today's buying power. But the principle was there — to make sure that no one was paid less than enough to maintain the bare minimum of decency.

Now two proposals have been brought forward to change this law. One, introduced by a group of Democrats in the Senate, would raise the minimum rate so that it could be fixed by industry committees at from 75 cents to $1. The amendment would also increase the number of workers covered by the law.

The other proposal comes from Senator Joseph Ball of Minnesota. It would raise the minimum wage to 70 cents but with so much business-Government red tape that those most familiar with the working of law say it would have little effect on the wage side.

Wage and Hour Administrator William R. McComb has testified that the Ball amendment would remove from the provisions of the law many workers now protected by it. In other words, it would chip away at the floor under the national wage level.

You can argue that this is not very important in a boom. You can even make the cynical argument that it is a good thing to have some people priced out of the market since there are scarcities.

But there is no guarantee that this flood-tide of prosperity will last forever, and here lies the danger of chipping away at laws that were intended to make the free-enterprise system work. No one denies the danger of excessive state control. Great Britain seems to be moving in that direction, with the Socialist government relying more on theory and ever-multiplying regulations than on natural human incentives. But there is also peril in taking off all the brakes and letting the machine run wide open downhill.

One on the Aisle—

The British Call That a Holiday

By Richard L. Coe

THE LITTLE'S "Holiday Camp" is a mild little British film which recalls "Having Wonderful Time," in which Doug Fairbanks, jr., and Ginger Rogers appeared about 10 years ago.

The setting is one of those holiday camps where the average man is promised a week of health, happiness and good clean fun for a modest down payment. In the Adirondacks, Fairbanks and Ginger seemed like youngsters we all might know having themselves a happy fling. But to American eyes which have only read but not experienced socialism in Britain, "Holiday Camp" suggests portents that are not in the picture. In other words, it's hard to keep from wondering if a regimented summer holiday is part of the Labor Party's plan. That's why it's well to remember we have the same sort of places and have shown them in the movies.

The story is a sort of "Grand Hotel" weave interspersed with far too much corn for this cracker. And I must say I'd far rather stay home than go to any such camp, where you're wakened by a cheery loud-speaker in the morning and sent off to slumbers by the same bright voice. Me, I live only for pleasure, and doing calisthenics before breakfast is not my notion of a holiday. Consequently, I loathed every inch of J. Arthur Rank's cheery camp.

For all that, I'm certain there are masses of folk who might enjoy just such a regimented good time, searching for new friends and new faces. Among the faces Godfrey Winn dreamed up for his original story are:

A long-married couple enjoying a change of pace with their son and widowed daughter. Son gets involved with some card sharps, but good old dad avenges his losses with his own sixth ace. Daughter befriends a lonely sailor and you know what.

A middle-aged spinster, who's spent her life caring for her late mother, comes to the camp from which, in World War I, she bid farewell to her soldier.

The former soldier, who lost his memory 25 years before, turns up, and if you don't place him, you don't know your corn.

Young lovers—who've disgraced her respectable aunt—who are aided by the spinster, who convinces the young pianist that some musicians are cafe entertainers and very few of them geniuses.

The inevitable type, hunted by Scotland Yard.

Most of the players will be unfamiliar to you except for Flora Robson, who plays the spinster. There is an outstanding appearance in the casting of Esmond Knight, the widely-praised British actor who lost his sight in the recent war. Patricia Roc judges a beauty contest and Kathleen Harrison, another stage favorite, plays the wife.

It's too bad the story couldn't have avoided at least one kernel of corn on the dramatic cob.

"HOLIDAY CAMP." J. Arthur Rank prelease produced by Sydney Box, adapted from a story by Godfrey Winn by Sydney and Muriel Box and Peter Rogers. Directed by Kenneth Annakin. At the Little.

ONE OF 19: Bette Davis is reported to have 19 clinches with Jim, no relation, Davis, her new leading man in "Winter Meeting," which arrives this morning on the Warner screen

"PIPIT'S" DYING: The Hippodrome wires that "Tawny Pipit" is "laying an egg." . . . And that ain't funny, bo . . . It doesn't mean that the bird of the delightful comedy is setting; it means the picture has collapsed within a few days . . . This is hard to understand . . . It's a honey of a comedy, one of the year's best, and got elegant notices from every reviewer in town . . . Friday night sees the end of it, with the senior Fairbanks' "Don Juan" set to open Saturday . . . I'd really hate for you to miss "Tawny Pipit," but evidently you've only two more days to see it.

MISS COWL DISSENTS: Jane Cowl will be talking on WGAY this morning at 10 . . . Jane's a superb talker—as we'll tell you Saturday—and she promises WGAY's Grace Hanley to talk not only on "What's Wrong With Our Theater," but also to take issue with this reporter on the timeliness of her National vehicle, "The First Mrs. Fraser." . . . Jane had her own network quarter hour during her Stage Door Canteen activities, and you'll find her a lively talker.

THE MONTGOMERY PLAYERS will give a repeat performance of their season's finale, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," tonight at the Arlington Farms Exchange Club . . . In the cast are Frances Glasheen, Barbara Gapen, Charles Heinemann, jr., Rita Lowe, Dick Vosburgh, Ruth Swihart, Shireen Baktiar and two Parker Fairlambs, jr. and sr.

Jury Finds Trumbo Guilty of Contempt

Screen Writer Faces 90 Days in Jail, About $500 Fine in Hollywood Red Probe

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Dalton Trumbo—who wrote "30 Seconds Over Tokyo"—won a chance yesterday to gather notes for a movie he might call "90 Days in the District Jail."

Trumbo

That's what Trumbo is liable to get for the contempt of Congress of which he was found guilty by a jury in the District Court. He was called before the House Un-American Activities Committee last fall and asked whether he was a member of the Screen Writers Guild or the Communist Party. The jurors found that he refused to answer.

Trumbo might get up to two years in jail, and be fined as much as $2000, but the sentences in other cases of the kind have been 90 days in jail and fines up to $500.

Jury Foreman Bernard J. Maguire, 43, a Navy Department production manager, reported the verdict to Justice David A. Pine late yesterday afternoon.

British Health Program Wins New Support

London, May 5 (AP)—The British Medical Association Council said tonight it will advise its 60,000 members to cooperate in the Labor government's new national health service "in the public interest."

The council voted to approve the program if concessions to doctors, offered by the health ministry, are put into effect, and the ministry agrees to discuss further changes.

The national health act becomes effective July 5.

The association said a mail poll of the profession showed a vote of 13,891 to 12,799 against taking part. The plan provides free health service for all Britons, but leaves participating doctors free for some private practice.

The health ministry has agreed to offer amendments making optional the part-payment by salary plan and to include a guarantee the doctors never will become full-time salaried workers.

4 Arrested, Film Figures' Names Seized in Vice Raid

Hollywood, May 5 (U.P.)—Police early today raided a luxurious house of vice in the hills back of the film colony, arrested four persons and seized a card index file of patrons.

Officers said the file contained the names of hundreds of Hollywood celebrities, the dates of their visits and fees paid.

Among the four persons arrested was Brenda Allen, alias Marie Mitchell, 30. Records disclosed she had 16 previous arrests in Los Angeles on morals charges as well as arrests in many other cities.

She was booked on charges of keeping a house of ill-repute and released on $500 bond.

GOP Leaders Map Compromise Bill On Pay Increases

A new Federal worker pay raise bill is to be written. It's hoped that both the Senate and the House Civil Service Committees will agree to the proposed compromise. Also, that Congress will enact the compromise into law.

This is the strategy that was adopted at yesterday's meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

Senator Taft, the policy chairman, said afterward that no Senate GOP leader had objected to the principle of pay raises for Federal workers. However, he added that there had been a dispute over the amount of the pay raise and that it had not been settled.

The Ohio Senator said he would confer soon with Speaker Martin on the pay raise issue, and that they would try to arrange meetings of their respective Civil Service Committees.

One report yesterday was that a compromise of $500 for postal and $400 for most other Federal workers had been proposed. However, the plan was immediately opposed on several counts: (1) that the same pay raise should be voted all Federal workers and that the postal employes should not be made the favorites of the Congress; (2) that the proposed increases were too much, and (3) that they weren't enough.

This is a fact—that the GOP leaders must use every ounce of pressure to get all House and Senate factions to agree on a pay bill.

RUMOR: The Administration is looking for several top-drawer people to sparkplug the President's campaign for reelection through the Democratic National Committee—several who are politically wise and alert like Wayne Coy, the chairman of Federal Communications. In fact, it wouldn't be too much of a surprise if the Administration tried to tap Coy for a hign political post.

BEATEN: Representative Carter Manasco has conceded defeat for reelection to the House from Alabama. His defeat may be a big blow for the many Federal workers who travel.

Manasco is the author of the House bill to increase the travel allowance of Federal workers from $6 to $8 a day. He had intended to get behind his bill if he were reelected. The legislation is now needed more than ever. Hotel rooms have shot up in price now that rent controls on them have been lifted. It's difficult to travel on $9 and $10 a day.

Also, Manasco is a member of the Hoover committee which is studying Government reorganization.

NOTES: Ambrose M. Felton is retiring from the Bureau of Federal supply. He hasn't been late for work once in his 37½ years of Government service . . . The Army needs 30 electronic engineers immediately. For details, call Republic 6700, Branch 75371 . . . A group of Government munitions makers and handlers yesterday told Senator Langer that they are in a most dangerous occupation; that more of their colleagues are killed in that work than all other Federal activities combined. The munitions people are anxious to be included in the bill to retire at 50 after 20 years of service. They have a splendid case.

SECRETARIES: The Civil Service Commission has given out this additional information on the forthcoming secretarial test:

"It's unlikely that any formal announcement on the test will be published before midsummer and that the actual test won't be given until a later date.

"Therefore, it seems unlikely that a secretary who plans a vacation needs to stay here during June, July and August."

Details on the test will be reported in this column. In fact, I'll be glad to see that full information on the test is sent to secretaries who will be off on vacations during the summer.

UNION NEAR SQUABBLE: The executive council of the AFL's American Federation of Government Employes will meet here a week from Thursday. The inside word is that they plan to suspend James Burns, AFGE president, because of administrative differences. Yesterday Burns issued this statement:

"I profoundly regret that a member of the executive council has seen fit to make public a matter which will be subject of discussion at a meeting of the council which I have called. Such publicity can only be d etrimental to the AFGE and those whom we represent.

"During my tenure of nearly nine years as AFGE national president, I have labored diligently to promote the welfare and to protect the interests of all Federal workers. I flatly deny that any condition exists in the AFGE which warrants the preferring of charges against me. But if and when they are filed, I shall meet them."

His statement sounds very much as if Burns is now in the mood to fight. And apparently he could put up quite a battle. The council, by a two-thirds vote, could suspend him, but Burns could take his fight to the AFGE convention, and it would also have to suspend him by a two-thirds vote to get him fired officially. Burns has built up much support among the rank-and-file.

Burns is reported to have agreed tentatively to resign from the union presidency at a meeting of the last executive council. Several council members are trying to promote Vice President James Yaden of the Civil Service Commission, to the presidency.

Wiley Suit For Breach Of Promise A Mistrial

Finding of Jury For Girl Cut Off By Court; Went 'Beyond My Charge'

Justice Jennings Bailey of District Court yesterday declared a mistrial in Camille Norwicki's $150,000 breach-of promise suit against Harvey W. Wiley, jr., scion of a prominent Washington family.

He blamed the jury of 10 men and two women for "going beyond my charge."

A few minutes earlier—at approximately 4:30 p. m.—the jury had brought in a verdict in favor of the auburn-haired plaintiff, awarding her $22,000. Its deliberations began 11:21 a. m.

This is what happened:

At about 4:30 p. m. the jurors filed back into the courtroom and the justice asked the foreman, Robert S. Kendrick, sr., of 3213 Massachusetts ave. se., what they had found.

Kendrick said the jury had decided to award the former congressional secretary and free lance writer $10,000 for breach of promise, and $10,000 additional for punitive damage.

"We also considered another point," said Kendrick . . . "We want to give $2000 for the aggravation caused by the er . . ."

He did not finish the word.

The justice reminded the jury that "there was only one issue" in the case and that was "breach of contract." He said he'd instructed them "you might add damages due to the injury and the second thing was puntive damage."

The jurist thereupon ordered the jury back to the jury room for further deliberation.

As soon as the jury had left, Defense Attorney Arthur J. Hilland jumped up and called for a mistrial because the jury had not "understood" the charge. Attorney Lester Wood, Miss Nowicki's counsel, promptly denied this assertion.

The justice sent for the jury. When the panel returned, he said:

"You have gone beyond my charge. I am forced to declare a mistrial."

He dismissed the jurors.

Attorney Wood announced that he would file a motion to reinstate the verdict. Abashed, Kendrick, the jury foreman, declared:

"If I could I would give her the $2000 out of my pocket."

Miss Nowicki had charged Wiley, son of the late pure food crusader, with promising to marry her in August, 1945, and later breaking his promise because of his mother's objections. She says he is the father of her 20-months-old son, Timothy Wiley.

Farm Horse Drags Maryland Youth To His Death

William B. Frazier, 19, of Brinklow, Md., was killed yesterday afternoon when dragged 400 yards by a skittish horse.

Frazier, a worker on the farm of William Hines, near Brinklow, was riding the horse in from his work in the field when the horse shied suddenly. In falling, his foot became entagled in the harness.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner, issued a certificate of accidental death.

House Group Seeks to Push Home Rule Bill

Committee on Rules Will Be Asked Monday To Clear Measure

House District Committee leaders will go to the House Rules Committee at 10:30 a. m. Monday to ask clearance for sending the Washington home rule bill to the floor.

Sponsors of the home rule bill, backed by a 14-8 vote of the House District Committee, indicated strong hope that the Rules group would give quick favorable action for the measure. The bill has been given strong support by Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.).

The bill would give the District an elected city council, an elected school board, and a nonvoting District delegate in the House. Major District legislation would have to be approved by both Houses of Congress and signed by the President.

Hopeful of Enactment

At a meeting sponsored by the American Veterans Committee last night Clarence E. Pierce, assistant staff director of the Auchincloss subcommittee, said he was hopeful of the bill's enactment by Congress and the President. If it does pass both Houses, he said, it should emerge "a rather satisfactory home rule bill."

The Rev. A. Powell Davies, pastor of All Souls Unitarian Church, called for a "generation of enthusiasm" to bring about acceptance of the bill by District residents.

"The opportunity will pass by default unless the inertia of the people can be converted to momentum," he said. About 40 persons attended the meeting, held in the Commerce Department auditorium.

Founders' Day Speaker

Dr. Frank Lorimer, sociologist, author and lecturer, will speak at the annual founders day banquet of the Lester F. Ward Sociological Society of George Washington University, 7 p. m. today at the Dodge Hotel, 20 E st. nw. The society was founded at the University in 1936 to further understanding of social problems.

FSA Clerk Charged With Hotel Holdup

A Federal Security Administration property clerk was held in Municipal Court yesterday under $500 bond on a charge of robbery resulting from an attempt holdup of a hotel here.

Charged is Augustine E. Brailer, 42, of 9205 Bradford rd., Silver Spring, Md. The case was continued for two weeks to give police additional time to investigate.

According to police, Brailer was arrested outside the Dixie Hotel, 734 12th st. nw., at 1 a. m. yesterday, when he was found tussling with Ralph L. Beck, 50, a clerk of the hotel, and Dan R. McLeoud, 23, who was registering there. They told police Brailer came into the hotel with his hand in his pocket as if he had a gun and forced them to hand over their funds, which totaled $99.

They said as he left they jumped him.

Burglary Is Solved When Shoes, Hat Fit

Police solution of one house burglary and possibly another dozen yesterday depended on whether shoes and a hat found near the scene would fit.

They did.

A short distance way, police found a hat and traced its ownership through a cleaner's mark.

The man, listed as Harry C. Williams, 27, 5442 Bass pl. se., was charged last night with one count of housebreaking in connection with the Skolnick home breakin.

He also was being questioned in at least a dozen other burglaries, one of them a $118 job at the Benjamin Goldman home, 7567 Alaska ave. nw., last July.

Woman Killed, Man Injured By Streetcars

Excitement Attracts Husband of Victim, Struck Near Home

A Mount Rainier, Md., housewife was killed and a Washington man injured critically in separate street car accidents yesterday.

Mrs. Nellie Louk, 69, of 3310 Perry st., Mount Rainier, was killed instantly at 4:40 p. m., after she apparently stumbled while crossing in front of a moving streetcar within sight of her home. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Leland Memorial Hospital, in Riverdale, Md.

Mrs. Louk

Her husband, F. Wilson Louk, carpenter and painter, came out of their house to investigate the excitement, and identified the victim as his wife.

Police Chief Gene Plumer of Mount Rainier Police, said witnesses told him Mrs. Louk stumbled as she crossed in front of the streetcar as it approached a passenger loading platform. She was returning home from a visit to the hairdresser's, he said.

The accident occurred diagonally across the street from the victim's home, at 34th st. and Rhode Island ave., Mount Rainier. Plumer identified the motorman as Floyd T. Cashwell of 2105 4th st. ne.

Hurt critically when he was struck by an eastbound streetcar on H st. at 13th st. ne., at 10:30 a. m. yesterday, was William R. Kelty, 50, of 1660 Trinidad st. ne.

Kelty, a photoengraver employed at The Washington Post for the past two years, was taken to Casualty Hospital suffering severe head injury and possible fracture of the skull. He is married and has two grown children.

Police identified the streetcar operator as James W. Ferguson, 27, of 2915 N st. se.

Edward LeRoy Poe, 3, of 950 F st sw., was reported in serious condition last night at Emergency Hospital. He suffered a broken left leg, skull fracture and possible internal injuries late Tuesday afternoon when struck by an automobile while running across the street

Man Injured in Traffic Case of Mistaken Identity

The family of John F. Costello spent three anxious hours at Casualty Hospital yesterday awaiting a doctor's verdict on his critical traffic injuries.

Then they learned the victim was not Costello.

It was not until a son, Joseph Costello, telephoned to inform Municipal Court that his father would be unable to report for jury duty that actual identity of the victim was disclosed.

The real victim was William F. Kelty, 50, of 1660 Trinidad ave. ne., an engraver. Kelty was struck by a streetcar at 15th and H sts. ne., and before an ambulance arrived, an acquaintance of Costello volunteered the information that "that's my friend John Costello."

Fook Death Sentence Commuted

Truman Reduces Punishment to 7 to 21 Years in Chinese Slaying

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

President Truman has commuted the death sentence of Lee Fook, 62, convicted murderer of a Chinese laundryman here, to a prison term of 7 to 21 years, the White House announced yesterday.

The President signed the order for executive clemency Tuesday evening. The White House declined to give any reason for the commutation.

Fook

However, it is rare that a murderer here has had his sentence commuted to less than life imprisonment. Fook is now in the maximum security section of District Jail.

It was learned that United States Attorney George M. Fay, Prosecutor Edward Molenof and the District Court trial justice, Alexander Holtzoff, all favored the executive clemency granted. Defense Attorney Woodrow E. Faulkner submitted the clemency petition.

The apparent grounds for the request for mercy was the belief that all the arguments possible in Fook's behalf were not presented to the jury which returned the first-degree murder verdict.

Fook was convicted of killing by numerous knife wounds a laundryman named Harry Lee, 40, in July, 1946.

Fook claimed he went to Lee's laundry to get him to sign a statement that he brought Fook's son into this country. Lee refused because in coming to this country he hed represented Fook's son as his own, it was said, and feared trouble from the authorities.

His son is now in an insane asylum in New York, Fook testified. He said he needed Lee's signature so that the son could go back to China to dies with his ancestors.

Attorney John M. Holtzworth, who said he was recently hired to represent Fook, has filed a $106,000 damage suit against Faulkner. The grounds are fraud in charging Fook an alleged $6000 for the defense which the suit contends was inadequate.

Holtzworth said he will move for a new trial for Fook on the grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Holtzworth brought the Fook case to public attention two weeks ago when he shouted before the Senate District Committee that his client was being "railroaded" to the electric chair.

Schools Expect 27,000 Increase Within 5 Years

Teachers and Rooms Must Be Provided On Planned Basis, Corning Tells Board

In five years there will be 27,000 more children attending public elementary schools in the District than there are today, Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning told the Board of Education yesterday.

"The increase in the number of small children is a problem that we will have to face squarely and immediately if we are to provide teachers and classrooms for these children," Dr. Corning said.

The school superintendent submitted a detailed study on the city's population growth to the board at a meeting at which a delegation of teachers made a plea that more money be spent on schools.

758 Teachers Needed

"We must take the position that money spent in education is a social investment and that the investment must be increased," Miss Helen Samuel, president of the Junior High School Teachers Association, told the board.

The Corning report showed that enrollment in the white elementary schools in 1952 will be 44,417, an increase of 16,772 or 60 per cent above the current enrollment. The number of small children in Negro schools will reach 37,370, an increase of 10,564 or 39 per cent.

If the present pupil-teacher ratio of 36 is maintained the schools will need 758 additional teachers, the report showed.

Shows in Present Figures

Emphasizing the immediacy of the problem, Corning said there are now 4500 more children in grades one to three than there are in grades four to six.

While at present there are 27,695 elementary students, next September there will be 30,929 and the following year 34,126.

In the Negro schools at present are 26,806 elementary students, in September there will be 28,918 and by next year 30,636.

The delegation of teachers, representing the Joint Legislative Council of Educational Organizations, called on the board to seek legislation from Congress to end "inequities" in the teachers' pay act.

Council Chairman Robert Botkin said many teachers are not receiving pay commensurate with academic qualifications and years of service.

Other Board Action

In other actions yesterday the board:

Elected C. Melvin Sharpe to the office of vice president to succeed Dr. Robert A. Maurer, retired. Sharpe also was appointed by Board President Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle to head the board's personnel and GI committees. Albert E. Steinem, recently appointed to the board, was named to head the committee on recreation and community use of buildings and grounds.

Received a report from Dr. James Gannon, physician member of the board, that medical service to schools provided by the health department has shown "marked improvement" in recent months.

Postponed action on the 1948-49 school calendar that would move up the opening and closing days of school a week to bring them more in line with opening and closing days in Maryland and Virginia.

Retired Mrs. Clara G. Fulton, Annapolis Junction, Md., teacher of commercial arithmetic at Eastern High School, after 18 years service.

Jack Fultz, 15, of 4808 Clark st., Boulevard Heights, Md., does the crowning. Phyllis, a seventh grade student and president of the school's Camp Fire Girls, was selected by popular vote.

Plea Rejected

Play Area Is Sought For Negroes

Negro residents in the Northwest Washington area may be without a recreation field over the summer months, it was brought out at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education.

The board turned down a request of the Recreation Department that Brooks Stadium at Dunbar High School, 1st and O sts. nw., be used by the department while repairs are made to the Banneker Recreational Area field, Barry pl. and Georgia ave. nw.

The board acted on a recommendation by School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning, who said Brooks Field must be resodded over the summer and made ready for the school athletic program next fall.

Dr. Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent in charge of Negro schools, said that the only fields available to Negroes if both Brooks and Banneker are closed are at 6th st. and Florida ave. ne. and 24th st. and Benning rd. ne.

Efforts will be made in the future to see that field reconditioning programs do not overlap, he said.

G. W. U. Class Aids Ill Dutch Students

The senior class at George Washington University will present a check for more than $100 to Holland's Ambassador E. N. van Kleffens some time during the university's "Senior Week."

The check, which replaces the traditional gift to the university by the senior class, will be payable to Her Royal Highness Princess Juliana for use in aiding university students in Holland, hospitalized from the ravages of war.

The idea for the gift came to the seniors last month, when their class president, Chester Byrnes, wrote Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, asking her to suggest a European university for their gift.

Yesterday, Mrs. Roosevelt replied, suggesting a hospital in Holland.

There, she said she had seen students convalescing from tuberculosis lying flat on their backs and studying for their university degrees. The students had contracted the disease during the war, when, as members of resistance groups, they had endured life in concentration camps.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that one student already had passed his final examinations while convalescing from the disease. Dutch universities are cooperating in the project to instruct the sick students, Mrs. Roosevelt explained.

Shoeless Prowler Sought

Prince Georges County police are seeking a shoeless and hatless prowler who came out second best in an encounter with Paul L. Anderson of Landover Hills, Md., in an attempt to rob the Anderson home early yesterday.

According to the police, Anderson awakened around 1 a. m. to find the man in his bedroom, chased him from the house to a housing development a quarter of a mile away and then lost him after a brief struggle in which the intruder relinquished a coat he had taken from the house.

Returning to his home, Anderson found the visitor had left his shoes and coat in the cellar, where he had entered the house by unlocking the door with a duplicate key.

Anderson described the man as a dark-skinned Negro, about 5 feet 10 inches tall. An inspection of the home showed nothing other than the coat had been removed.

8 Cameras Stolen

James B. McLean, assistant division chief of the Guided Missiles section of the United States Bureau of Standards, reported to police yesterday that eight cameras valued at a total of $1200 have been stolen from a Quonset Hut used for storage on the bureau grounds.

Realty Salesman Fined

Fred W. Moesta, 35, of 9517 Garwood st., Silver Spring, Md., was fined $50 yesterday for operating as a real estate salesman here last September without a license. Judge Ellen K. Raedy of Municipal Court imposed sentence after Moesta's attorney stated his client had mistakenly let his license lapse in July.

Arlington's "safe driver of the week," Mrs. Ruth Harrington of 1822 Wilson blvd., gives her husband credit for teaching her to drive and for her 15-year record of no accidents. Selection is made weekly by Arlington Traffic Safety Officer Frank Palmer.

Former Employe Sues

Harold B. Jackson, disc jockey on WINX, sued his former employers, the United Broadcasting Co., and its official, Richard Eaton, for $50,000 in District Court yesterday.

Jackson, 5302 East Capitol st., charged breach of contract. He said, through his attorney, Rolland E. Lamensdorf, that in May, 1947, the broadcasting company which operates WOOK, where Jackson was employed, offered him a one-year contract calling for $50 a week and commissions on advertising. He said that in December, he was discharged and is owed money and should receive damage because of alleged mishandling of his program.

Restaurant Fined $100

Jimmie's Restaurant, Inc., 409 10th st. nw., was fined $100 yesterday for violating health regulations. Judge Aubrey B. Fennell of Municipal Court imposed sentence after hearing health inspectors testify they found the restaurant to have dirty floors, tables, counters, stove and walls.

To Review Cadets

Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, Bastogne hero, will review cadets in white high schools here in competitive drills to be held May 26 at Griffith Stadium. Maj. Steve Davis, USA, will review the Negro cadets on May 20 at the stadium, Dr. Hobart Corning, school superintendent, said yesterday.

Freed on Bond

Woman, Son Arrested in Policy Raid

A 42-year-old woman and her 25-year-old son were arrested yesterday by police vice squad raiders at 104 N st. sw., charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips.

Lieut. Roy Blick said that undercover men made five numbers plays at the house over a period of several weeks. At 1:25 yesterday, after a "play" was made with marked money, Blick and his men arrested Mrs. Edna Hughes and her son, Edward, who live at the N st. address. Hughes gave his occupation as piano player.

Mother and son were released in $1500 bond each for arraignment today before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. Several other persons in the house were released after questioning.

3 Palestine Rallies Listed This Week

Three different organizations vitally concerned with affairs in Palestine are sponsoring separate rallies in Washington this week.

Two of the meetings, attracting opposing viewpoints on the Palestine partition plan, are scheduled to be held tonight. The third group, linked to financing organized resistance in Palestine, begins a three-day conference at Hotel Statler, on Friday.

The organizations and their scheduled activities are:

1. Washington Chapter, American Council for Judaism, which has publicly opposed Palestine partition, is sponsoring a "Peace in Palestine Through Truce and Trusteeship" rally, at Hotel Shoreham, 8:30 p. m. today. Speakers will include Rabbi Irving Reichert, San Francisco; Rabbi Morris Lazaron, Baltimore, and Kermit Roosevelt, grandson of Theodore Roosevelt.

2. United Jewish Appeal of Greater Washington, with cooperation of Jewish Community Council, is holding a special rally on the Palestine crisis at 8:15 p. m. today at Constitution Hall. Among the chief speakers will be Moshe Shertok, chief of the political department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, who has publicly advocated partition.

3. Washington Conference on the Middle East, sponsored by Senators Wayne Morse, Charles W. Tobey and Dennis Chavez, with "technical arrangements . . . organized by the American League for a Free Palestine." The conference will begin with a reception by the Senators on Friday afternoon and end in a public meeting Sunday night at Hotel Statler.

League activities in raising funds to finance Jewish underground resistance in Palestine have been protested by the British government.

Tenants Protest Rent Boosts for Two Apartments

Approximately 20 appeared at a hearing before Rent Control Examiner William F. Mansfield to fight against average 5 per cent hikes for 43 apartments of a 70-unit apartment house at 1900 H st. nw.

They charged that stoves and refrigerators in the apartments were old and "not very usable," Mansfield said. Present rents range from $40 to $52.50 a month, he revealed.

At a hearing before Examiner James G. Tyson, nine tenants protested a 10 per cent boost requested for 142 apartments at 2000 Connecticut ave nw.

Services at the apartment house are "not up to par," they charged, and long-time tenants are slighted in favor of newcomers, Tyson said. Present rents range from $50 to $87.50 a month.

Assault Charge In Fracas After Wedding Dropped

The charge of assault with a dangerous weapon which was placed against newlywed James A. Manning, jr., of 1518 Fort Davis st. se., was nolle prossed in Municipal Court yesterday.

The charge resulted from a 20-minute fight involving dozens of persons two weeks ago at the American Legion Club following a wedding reception for Manning and his bride.

According to the dismissed charge, Manning knocked out Hilton Mace, manager of the club, with a sodawater bottle.

After ordering the nolle prosse, Assistant United States Attorney Evan T. Davis said, "None of the witnesses could say for sure who hit whom during the party. With that kind of evidence, the Government could never establish a case of assault against anyone."

A Menace to Children Is Removed . . .

The Washington Post

PARENTS' OBJECTIVE ACHIEVED—Spectators watch as water is pumped from a 4-foot-deep pond in the 4000 block of Blaine st. ne. Removal of the water by District sewage division trucks yesterday is the result of a campaign by parents in the neighborhood who complained the pond was a menace to the lives of children. Two already had fallen in, but without mishap. Broken line indicates the old high-water mark

Way Cleared For U. S. Aid To Hospitals

A House District subcommittee yesterday approved legislation to authorize Federal grants for expanding Washington's private nonprofit hospital facilities.

The bill would authorize Congress to appropriate between 10 and 15 million dollars in a later separate bill for the hospital grants. The elastic ceiling hinges on what the proposed Washington Hospital Center will cost. The hospital center was launched by a law authorizing 35 million, but it is expected to cost between 20 nd 25 million. The difference between what the center costs and the 35 million figure could be tapped under the new bill for grants to other hospitals not participating in the center.

The bill now goes to the full House District Committee which previously discussed it, and ordered it sent back to the subcommittee headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) for further study.

Subcommittee approval was given in a brief executive session after a morning hearing in which passage was urged by Federal and local hospital officials. The District Commissioners have opposed it on the ground the city would have to pay back 30 per cent of all that is spent under the program, and there is no revenue now in sight to do it. Total cost to the city could be 10.5 million dollars, including the District share of the hospital center.

Alan Johnstone, general counsel of the Federal Works Agency which would handle the prpposed hospital grants, listed six hospitals that would be likely to share in the grants and said there might be others. The six: Casualty, Sibley, Providence, Children's, Columbia and Homeopathic. The hospital center is to take in Emergency, Garfield and Episcopal.

Charles D. Drayton, attorney speaking for a committee representing the hospitals, said the new hospital center, with 1200 beds, would give a net increase in Washington area hospital capacity of about 437 beds, leaving an unmet need for some 2000 more beds.

Others who testified for the bill included Capt. Chester Wells, former president of Columbia Hospital; Samuel H. Rogers, president of Casualty Hospital, and John H. Lemon, acting president of Children's Hospital.

Miller's group also approved a bill to let District and Federal hospitals here obtain liens on damage payments to accident victims they treat, as private hospitals can do now.

Very Rev. Wilbur Made Dean in Lexington, Ky.

The Very Rev. Paul D. Wilbur, formerly rector of the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, 1527 Newton st. nw., has been appointed Dean of the Lexington, Ky., Diocese Cathedral of St. George the Martyr.

Dean Wilbur left his charge here after six years to go into the Army Air Corps as a chaplain and after leaving the Army became rector of Trinity Church, Covington, Ky. He was formerly president of the Washington Clericus and of the Washington Federation of Churches.

40 Area War Dead Due Soon At U. S. Ports

Bodies of 40 Greater Washington servicemen who died in World War II are scheduled to arrive soon in New York and San Francisco from the European and Asiatic-Pacific theaters.

They are among remains of 4183 deceased aboard the New York-bound Army transport Lawrence Victory and 2024 deceased on the Cardinal O'Connell returning to San Francisco.

Of the 40, 24 are District servicemen, 12 are from nearby Virginia, and 4 from nearby Maryland.

War dead aboard the Lawrence Victory are from cemeteries at Epinal, Ste. Mere Eglise, La Cambe and St. Juan, France; the Cardinal O'Connell carries deceased from India, Burma, Solomons Islands and Hawaii cemeteries.

Next of kin will be notified in advance of arrival of the returning dead, the Army said. From 10 days to three weeks will elapse after the ships dock before relatives will be informed when they may expect to receive remains.

$15,000 Check Given Oldest Inhabitants

A check for $15,000 was received yesterday by the Association of the Oldest Inhabitants of the District from the estate of the late Theodore W. Noyes, editor of the Washington Star.

Monie Sanger, chairman of the association's finance committee, announced receipt of the gift at the meeting of more than 40 members of the association at the Old Union Engine House, 19th and H sts. nw.

Sanger said the money would be used to purchase U. S. Savings Bonds to go toward the building fund.

Fred A. Emery, a vice president of the organization and a former staff member of the old Washington Evening News, outlined over 100 years of Washington newspaper history. Describing the city as a "graveyard of newspapers" since the Alexandria Gazette was established in 1784, Emery said: "The success of Washington's splendid newspapers of today is a monumental memorial to courage."

King Solomon Lodge Celebrates 43d Anniversary

Among the guests were Past Grand Masters Carl H. Claudy and Charles Baldwin; Swami Premananda, newly elected wise master of Evangelist Chapter, Knights Rose Croix of the Scottish Rite Masons and Christopher T. Hutchinson, retired composing room employe of The Washington Post, who is one of the two living founders of the King Solomon Lodge. The lodge was founded in 1905.

Claudy, Masonic historian, discussed the mystic ties of premasonry. Baldwin paid tribute to the efforts of William H. Singleton, the worshipful master just after the lodge was organized. Hutchinson was presented a bouquet of roses. Swami Premananda served as honorary chaplain.

Bill Approved to Ease Rules Under New Electricians' Code

A House District Subcommittee yesterday approved legislation protecting the right of long established electricians and other craftmen to practice in the District, despite the setting up of new codes of practice.

The bill provides that the craftman shall be entitled to a license without examination so long as he has practiced his trade and been in business here for five years prior to enactment of the measure.

The subcommittee also reported out other bills:

Fixing a fee of $1 for recording of liens on motor vehicles or trailers.

Amending the District legal code relating to liability for causing death by wrongful act by removing the limitation of $10,000 damages, enlarging the basis for damage, and other changes.

Changing the legal code relating to admissibility of testimony by a party to a transaction when the other party is incapable of testifying.

Meanwhile, a bill was introduced in the House providing for the District Commissioners to recover the cost of sending firemen and policemen to private premises for the protection of public safety. The bill would effact chiefly recreation centers, like Griffith Stadium and Uline's Arena, which now pay but a small fee for the large number of police assigned when a show or exhibition is held.

Woodward Funeral Rites On Saturday

Miss Esther Rittenhouse Woodward, 70, who taught in Washington public schools for more than 40 years, died yesterday at her home, 2456 20th st. nw.

A Washington native, Miss Woodward was a graduate of the old Washington Normal School, predecessor of Wilson Teachers College. She entered teaching here before the turn of the century and was retired in 1940.

At the time of her retirement, she was on the Hine Junior High School faculty, where she had served 17 years. Before that, she taught at elementary schools in Northeast and Anacostia.

She was active in Sunday school and other affairs at her church, Wesley Methodist, and was on the board of the Methodist Home. She belonged to the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Woodward leaves a brother, Dr. William C. Woodward, 2701 Connecticut ave. nw., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Woodward Pitts of Cleveland, Ohio.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at Gawler's funeral home, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw., with burial

Wall Street Held Out of Step With Rest of Country

J. A. Livingston, business columnist for The Washington Post, told the Elks Luncheon Club yesterday that Wall Street is out of step with the country.

"Investors and speculators can't forget that we had a depression in the 30's and a business decline after the First World War," he declared. "They're suffering from what the London Economist calls 'depression psychosis.'

Livingston pointed out that Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of The Washington Post, has often said that "Wall Street always seems to do what would have been right the last time." "That seems to be happening now," said Livingston.

Will Rogers' Daughter's Coat Found at Club

The $4000 mink coat reported stolen in March from Miss Mary Rogers, daughter of the late humorist, Will Rogers, was handed back to the owner yesterday by Inspector Robert Pearce, chief property officer of the Metropolitan Police.

Miss Rogers came here from California to get the coat. The coat was found five days after it was stolen on the back porch of the Allies Club, 1326 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Funeral Rites Saturday for Mrs. Wilson

Funeral services for Mrs. Augusta E. Wilson, 82, mother of Comdr. Francis Stirling Wilson, USNR, of Chevy Chase, Md., and a native Washingtonian, will be held Saturday at 1 p. m. at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 3rd and A sts. se. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson, who was the wife of the late Posey S. Wilson, director of the United States Mint at Denver, Colo., during President Cleveland's Administration, died at her home in Springfield, Mass., on April 28. She lived there for the past 12 years.

Mrs. Wilson was the daughter of John Fallon and Margaret A. Fallon. Her mother was an employe of the Federal Government for about 50 years and was one of the first women to be taken into the civil service.

Mrs. Wilson was graduated from the old Franklin School at 13th and K sts. nw., which later became the Wilson Normal School. In 1883, she was graduated from the Linden Hall Seminary at Lititz, Pa. She was married here in 1887.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Wilson returned to Washington and was secretary to the late Frank Carpenter, a well-known newspaperman of the day. In 1900, she became an employe of the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Department of the Treasury, where she worked as an examiner of bureau agents' accounts until her retirement in 1934.

Besides her son, Mrs. Wilson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert P. Harvey of Long Meadow, Mass., six grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Water Gate Underwriting Plan Started

A plan to underwrite the summer Water Gate concerts against deficits is being explored by the cultural development committee of the Board of Trade.

The concerts by the National Symphony have not been assured yet this season because of a lack of funds and a history of deficits dating back to 1938.

Nub of the plan being considered would be a $15,000 guarantee fund, made up of pledges from business organizations and individuals—a voluntary community contribution.

Other points:

The series would include 18 concerts between June 20 and August 1, with tickets at the same price—60 cents to $1.60.

Highlight of the series would be six Sunday evening concerts to be broadcast from 9 to 10 p. m. over Station WTOP.

Intermission talks at the Sunday broadcasts to emphasize the cultural assets of Washington, such as art, music and education, as well as the attractions of the city for conventions and visitors.

George R. Titus, chairman of the cultural development committee, said yesterday pledges of cooperation have been received from Station WTOP and Frank R. Jelleff, vice president of the Symphony Association.

Msgr. Buckey Dies After Long Illness

MSGR. EDWARD L. BUCKEY
Dies at 86

Right Rev. Msgr. Edward L. Buckey, 86, retired rector of St. Matthew's Cathedral here, died at 5:55 p. m. yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle and other church dignitaries were at the prelate's side when he died.

Monsignor Buckey, who served nearly 50 years at St. Matthew's, had been ailing many months. Four weeks ago, he was admitted to the hospital, where physicians last night said his death was due largely to infirmities of age.

At his bedside besides the Archbishop were Right Rev. Msgr. John K. Cartwright, who succeeded Monsignor Buckey at St. Matthew's; Right Rev. Msgr. John Russell of St. Patrick's Church here; Rev. W. Louis Quinn, assistant rector of St. Matthew's, and two sisters, Miss Anne G. Buckey and Mrs. Myddelton Woodville, both of this city.

Convert to Catholicism

Msgr. Buckey began his clerical career not as a Catholic but as a Protestant Episcopal minister in New England, a graduate of the Protestant Episcopal General Theological Seminary in New York.

After nearly 10 years of ministering in the Episcopal faith, he resigned his pastorship of St. John's Church, Newport, R. I., and went to Rome to study. He was received into the Roman Catholic Church and confirmed in the faith by Cardinal Parochi, in Rome, in 1898.

A native of Washington, he was educated here at Columbian College, now George Washington University, before he entered training for the ministry.

Studied at Baltimore

Following his conversion to Catholicism and his special training in Rome, he entered St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore. He was graduated and ordained on May 1, 1901, by Cardinal Gibbons, and celebrated his first mass at Holy Trinity Church, in Georgetown.

As Father Buckey, he was made assistant pastor of St. Matthews Cathedral, Rhode Island ave., above 17th st. nw., 10 days after his ordination. He remained there in that capacity until October 15, 1922, when he was appointed rector.

On August 3, 1929, he was invested Domestic Prelate, with title of Monsignor. And on May 17, 1940, he was named Prothonotary Apostolic by Pope Pius XII. He retired in December, 1945, in his eighty-fourth year after nearly half a century of service to his chosen faith.

Besides his two sisters present at his death, Msgr. Buckey leaves a third sister, Mr. William Fitzhugh Gurley of this city.

Solemn pontifical mass will be celebrated Monday at 10:30 a. m. at St. Matthew's Cathedral by Archbishop O'Boyle. The office of the dead will be recited at the Cathedral at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Ferguson Dead at 65; Phone Pioneer

Mrs. Eleanor M. Ferguson, 65, of 1920 Glen Ross rd., Silver Spring, Md., a pioneer telephone operator, died yesterday en route to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda.

Mrs. Ferguson was stricken with a heart attack Tuesday night at her home.

Born in Oil City, Pa., she came to Washington as a child. At the age of 15, she began work as an operator for the telephone company in Washington and later was supervisor of an independent agency in Silver Spring, which she operated in her home for 11 years.

In 1927, the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. established its building in Silver Spring and took over the independent agency. She served the company as an operator until her death. During a tornado in 1923, she recruited rescue help for the Silver Spring area while the power lines were down and resumed service one hour after the telephones were cut off. For this work she received a medal from the Washington telephone company for outstanding work.

At the time of her death she represented the telephone employes union at the Shepherd exchange in Silver Spring and also the Federal Credit Union.

She is survived by her husband, Warren T. Ferguson; two sons, Robert A. Ferguson, of Chevy Chase, Md., and Warren T. Ferguson, jr., of Ardmore, Md.; and a sister, Mrs. Oscar Knabe, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Eight grandchildren also survive.

Services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Warner Pumphrey funeral home, 8434 Georgia ave., Silver Spring. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

JACK KRAMER and Bobby Riggs bring their tennis show back to Uline Arena in a couple of weeks, with the honesty of their tour pretty well established. The see-saw results in the early weeks of their six-month show had the cynics in full cry, and there were unkind insinuations that the pair was sticking to the script.

POVICH

But look at 'em now. When Kramer whipped Riggs at Syracuse the other night, it was his fifty-seventh victory in 76 battles between the pair, but that fact hasn't kept the crowds away. Up in Montreal, a couple of nights before, they drew 9600 customers to their exhibition. They're proving it doesn't have to be a close series to get the crowds out. They're making more money for themselves than did any other tennis pro with the exception of Bill Tilden.

The first year Tilden went on tour, he mopped up $130,000. Kramer won't hit that figure, but he could make a hundred grand this year out of the business of being a tennis pro. He has already netted more than the $50,000 guarantee Promoter Jack Harris promised him and has now junked that figure in favor of the percentage of the total gate that was his option. He's going abroad with Riggs next month and the promoters estimate that it will be worth $40,000 to Kramer.

RIGGS IS DOING all right, too. He is getting a $35,000 guarantee out of the tour, but it could be his last year in the top money. He faces demotion in the financial arrangements as a result of the lickings he has been taking from Kramer. They'll draft another top amateur as Kramer's touring partner next season and drop Riggs down to a mere supporting role like that of Pancho Segura and Denny Pails on this year's tour. That latter pair plays for 12½ per cent of the receipts.

The next amateur to turn pro probably will be Ted Schroeder, if he winds up with the United States amateur title. He can't command the $50,000 guarantee that Kramer got, because he doesn't own the Wimbledon titles that Kramer had, and he isn't the same colorful kind of performer, but if he beats Kramer on a winter tour next year he'll wind up with the top money.

Riggs incidentally, hasn't made good his promise to beat Kramer when they got on the outdoor courts. He vowed that Kramer's service would be easier to handle off the fast board courts, but in four matches that they have played on the lawn and clay courts thus far the best Riggs could achieve was two victories.

PRO TENNIS reached voting age this year. It all began 21 years ago when C. C. (cash and carry) Pyle lured Suzanne Langlen out of the amateur ranks, and organized the first touring troupe with Mark K. Browne, Vinnie Richards and Howard Kinsey in the supporting cast. They played to packed houses all over America.

For two years, little Richards reigned as the pro tennis champion but he lost the title in 1929 to a swarthy Czech named Karel Kozeluh, who was the private professional at the late Edward B. McLean's Friendship estate on Wisconsin ave. His back court game conquered Richards' low volleys, and Kuzeluh's style of play found and able disciple in Bobby Riggs, who is sometimes known as the "backcourt baron."

Two years was the limit of Kozeluh's reign, too. Out of the amateur ranks came a lanky, gaunt Philadelphian with an all-court, all-style game and a nimble tennis brain. The newcomer was, of course, Bill Tilden, who proved that finesse was just as effective as force. Tilden had both, plus an ability to ham it on the courts, and he made more money than any other pro on tour.

THREE YEARS was Tilden's limit on top. A young Californian with a tremendous service and a fierce forehand drive blasted Tilden out of the title, and moved to the top. That was Ellsworth Vines, and he beat Fred Perry, the dashing British champ who turned pro, in two epic matches by narrow margins. Vines was the champ for five years until he met his master in another Californian, a red-head named Don Budge.

Budge beat Vines on tour, 32 matches to 27, and like Vines, too, stood off the challenge of Perry, and then came the war. Budge never regained the form he had before those four years in the Air Force, and when he returned to the tennis business in 1945 he couldn't quite contend with little Bobby Riggs, who took a 13-to-1 lead in matches and then nosed him out, 24 to 22.

Kramer now is being ranked with the better champions of the power type. He's been blowing Riggs off the courts despite Riggs fame as a defensive player. Tennis opinion is that no challenger will knock off Kramer in the next five years, in a series of matches.

Stahley Strays . . .

Ex-GW Pilot Now 'Skips' To Toledo

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Neil (Skip) Stahley yesterday joined the ranks of the "hello and goodby" football coaches' brigade.

From Seattle came word that he resigned his new post as backfield coach at the University of Washington to take over as head coach at Toledo, (Ohio) University.

Stahley, although he still had a year to go on a three-year contract, quit George Washington U. here to take the job with the Huskies, assisting Howie Odell.

The aptly-named Skip thus keeps pace with another local traveler, Walter Driskill. The former line coach at Maryland left College Park to take the line job at Oklahoma then bounced right back to become business manager of the Baltimore Colts.

Current collegiate record—here or anywhere—still is held by Missouri's Chauncey Simpson, who was GW's coach for a day. After Stahley left, Simpson accepted the Colonial position. Thirty hours later, he wired his resignation and stayed on as Don Faurot's aide.

Max Farrington, director of athletics at GW, finally got the coaching situation under control when John H. (Bo) Rowland came here from Oklahoma City U. to become head coach.

Stephens' Homer Beats Tigers in 11th

Boston, May 5 (AP).—Junior Stephens' eleventh-inning homer gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 win over the Detroit Tigers today after Ted Williams saved matters in the tenth with a magnificent double-play throw to the plate to retire the side with the bases loaded.

The Williams to Birdie Tebbetts play was the Bosox's sixth twin-killing of the game, one under the American League record set by the Yanks in 1942.

Starter Virgil Trucks held the Sox to three hits while coasting along on a 3-1 lead until the ninth. Then Johnny Pesky started a Boston rally with a single to right. Williams followed by bouncing a hit off Eddie Mayo's glove in short-right field and Trucks was yanked for Dizzy Trout.

After a Stephens bunt forced Williams at second as Pesky made third, the latter scored when Trout threw wild trying to pick him off base. Stan Spence's pinch-hit single drove in Stephens with the tying run.

The Tigers filled the bases against Ellis Kinder, the third Boston pitcher in the chilly action, with none out in the tenth on a pass to Johnny Lipon and singles by Mayo and George Kell. But Kinder made Ed Mierkowicz whiff before Walt Evers laced a drive into left-center. Williams made a brilliant running catch and then rifled a one-bounce throw to nail Lipon at the plate.

Lefty Mel Parnell opened for the Bosox and gave Detroit all but one of its 11 hits before being replaced by Harry Dorish with two out in the eighth.

Goodall Golf Starts Today

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 5 (AP).—Sixteen of the world's best golfers, chosen with tender care, are scheduled to open play tomorrow in the Goodall round robin invitation tournament at the Wykagyl Country Club.

The tournament, unique in the complexity of its scoring system, runs through four days, during which each of the 16 stars bats his way around the course five times in "match play" against his opponents.

At the end, the player with the highest "plus" score wins. Last year it was Bobby Locke, and the South African perfectionist is back to defend his laurels. Added international spice will be added by the presence of Henry Cotton, greatest of modern British players.

Only one round is carded tomorrow, with two on Friday and one each on Saturday and Sunday. Pairings for the opening round are as follows:

1. Jim Ferrier, Claude Harmon, Dutch Harrison and Bob Hamilton.
2. Johnny Palmer, Chic Harbert, Ed Furgol and Herman Barron.
3. Lloyd Mangrum, Herman Keiser, Vic Ghezzi and Cary Middlecoff.
4. Bobby Locke, Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan and Henry Cotton.

They Gain an Inch—

Caps Trade Mahnken, 6'-8", For Bullets' Hermsen, 6'-9"

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

THE WASHINGTON CAPS added stature to their Basketball Association of America team yesterday by trading Center John Mahnken, 6 feet 3 inches, to Baltimore for Center Kleggie Hermsen, 6 feet 9 inches.

Mahnken

The deal was an even swap with no money involved. Owner M. Uline, General Manager Paul Rothgeb and Head Coach Red Auerbach worked out the trade for the Caps with only Business Manager Bill Dyer and Coach Buddy Jeanette representing the Bullets.

Mahnken's loss is the first change in the Cap combination of Norlander McKinney, Mahnken, Feerick and Scolari which in 1947 swept to the Eastern Division championship and flunked out in the playoffs and which failed to make the playoffs this past season.

That Mahnken, former Georgetown All-America, was doomed to go was rumored before the 1947-48 season was completed. The big New Yorker was at odds with most of the members of his team and two of them didn't even speak to him.

Mahnken was an in-and-out performer last year. His scoring dropped off considerably and he finished way down the list of point-makers with less than 300 points for the 48-game schedule.

Hermsen looped in 575 points for the Bullets during the regular season and tossed in 86 in the play-offs which saw the Baltimoreans win the league title in their first year of competition. Kleggie starred for the University of Minnesota. His pro experience includes a year with the Sheboygan (Wis.) Reds of the National Basketball League, and half season with the Toronto Huskies, onetime members of the BAA.

He jumped the Huskies in mid-season to join the Bullets, then in the American League, and was barred from the BAA. When Baltimore was admitted to the association, however, his suspension was lifted.

Mahnken played with the Rochester Royals, of the National League, before switching to the Caps.

Pirates Score 2 in 9th, Win 6th in Row, 3-2

Pittsburgh, May 5 (AP).—Snatching two runs after two outs in the ninth, the first place Pittsburgh Pirates edged out the Boston Braves 3-2 today to chalk up their sixth straight triumph.

Frankie Gustine and Wally Westlake, both of whom had singled, scored on singles by Ed Stevens and Danny Murtaugh. The Braves had held a 2-1 lead since the fifth, when they got two of their nine hits.

Kirby Higbe was credited with the win, although he worked but one inning. Elmer Riddle allowed no earned runs in pitching eight rounds against Johnny Sain.

Phils Beat Cubs; Rowe Breaks Thumb

Chicago, May 5 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies launched their western invasion with a 13-9 victory over the Chicago Cubs here today, but it was small solace for the loss of Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe.

The 38-year-old pitching veteran suffered a fractured thumb on his left hand when he was struck by a vicious line drive off the bat of Harry "Peanuts" Lowrey. He will be sidelined for at least two months.

The Phillies collected 13 hits and 13 walks with Andy Seminick rapping out a three-run homer and Del Ennis and Bert Haas each pounding out two doubles and a single.

Navy Plays Four Tilts in Baltimore

Annapolis, Md., May 5 (AP).—The Navy said today it will be "delighted" to play home football games in the Baltimore Stadium next fall.

Capt. E. B. Taylor, director of athletics, said he would sign the contracts for four 1948 games as soon as they arrive from Baltimore, probably tomorrow.

He said Navy's home games at Baltimore will be against California, September 25; Cornell, October 2; Missouri, October 16, and Notre Dame, October 30.

Busy People

HERE NEXT WEEK—Like Bing Crosby and Edgar Bergen, Jack Kramer (left above) and Bobby Riggs (on the racket) will be busy people when they come to town next week. Kramer and Riggs will clash in a professional tennis match at Uline Arena the night of May 15. The next afternoon Kramer and Riggs will play golf in the National Celebrities Tournament at the Columbia Country Club. The night of May 16, they will be back at Uline Arena in company with other golf tournament celebrities as guests at the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy NBC (WRC) broadcast on which Crosby will be guest star. In the current tour of the world's top professional stars, Kramer is far ahead, 57 to 19.

Hoyas Meet Eagles Today

Upset by Catholic U. last Tuesday, Georgetown attempts to get back on the victory trail today when it invades American U. at 3 p. m.

In another area college game, Maryland entertains Duquesne at 3 o'clock.

The Hoyas own a 13-4 record compared to only 6-7 for American. But the Eagles almost upset the Hoyas two weeks ago when they lost, 5-4, in 11 innings. Walter Bordeaux or John McLaughlin will pitch for American against Tom Flynn.

The Terps go after their fifth win in 16 starts when they send Bob Keene or Tom Fitzpatrick to the mound against the Dukes.

Ken Peterson Tames Giants, Reds Win, 5-2

Cincinnati, May 5 (AP).—Lefty Ken Peterson pulled Cincinnati out of a four-game losing tailspin by limiting the new York Giants to five hits to give the Reds a 5-2 victory.

The 22-year-old southpaw allowed only a pair of singles in the first seven innings. Johnny McCarthy broke his shutout with a homer in the eighth and Bobby Thomson hit his second homer of the year in the ninth.

A two-run error by McCarthy, playing first base for the injured Johnny Mize, wrecked starter Sheldon Jones in the first inning. A single by Johnny Wyrostek, a double by Grady Hatton and a walk to Hank Sauer loaded the bases with one out. Then came McCarthy's boot. Ray Lamanno's outfield fly drove in Sauer with the third run of the inning.

5-Run 4th Helps Walt In Shutout Of Chisox

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Before 3346 clothed-in-the-wool fans who were braving frostbite, Walter Masterson put the chill on the White Sox last night with a four-hit shutout performance that snapped the Nats' five-game losing streak.

Masterson won his ball game, 6 to 0, with a nice lift from Al Kozar, who lifted a long two-bagger into center field in the fourth inning to empty the filled bases.

There were fuzzy visions of no-hit fame for Masterson as late as the sixth inning, but Luke Appling dispatched them with a solid single to center for Chicago's first hit of the game.

Chisox Threaten in 9th

Masterson had to sweat for his shutout in the ninth, though. He had to pitch himself out of a considerable mess after the White Sox filled the bases with none out, and he did it by striking out two men and luring the third into popping up. The White Sox got two of their four hits in that session.

Glen Moulder, a pitching refugee from the St. Louis Browns, was Masterson's pitching opponent at the outset but he departed the premises in the midst of a five-run Washington fourth inning in which Masterson himself drove home the first run.

Moulder had two out in that fourth when the Nats started to get obstreperous. Earl Wooten singled to left and took second on Don Kolloway's bobble, and Jake Early was intentionally passed. Masterson blasted that strategy by blasting a single to center to score Wooten. At that point he was out-hitting the White Sox.

The uprising was renewed when Eddie Yost drew a walk to fill the bases and then Kozar whacked his fat, three-run, two-bagger.

McBride Doubles

The Nats came up with their sixth run in the seventh against Howard Judson, another White Sox rookie, from the campus of the University of Illinois. Tom McBride's double to center touched it off, and two outs later Early drilled a single to center.

The White Sox didn't get a man as far as third base until the ninth and then they threatened to knock Masterson out of the box. Taft Wright commenced it with a double off the right field wall and Aaron Robinson followed with another double to the same sector. Wright, however, cautiously held up at third. Philley drew a walk and the Sox had the bases filled.

And then Masterson went to work, hard. He struck out Bob

Ginargie Easy Victor In Carroll

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., May 5.—The big news here today was the arrival of Citation, the Calumet cannonball and winner of last Saturday's Kentucky Derby. The big horse, shipshape, reached the local course at noon after an uneventful trip from Louisville, Ky., to take up his role as heavy favorite in the Preakness Stakes to be run May 15.

The 3-year-old son of Bull Lea reached the Mount Washington siding of the Pennsylvania Railroad about 11:30 a. m., and within 15 minutes had been unloaded and placed in a van for the short trip to Pimlico, where he joined numerous stablemates.

Making the van trip with Citation was the 2-year-old Good Ending who had been his traveling companion from Havre de Grace to Louisville and back again to Baltimore. Good Ending, victim of an unleading mishap at Havre de Grace earlier this season, was a bit skittish coming off the car and getting into the van but Citation made both moves in unruffled fashion and gave his handlers no trouble.

Trainer H. A. (Jimmy) Jones was on hand to supervise the unloading process and after checking with Groom Steve Genezi and Exercise Boy F. McMillan, who made the trip with Citation, Jones reported "everything's o. k."

Also in the car were Fervent and Free America. Fervent is scheduled to go in Saturday's Dixie Handicap, but Free America is not expected to start at Pimlico, not having progressed sufficiently in his training.

The racing here today wasn't much. A scratch-riddled field of three competed in the $7500 added Carroll Handicap for fillies and mares and the tenth running of the sprint was no contest. S. H. Rogers' Ginargie was so much the best that she was blocked, pulled up and still won by three lengths.

The racing strip was in rugged condition, being deep and heavy as the result of rains of the past two days. Ginargie was clocked in 1:19 2/5, probably the worst 6-furlong time in the stake history of this State.

The crowd of 10,000 bet each of the three starters in the early wagering, but finally settled on Red Herring as the choice with the result that Ginargie paid $4.80.

Stymie On Hand For Dixie Handicap

Baltimore, May 5.—While the youthful upstart Citation drew most attention, Stymie, gallant 7-year-old campaigner, arrived at Pimlico today. Stymie, who now has amassed $818,560, will be out to take a long stride toward being the first million-dollar race horse in history on Saturday when he tries for the Dixie Handicap $25,000 pot. Stymie never has won the Dixie—a prime target for handicap horses.

G.W. High Wins, 7-4, Snaps Eastern's 7-Game Victory Streak

Eastern Star

Miles Runs Up Dollars as He Wins Sprints

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

THE CURRENT INTERHIGH track phenom is Forrest Miles of Eastern, who by winning the 100 and 200 yard sprints last week at University of Maryland, brought his season's earnings to $7.

The money, by no means makes him a pro. It is actually his winnings in a half-joking bet Forrest made with his dad before the track season started.

Harry (Dad) Miles wagered him a dollar a meet that Forrest would not sweep the 100 and 200 in each meet this season. The 17-year-old senior took him up, and has since completed the sweep in all seven Eastern meets.

His twin victories at Maryland were by far his greatest, stamping Forrest as a coming collegiate star. He won the 100 in 9.8 seconds, as fast as any schoolboy anywhere ran the distance last year. His 22.2 for the 220 was only 6/10 seconds off the fastest high school time of last year.

BOTH TIMES WERE meet records, and were set in the face of 7-mile headwinds. Four clocks confirmed his performance in each race.

They were graphic illustrations of the rapid improvement of the 5-foot 7-inch dashman who has been running in competition for less than four years. The first time he ran the 100 at Eliot Junior High he was timed in 11.1, excellent for a 13-year-old.

His best time last year was 10.3. In his last three meets, he's covered the century in successive 10.1, 9.9 and 9.8 times. He ran the 220 in 23.1 last year. He came down to 22.5 early this year. His objective is 22 seconds flat in this Friday and Saturday's Metropolitan Washington High meet at Wilson Stadium.

Forrest credits his improvement to Eastern Coach Joey Kaufman, former dashman at the University of North Carolina. "Mr. Kaufman has corrected flaws in my starts, and I believe my better takeoffs have enabled me to chalk up better times."

The kid, whose name might more aptly fit a cross-country runner, is an honor student, his best subject being mechanical drawing. He hopes to take up radio engineering when he gets to college.

Griffs Blank White Sox, 6-0

Kennedy, watched Cass Michaels raise a foul pop to Eddie Yost, and then got himself completely out of trouble by the very direct expedient of whiffing Pinch Hitter Jim Delsing.

First Shutout for Chicago

For the White Sox, it was their first shutout of the season, including the 40 games they played before the pennant race started . . . McBride, who had been slated to play the outfield only against left-handed pitching, now is a fixture in view of his recent batting splurge against all types . . . Eddie Yost had a leisurely night going to first base. After drawing three walks in a row, he got on base the fourth time by getting hit in the back by a soft pitch . . . The Nats got out of seventh place, even before taking the field last night, Detroit's defeat at Boston moved Washington up to sixth . . . Bill Wight, formerly with the Yankees, will be the pitching opponent of Early Wynn tonight when the Nats and White Sox wind up their three-game series.

Naval Powder Factory Golfers Card 4 Matches

Naval Powder Factory Golf Club of Indian Head, Md., has scheduled matches with the Naval Gun Factory on May 22 and June 12 and with Dahlgren on July 24 and August 29, Club Secretary Harry D. Coleman announced yesterday.

Presidents' 5 Runs in 6th Decide

George Washington's Presidents of Alexandria scored five runs in the sixth inning to hand Eastern its first loss of the season, 7-4, yesterday at Alexandria. Eastern had a seven-game win streak until yesterday.

Billy Rorer started the big sixth for G.W. with a single. A walk to Vic Fleming, successive singles by Jim Gahagan, Buzzy Brown and Don Hanback, and an Eastern error completed the rally.

In the third inning, Eastern took a 3-0 lead on walks to Eddie Kline and Joe Graves, and singles by Bill Kallas, Spike Bauroth and Sal DeGiorgi. The win was G.W.'s ninth in 11 games.

Central Tops Devitt

Central trailed, 5-4, going into the seventh. Ross Keith led off for Central with a triple, and Bill Nader and George Egan walked to fill the bases. Then Kelly let Jim Pantos' easy grounder roll through his legs to give Central the game. Bob Johnson of Central and Dutch Schultz of Devitt hit homers.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON, MAY 5, 1948.

TO ALL OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF THE SOUTHERN:

AS MOST OF YOU KNOW, THREE RAILWAY UNIONS REPRESENTING APPROXIMATELY 125,000 OF THE 1,200,000 RAILROAD WORKERS IN OUR COUNTRY — THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS, THE BROTHERHOOD OF LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN AND ENGINEMEN, AND THE SWITCHMEN'S UNION OF NORTH AMERICA — HAVE SET MAY 11TH AS THE DATE OF A NATION-WIDE STRIKE.

BRIEFLY, THE STRIKE IS BEING CALLED BECAUSE THESE BROTHERHOODS REFUSE TO JOIN THE RAILROADS IN ACCEPTING THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF AN IMPARTIAL EMERGENCY FACT-FINDING BOARD APPOINTED BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN UNDER THE ORDERLY PROCESS ESTABLISHED BY LAW TO REVIEW SUCH DISPUTES.

THIS EMERGENCY BOARD'S RECOMMENDATIONS INCLUDE A WAGE INCREASE OF 15½ CENTS AN HOUR, RETROACTIVE TO NOVEMBER 1, 1947, AND ARE IN LINE WITH THE VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT MADE LAST NOVEMBER BETWEEN THE RAILROADS AND THE ORDER OF RAILWAY CONDUCTORS AND THE BROTHERHOOD OF RAILROAD TRAINMEN. THE SAME WAGE INCREASE OF 15½ CENTS AN HOUR, AWARDED BY AN ARBITRATION BOARD LAST SEPTEMBER, WAS ACCEPTED BY OVER A MILLION NON-OPERATING RAILROAD WORKERS.

WHEN THE STRIKE TAKES PLACE, AS NOW SEEMS CERTAIN, IT IS APPARENT THAT THE TRAINS WILL STOP RUNNING THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY. IT IS ALSO EVIDENT THAT THE RAILROADS HAVE NO INCOME UNLESS THE TRAINS RUN. NEITHER WILL THERE BE ANY NEED FOR THE SERVICES OF THE VAST MAJORITY OF OTHER RAILROADERS IF THE TRAINS AREN'T RUNNING.

IT IS THE INTENTION OF THE SOUTHERN TO MAKE THE FULLEST POSSIBLE REDUCTION IN FORCES IN ALL DEPARTMENTS, IF AND WHEN THE STRIKE OCCURS.

I FEEL THAT YOU ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW, SO YOU MAY PLAN ACCORDINGLY, THAT THIS INFORMATION.

THERE IS NO CHOICE, AND IT IS WITH EXTREME RELUCTANCE THAT I GIVE YOU "COOL HEADS" WILL PREVAIL AND AVERT THE STRIKE. LET US JOIN IN A FERVENT PRAYER THAT THE CALM JUDGMENT OF THE PERSONAL INTERESTS OF ALL OF US. THAT COURSE WOULD BEST SERVE INTEREST OF AVERTING DISASTER TO OUR COUNTRY AND OF NOT GIVING AID AND COMFORT TO THE INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL ENEMIES OF OUR AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE.

I HOPE IT WILL NOT BE NECESSARY TO ASK YOUR COOPERATION IN AN ORDERLY "SHUTTING DOWN" OF THE SOUTHERN. IT IS A HEART-BREAKING PROSPECT TO CONTEMPLATE.

Building Assn. Elects Phelps To Directorate

By S. Oliver Goodman

Phelps

Resources of Washington Permanent climbed to a new high of 16 million dollars, President Carl J. Bergmann reported. Surplus and reserves reached a new peak of $1,450,000. Real estate loans rose to five million dollars.

All officers were reelected, including Bergmann as president; Hermann H. Bergmann, vice president; Francis J. Clark, treasurer, and Julius A. Maedel, secretary.

Reelected directors include C. Rammling, Walter B. Avery, Clyde H. Miller, Max Walten, Joseph N. Saunders, William L. Moore, C. J. Bergmann, H. H. Bergmann, F. J. Clark and J. A. Maedel.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Benjamin Wood, former managing director of Tea Bureau, Inc., has been appointed director of marketing of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute . . . La-Motte T. Cohu, who has resigned as president of Trans World Airline effective June 1, is expected to become president of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Co. . . . Albert H. Gordon, a partner in Kidder, Peabody & Co., has been elected a director of Burlington Mills Corp. . . . Ellsworth C. Alvord and Frazer A. Bailey, both of Washington, have been elected to the council of the United States Associates of the International Chamber of Commerce . . . Lester W. Jones of Baltimore was elected president of the American Spice Trade Association.

SLOWDOWN: Shoe production has fallen sharply in the last month, trade sources say. Retail turnover is slower and fewer orders are being placed with manufacturers. April output is estimated at from thirty-five million to thirty-eight million pairs, compared with forty-five million in March. Many retail outlets are reported watching mounting inventories carefully.

NEW DIRECTORS: Members of the United Food Stores Corp. elected Daniel Bondareff and Nathan Metro as new directors. Other board members were reelected as follows: David Abraham, Louis Grossman, Max Rubin, David Rubinstein, C. Howard Brown, Carl Liberman and George Shapiro. The organization, which consists of 115 independent stores in the Washington metropolitan area, reelected Max Rubin as president and Emory E. Schoolcraft as executive vice president. Other officers, also renamed, as Louis Grossman, first vice president; Carl Liberman, second vice president; David Abraham, treasurer, and David Hornstein, secretary and counsel.

BANK FIGURES: Highlights of Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond's weekly report on 17 Washington member banks:

	Week Ended April 28	Week Ended April 21
Total loans	$219,343,000	$217,365,000
Real estate loans	69,798,000	69,194,000
Total assets	970,105,000	970,841,000
Demand deposits	719,567,000	721,505,000
Time deposits	185,798,000	186,000,000

MORE FAILURES: More retail apparel stores are finding the going too hard this year. Failures in the first three months total 90 with liabilities of $1,712,000. In the entire year of 1947 there were 178 with liabilities of $2,579,000. Dun & Bradstreet reports that failures "are gradually rising but are still considerably less than the prewar years, and far less than has been anticipated."

ODD LOTS: Manufacturers' inventories went up another 100 million dollars in value to a record high of $28,800,000,000 at the end of March, Commerce Department reports . . . Electric power output in week ended May 1 advanced 8.7 per cent over the same 1947 period, after hitting the lowest level of the year in the preceding period, Edison Electric Institute announces . . . Phillips Petroleum Co. plans to spend about 120 million on new capital investments in 1948, but no new financing is contemplated . . . North American Co. proposes to distribute to its stockholders another 239,599 shares of common stock of Wisconsin Electric Power Co. . . . National Broadcasting Co. said it will have a 16-station television network stretching from Missouri to Massachusetts by the end of this year.

EARNINGS: Ohio Oil Co. reported net income of $12,447,155 for the first quarter, equal to $1.90 a common share, compared with $5,891,915 or 90 cents a share in like 1947 period. Other income reports follow:

New Testimony Seeks to Link Otis With Suit

Detroit, May 5 (AP).—An agent of James F. Masterson was in touch with a Cleveland attorney on the day Masterson filed a law suit against Kaiser-Frazer Corp. last February 9, the Securities and Exchange Commission learned today.

The SEC hearing reopened in Detroit today after its first phase was completed in Washington April 29.

After the Masterson suit was filed, Otis & Co. and First California Co. of San Francisco suddenly canceled their agreement to sell Kaiser-Frazer stock. Their agreement with Kaiser-Frazer stipulated that no law suits be pending against the auto firm when the deal was completed.

Charles M. Walton, jr., a Kaiser-Frazer attorney, testified in Washington that the Masterson suit was "phony."

Carl Wixom of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. identified telephone company records purporting to show that David Martin, Detroit attorney for Masterson, on February 7 called a Mr. Harrison at Main 3935 in Cleveland.

The Cleveland number is listed for Marvin C. Harrison, a well-known attorney there, who ran third in 1946 for the Democratic nomination as United States Senator from Ohio.

On February 9, Wixom testified, a Mr. Hull, not otherwise identified, made two collect calls from pay stations in the Wayne County Building in Detroit to Harrison's home phone number. All or part of both tolls were charged to Harrison's office.

On the same day, Martin made two calls to Harrison's office, according to the records identified by Wixom.

The deadline in the stock deal was 10 a. m. (EST). If the suit was filed before that hour, the banking firms contended, it invalidated their agreement with Kaiser-Frazer for handling the stock.

No official record of the time of filing was kept in the county clerk's office because time clocks were broken, County Clerk Edgar M. Branigin testified.

Kelly said the hearing in Detroit will continue at least through Friday.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, May 5 (AP).—Influence of the railroad strike threat on grain prices was emphasized by the action of various futures on the Board of Trade today. While May wheat, corn and oats scored gains, the deferred deliveries of each grain closed with losses after a day of nervous price movements.

The comparative strength of May deliveries was directly traceable to the possibility that the Nation's basic transportation system will be tied up. In that case, traders said there might be some difficulty in getting grain here for delivery on May contracts. Supplies in storage here are small.

Wheat closed 1 cent lower to ⅝ higher, May 2.47@2.46⅛; corn was 1¼ lower to 1½ higher, May 2.32⅛; oats were 1⅛ lower to 1⅛ higher, May 1.12⅝@1.12⅝; and soybeans were 1 to 2 cents higher, May 4.05.

After the close the Government announced it bought four equal to 4,700,000 bushels of wheat. Part of the Government was put of the cash wheat market today after taking only a small quantity yesterday. Traders viewed this merely as a desire not to have wheat buying and flour buying Government agencies competing with one another.

Truman Can Help Rail Labor Back on Its Prewar Track

By J. A. Livingston

D. B. ROBERTSON, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, may have to eat some words.

Two years ago, after two railroad unions lost a two-day Nation-wide strike to President Truman and the Army, he declared: "Any-one possessed of an elementary knowledge of labor relations . . . would have known that a strike against the Government was fore-doomed to fail-ure."

Livingston

Now Robert-son and Alvan-ley Johnston, grand chief en-gineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive En-gineers, who was co-leader of the 1946 strike, threatens a rail-road strike Tuesday. And President Truman is reported considering using a 1916 law to take over the carriers. And A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Train-men, who teamed with Johnston in the '46 strike and at whom Robert-son directed his words, is on the sidelines, knowing he can't lose.

Robertson, Johnston and A. J. Glover, president of the compara-tively small Switchmen's Union of North America, are trying to break a pattern that has been accepted by 17 other unions. Their 200,000 workers are defying a settlement accepted by 1,200,000. If they break the pattern, the nonstriking unions are bound to receive the same terms. That was the precedent of 1946.

IN 1946, Whitney and Johnston wanted basic changes in rules. Eighteen other unions wanted a boost in pay. The 18 accepted an arbitration award of 16 cents an hour plus a few rules changes. When Whitney and Johnston re-fused arbitration, and mediation failed, President Truman named an Emergency Board. After exten-sive hearings, the board recom-mended the accepted pattern—16 cents. Whitney and Johnston said no.

President Truman then used the White House—which was not con-templated in the Railway Labor Act, but for which President Roose-velt established a precedent—to settle the dispute. Truman raised the ante to 18½ cents, but with-drew the rules changes. Whitney and Johnston, in a tart letter, said they were worse off than before, and ordered the strike. Two days of strike and they capitulated. The 18½-cent pattern went for all.

Robertson, Johnston and Glover are pursuing a course similar to that of Whitney and Johnston in '46. On September 2, 1947, an ar-bitration board granted a 15½-cent wage increase to 15 nonoperating unions. On November 14, Whit-ney and H. W. Fraser, head of the Order of Railway Conductors, made a separate agreement with railroad management accepting the 15½-cents-an-hour wage formula plus a few rules changes. That left Robertson, Johnston, Glover and their men against the rest.

On January 27, after mediation failed, the President named an Emergency Board, which held hear-ings from February 2 through March 27. Robertson, Johnston and Glover argued that wages of railroad employes have not kept pace with wages of the country. They observed that a third round of wage boosts was in the making and that the Emergency Board should bear that in mind. But the board held that was a separate is-sue. They should accept the 15½-cent pattern and start new pro-ceedings.

THE three dissenting labor leaders are hemmed in by the pro-cedures and traditions of the Rail-way Labor Act. So long as 85 to 90 per cent of railway workers, as in this case, accept a settlement, then it becomes impossible, except by strike, to break the pattern. Their bargaining has been done for them—by other unions—and that's what they're fighting against.

The temptation at the White House may be to deal directly with Robertson, Johnston and Glover. Yet more than their problems are involved. The issue is not whether they are entitled to more money for their men, but whether they are to be permitted to overthrow the no-strike tradition of the Railway La-bor Act. Thus, all railway labor as well as all citizens in the United States have a stake in what hap-pens from now on out.

Therefore, President Truman would do well to call in all the rail-road labor union presidents to lis-ten to the Robertson, Johnston and Glover arguments. The dis-senters ought to have to prove—to the satisfaction of everyone—that such an overwhelming wrong is be-ing done their men as to justify a strike. If they can prove that, then there'll be no strike. They'll have proved that they should be made exceptions to the pattern.

By the same token, if they can't make out a case—as they haven't before the Emergency Board—then President Truman ought to insist on the restoration of orderly pro-cedure under the law. He ought not to grant a bonus for intransi-geance. It's high time we got the White House out of labor-manage-ment negotiations.

Church Group Merger Plan Voted, 140-13

Delegates to the Congregational Christian Churches Middle Atlantic Conference yesterday voted for a proposed merger of their church with the Evangelical and Reformed church, at a meeting at the First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw.

Delegates from New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, the District of Columbia and northern Virginia voted 140 to 13 for the merger and 150 to 2 in favor of full coopera-tion should it go into effect.

The conference vote will be for-warded to the national organiza-tions and if the merger is favored by a 75 per cent national majority, the proposal will be considered finally at national meetings this summer.

D. C. in Favor 91.6%

The Middle Atlantic Conference is composed of two associations—Washington and New Jersey. The Washington group favored the merger by 91.6 per cent and the New Jersey association was for it by 85.3 per cent.

In addition, delegates adopted resolutions indorsing the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights and opposing the Universal Military Training program. A third resolution called upon church members and ministers to pray for peace with justice and to im-plement this with "study, action and conversation calculated to pre-serve the peace and freedom al-ready present within our civiliza-tion."

Speaking before the group last night, Dr. Paul F. Douglass, presi-dent of American University, urged that Christian man cease his war-fare between "parochial cultures" and live on a "vertical plane" with God.

Puerto Rico Police Break Up Student Demonstration

San Juan, Puerto Rico, May 5 (U.P.).—Police using tear gas today broke up a student demonstration at the gates of the University of Puerto Rico.

Insular Police Chief Col. Salva-dor T. Roig said the demonstration was inspired by nationalist extre-mists agitating for independence from the United States.

The university reopened Monday after being closed since April 15. Yesterday, the insurrection flared up again.

Woman Pirate Held in Fray With Hong Kong Police

Hong Kong, May 5 (AP).—A young Chinese woman pirate was wounded and captured today in a battle between Hong Kong police and her machinegun-armed com-rades at nearby Tiger Hill.

It was one of the biggest pirate hunts in a long time. A flying boat and Indian emergency troops in motor vans came to the aid of a police launch after it was out-gunned by the pirates' junk.

Authorities may have wounded three pirates in a fight that still was in progress tonight after 24 hours.

The young woman pirate was found crouching in undergrowth and holding a Japanese rifle. She had been wounded in the arm.

World Events Seen Topping Fiction Today

The competition of horror realism in world affairs is making creative writing difficult today, according to John Mason Brown, associate editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, in a lecture yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel.

Brown, a former Kentuckian, spoke to several hundred persons at the annual benefit of the Fron-tier Nursing Service of Kentucky.

"The melodrama of events is outdistancing the melodrama of literature," the drama critic said. "Pictorial records of our time, seen in films, magazines and news-papers, tend to overshadow a crea-tive novel, no matter how skill-fully it is written."

Nevertheless a generation of able young writers is emerging, he pointed out. Among them are John Hersey, Basil Heater, and James A. Michener, who won the Pulitzer prize with his "Tales of the South Pacific."

"I would rather read of the world as these young men see it," said Brown, "than waste my time on the escapist novels produced by some of their addled elders. I like my history straight."

Women's City Club Picks Miss Griffin As President

Miss Marguerite Griffin of 1710 Connecticut ave. nw. yesterday was elected president of the Women's City Club to succeed Mrs. Gladys Bowling.

Miss Griffin has been employed for the past 14 years by the National Geographic Society. Be-fore her election she served as chairman of the club's world re-lations committee.

Other new officers chosen yes-terday include Miss Marjorie Web-ster, first vice president, and Miss Marjorie Harter, recording secre-tary. The following were elected to the board of directors: Mrs. Bowling, Mrs. Gertrude Parks, Mrs. Lillian F. King, Miss Etta Mae Russell and Miss Mary E. Gott.

Lieut. Seater's Two Daughters Given His DSC

Two proud young daughters of Lieut. James E. Seater yesterday were given his Distinguished Serv-ice Cross and seven other medals he won before he died in a Jap-anese prison camp.

The awards, given by Gen. Jon-athan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan, went to Diana, 8, and Daphne, 6, while their mother beamed. They live at 1657 31st st. nw.

Lieutenant Seater won the DSC in 1942 while leading a mission aboard a small armed motor launch. The mission encountered a large enemy patrol and sank and damaged several vessels. He was captured after the fall of Cor-regidor.

Canada Expels CIO Organizer As Communist

Toronto, May 5 (AP).—Reid Rob-inson, CIO union organizer, was in effect ordered deported to the United States today as a Commu-nist. Robinson said he was not a Communist and never had been.

Robinson

The deporta-tion became man-datory when an Ontario Supreme Court refused his appeal for discharge from custody on a deportation order.

Robinson, eastern president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Work-ers Union, came to Canada last fall to direct union organization in gold fields of northern Ontario. He has been in jail since his ap-peal against a deportation order was thrown out two weeks ago.

Following the judgment, Robin-son said:

"My deportation makes it pos-sible for any international repre-sentative of a trade union to be barred from Canada simply by having an employer accuse him of being a Communist."

South Korea Leaders, Reds Reach Accord

Seoul, Korea, May 5 (U.P.).—Two powerful right-wing political lead-ers from South Korea announced today they had reached an agree-ment with the North Korean Com-munist government on formation of a unified, independent state.

The agreement defied American occupation policy and was likely to affect the United Nations-spon-sored elections in South Korea, set for next month.

The rightists, Kim Koo and Kimm Kiusic, who was hand-picked by American occupation authori-ties as president of the southern Korean interim legislature, said the Korean Communist govern-ment agreed to a five-point pro-gram which included the with-drawal of American and Soviet troops from Korea.

Earlier today, United States Military Governor Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge flatly rejected a Com-munist suggestion that American troops withdraw immediately.

"There is every reason to believe that if such a withdrawal were carried out as demanded, the North Korean Communist army and its horde of power-hungry camp followers and stooges already selected and trained for the job would take over control of the rest of the nation," Hodge said.

Kim Koo and Kimm Kiusic re-turned to Seoul today after at-tending a "unity" conference for three weeks at Pyongyang, capital of Russian-occupied Korea.

Smiling broadly, they walked across the thirty-eighth parallel dividing the United States and Russian zones into the village of Yonan, where they were greeted by correspondents and about 100 cheering supporters.

They were driven to the demar-cation line in two Russian sedans, escorted by a jeep. A Russian army officer, four members of the North Korean constabulary armed with tommy guns and one smartly uniformed officer of the North Ko-rean people's army formed their honor guard.

The two south Korean political leaders said they would hold a joint press conference tomorrow. Kimm Kiusic said the North Koreans had treated him "grandly" and had agreed to his five-point program:

1. "Establishment of a unified government for all Korea and a general election in the entire na-tion."

2. Rejection of any form of dictatorship and establishment of a democratic government.

3. Rejection of "monopolistic capitalism, yet recognition of private property rights."

4. No military bases for any foreign nation.

5. Immediate Soviet-American negotiations to withdraw occupa-tion troops, followed by an an-nouncement to the world of each power's intention regarding the future of Korea.

D. C. Polio Unit Presented With $62,644 Check

Judge Fay L. Bentley, chairman of the District of Columbia Chap-ter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., was yes-terday presented with a check for $62,644.95—Washington's half of the $125,289.90 raised by the 1948 March of Dimes and Mile o' Dimes campaigns.

The presentation was made by Edgar Morris, general chairman of the combined Dimes drives, in Judge Bentley's chambers at the Juvenile Court, 4th and E sts. nw.

A second check for $62,644.95 was sent earlier in the day to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., New York head-quarters, where the money will be used to further research and other work in the fight against polio.

A third check for $14,833—which was not included in the local to-tal—was sent to Maryland and Vir-ginia chapters of the National Foundation. This money was col-lected from surburban areas by the Mile o' Dimes drive conducted by local radio stations.

Gasoline Priority Ratings Worked Out

By the United Press

Petroleum industry leaders de-cided yesterday that farmers, doc-tors, transit lines and the armed forces should be given top priority for scarce gasoline this year.

The share system is part of a voluntary industry wide oil-saving program approved by the National Petroleum Advisory Council at a meeting with Interior Department officials. It would be administered by the industry.

Living Ideals Held Answer To Problems

A world of living ideals "where man won't want to kill his fellow man" is the answer to today's prob-lems, Mrs. Gertrude Hart Day told the quarterly luncheon yesterday of the National Conference of Christians and Jews executive committee.

Mrs. Day, who directs the NCCJ's New Haven (Conn.) Neigh-borhood Project, said that through the work there, all elements in the neighborhood have become aware of the beliefs of people other than those of their own creed, nationality or race, and that a respect has grown up for each family that is growing each day.

But Mrs. Day said best success can be achieved through children. "Adults have failed to make the world good. It is the children who have in their hands the fruits of good or evil. And the children teach their mothers and fathers."

At the luncheon meeting, held at the Willard Hotel, new members of the NCCJ were announced as Watson B. Miller, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization; Harry N. Peterson, librarian of the District of Columbia, and Mrs. Ed-ward B. Sonneborn, of the National Council of Jewish Women.

Girl Falls From Trapeze During Circus

New York, May 5 (U.P.).—A girl acrobat fell 30 feet from a fly-ing trapeze as 19,000 spectators watched a matinee performance of the Barnum & Bailey-Ringling Brothers Circus today.

Beautiful Jean Rockwell, 25, one of the 50 girls of the Monte Carlo troupe, fell on her head.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1948

CHILDREN'S room in the Eye Department of George Washington Hospital has books and toys, and equipment that is painted bright colors to the delight of little patients. Above, Robert Canova looks into a fusion instrument which is part of valuable new equipment used by specialists in the department. Looking on is Mrs. Walter Bloedorn, wife of the medical director of the hospital and dean of George Washington University School of Medicine

Women's Board Plans Benefit

'Summertime' Style Show Will Aid G. W. Hospital

By Peggy Preston

CONTRIBUTING their share to the equipment fund of the new George Washington Hospital is a major project of members of the women's board this year.

The quota they have pledged will go toward maintaining and replacing the valuable modern equipment and furnishings that have been installed in the recently opened hospital.

So, taking a cue from dozens of other fund-raising organizations around town, members are staging a benefit fashion show, Tuesday, May 11, at Lisner Auditorium. There will be two showings, at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. respectively, and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, North 7863, or Miss Douglas Hatch, Decatur 5144. Fashions for the show, entitled "In the Good Old Summertime," will be from Julius Garfinckel & Co.

In addition to possessing splendid medical equipment, Washington's newest hospital is one of the most beautifully furnished buildings of its kind in the country. Its decorative scheme, conceived by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, carries out the theory that sick persons are benefited by cheerful, warm colors, rather than traditional, glaring white.

Pastel Shades Used

Six pastel shades are used throughout. Included are soft pink, yellow, green and gray. They are apportioned so that warm colors are used in the shady rooms and cool colors in the sunny rooms.

A blond finish is used on all the furniture and deepest color in upholstery is the maroon leather on chairs and sofas, grouped in small lounges on the various floors. Draperies of flowered chintz, colorful and festive, are hung in most of the public rooms.

The conference room, one of the most attractively furnished in the building, carries out a color scheme of beige, yellow, rose and gray. Sofas are done in flowered fabrics, chairs in plain colors.

Tile walls are a characteristic throughout the entire building, the colors varying according to the type of room or wall. Corridors, for instance, are lined half way up with French gray, the remainder done in a soft, peach shade. Green tile is used in the operating rooms.

Kitchen Interests Women

Of special interest to feminine visitors are the hospital's kitchen and dietary department, where the latest in equipment and design has been employed. Main section is located on the ground floor, and extensive pantry branches are on each of the above floors, where food is served directly to the patients.

In the main kitchen, food is prepared on a battery of huge ranges, grouped in the center of the floor and flanked by ovens, stock pots, etc. Other preparation and work centers, such as bakeshop, butcher shop, cold preparation shop and vegetable room are arranged conveniently in relation to the main preparation unit. There i also a subzero storage compartment and equipment for making ice cream.

Best features, so far as the patients are concerned, are the selective menus. They may make their choice from a variety of items instead of accepting standa. fare.

THE handsomely equipped central laboratory occupies one entire wing of the fourth floor; smaller laboratory branches are located on each floor. Above, at right, Dr. Thomas Perry, director or laboratories, explains the operation of a piece of equipment in Washington's newest medical building to two members of the women's board, from left to right, Mrs. Douglas Hatch and Mrs. Daniel Moffett

A BATTERY of huge ranges occupies the center of the main kitchen. Roasting ovens, trunion kettle and stock pots are conveniently located near the stoves, making for easier, more efficient work. Mrs. Paul Dickens is an interested spectator as one of the cooks readies a tray of ground beef patties for the broiling oven

Symphony Leader Weds Mrs. Persis Myers Hill

By Marie McNair

AND so—they were married.

Rumors that have been flying for months were set at rest yesterday with the marriage of Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, and Mrs. Persis Myers Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt Myers.

MRS. McNAIR

The ceremony was performed at noon in the Warren Presbyterian Church in Kensington, Md., with the Rev. Wendell Tredick, jr., officiating. Only members of the families and a handful of close friends attended.

Before he sailed for Europe earlier this spring, I asked Dr. Kindler point blank if he had been secretly married as the story that he had was on practically everyone's lips. His answer was a definite "no." But he added, "maybe soon."

The new Mrs. Kindler shares with her husband a love of music and an ambition to put the National Symphony in the top ranks among the Nation's orchestras. Mr. and Mrs. Myers have long been patrons of the symphony and Dr. Kindler's close friends. The bride was formerly married to John Rowland Hill, from whom she was divorced last year. She has two children—Rowland Myers Hill and Evelyn Hill.

Dr. Kindler, who is also divorced, has three children—Helen, who is now Mrs. Robert Behrens, Jan and Don.

SHOPPING, sightseeing and business appointments are keeping King Peter of Yugoslavia and Queen Alexandra in New York until the middle of next week.

ONE of the unusual pieces of equipment in the Physical Medicine Department of the new George Washington Hospital is this Hubbard Tub, an intricately designed exercise tank for use in the treatment of adult polio cases. Above a nurse explains the operation of the tank to Mrs. Ronald Cox of the women's board.

Town Club to Install Mrs. Hay Tuesday

Mrs. Donald Hay will be installed president of the Town Club at the luncheon meeting Tuesday at Washington Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Dean A. Snyder, retiring president, will conduct the ceremonies.

Others to take office with Mrs. Hay include Mrs. Halbert Poole, jr., first vice president; Mrs. James O'Donnell, jr., second vice president; Mrs. D. Franklin Lady, third vice president; Mrs. Clinton Raynor, recording secretary; Mrs. Arthur C. Smith, jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Allen N. Humphrey, treasurer; Mrs. S. Emery Cooley, historian, and Mrs. Edward J. Fletcher, chaplain. Mrs. Wendell Lund was chosen delegate to the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs.

Sale Is Sad Commentary

Friendship's Furnishings, Chipped, Worn and Lavish, Reflect Past Way of Life.

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

"AS IS; badly worn; handle as is; slightly chipped; tail as is; some baguettes missing; torn on seam, cigarette burn; one drawer missing; silver plated; cover missing; one handle as is; burner missing; with age cracks; one bobeche missing; some stones missing; piece of marquetry missing—as is, as is, missing, missing, missing—"

These brief catalogue tabs make pathetic obituary to Evalyn Walsh McLean, whose personal possessions are to be auctioned next week at Friendship, her rambling house off Wisconsin Avenue.

On the terrace, weather stained porch furniture, in front, cache-pot embossed with more cupids, three buggies, fountains with cherubs, one atop the other, totem-pole style. On the walls, indifferent paintings, a handsome portrait of the late President Harding. Among the curiosities, a giant stuffed mountain goat head, encrusted with cairngorm, sealed in a glass shadow box; a 10-foot tall crystal and brass kerosene lamp; a dozen parasols, a litter of gold mesh bags, jewelled stick pins, mother-of-pearl crucifixes

Gilded Cradle

PUSHED into a corner was an elaborate Louis XV (supposedly) gondola shaped, white lacquer gilded cradle. Lined with tufted pink satin, catalogued curiously "slightly as is," it's said to be the crib used by Mrs. McLean's eldest son, the million dollar baby who was killed by an automobile. The bedroom furniture, much of it reproduction Empire, was outsize, ugly. Over Mrs. McLean's own bed hung a light on a long cord—with a sleazy taffeta shade. Among the clutter of ornate silver we spotted some simple flatware, a dozen or so plain coffee pots. Looking for monograms or initials we found an inscription "Shoreham Hotel." The famous, much publicized gold and crystal dining room table ornaments, vases, bonbonnieres, epergnes and such, proved to be gilt, and several of the crystal dishes were missing.

All in all, to an old auction hand, the rugs, in fair condition, seem the best buys.

The house, its indiscriminate furnishings, is a sad commentary on a way of living now almost as extinct as the dodo-bird. Gilt, elaborate doodabs, a magpie failing for keeping everything, no taste for simplicity of line, merely acquisition because an object appeared expensive. Servants, hired for the mammoth McLean parties, damaged expensive porcelain recklessly, scratched silver unmercifully. Obviously it was easier to buy something new than repair or mend.

Fighting for Statehood

ALASKA'S Governor Ernest Gruening is in town on one of his periodic visits. He's here putting up a good, behind-the-scenes fight for Alaska's statehood. Though the Governor has reigned over our chilliest territory for many years, he achieved literary fame in a more clement clime. He's the author of one of the "best" books on Mexico — it's called "Mexican Heritage" and should be a must for anyone jaunting across our southern border.

This department apologizes for an error in yesterday's column. Though the Charles Dewey's son Peter was killed in Indo-China, he wasn't their only son, as we said. There's a Charles S. Dewey, jr., better known as "Bud," who survived a hectic war-time career and is very much alive in New Jersey.

Burtons Fete Rep., Mrs. Davis

In honor of Representative and Mrs. Clifford Davis, a reception was held yesterday at the Congressional Club by Associate Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton. Spring flowers were placed around the circular ballroom, where a stringed orchestra played, and guests were received at the top of the staircase by the host and hostess and their guests of honor.

Several hundred attended the fete, including Mrs. Truman and members of diplomatic and residential society. Mrs. Burton was particularly happy to entertain for Mrs. Davis, as the latter succeeded her as president of the Congressional Club.

Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian Ambassador, and Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador, were among those who took turns presiding at the tea table. Others included Mrs. Bruggmann, wife of the Swiss Minister; Mrs. Clinton Anderson, Mrs. Tom C. Clark, Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mrs. Wallace White, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Mrs. Ralph Church, Mrs. Joseph Farrington and Mrs. Carlos P. Romulo.

Tea in Bishop's Garden Fetes Cathedral Association Members

The Bishop's Garden at the Washington Cathedral was the setting for a tea yesterday given by the Episcopal Bishop of Washington, the Right Rev. Angus Dun, and Mrs. Dun, in honor of the National Cathedral Association.

The fete was a welcome to the committee and out-of-town chairmen, who are attending a three-day meeting which opened yesterday.

The Cathedral Association is a Nation-wide organization of friends of the great unfinished cathedral. Its purpose is to maintain the day-by-day work and worship of the cathedral.

Marine Band Plays

Mrs. Fred Vinson and Mrs. William O. Douglas were among those serving punch. Others taking their turn were Mrs. Robert Lovett, Mrs. Will Clayton, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. H. Alexander Smith, Mrs. Lister Hill, Mrs. Raymond Baldwin, Mrs. John W. Bricker, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Robert Taft, Mrs. Harry F. Byrd, Mrs. Omar Bradley, Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, Mrs. Louis Denfeld, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Mrs. Luther D. Miller and Mrs. Orme Wilson.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was there to assist, and still others included Mrs. Dean Acheson, Mrs. Stephen Dorsey, Mrs. Robert La Follette, Mrs. Marquis Childs and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre.

Guild Assists

Members of the executive and garden committees of All Hallows Guild, which has charge of the maintenance of the Bishop's Garden, were assistant hostesses and guides yesterday.

Today Association members will continue with business and committee meetings. A special Ascension Day service will be held in the Bethlehem Chapel at 11 a. m.

At 8:30 p. m. the Cathedral Choral Society will give Bach's Mass in B Minor in the cathedral. The performance will be under the direction of Paul Callaway, with Nell Tangeman, Ruth Diehl, Edwin Steffe, and William Hess as soloists.

Wakehursts Honored at Two Parties

THE Australian Ambassador, Norman Makin, was host at dinner last evening at the embassy, entertaining in honor of Lord and Lady Wakehurst, visitors here from England. Lord Wakehurst, until recently Governor of New South Wales, is chairman of the Council of the English Speaking Union in Great Britain.

In the absence of Mrs. Makin, Miss Dorothy Stirling, sister of the Australian Minister, acted as hostess.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Will Clayton, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. McFarlane, Charles Dewey, president of the Washington Branch of the English Speaking Union, and Mrs. Dewey; and Mr. and Mrs. George Maurice Morris, with whom Lord and Lady Wakehurst are staying.

Following dinner, members of the Australian Embassy staff and their wives came in for an informal reception.

At luncheon yesterday Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor entertained for Lady Wakehurst at Wild Acres, her home in Bethesda, and Dr. Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, was host to Lord Wakehurst.

Mrs. Grosvenor's guests included Mrs. George Maurice Morris, Mrs. Nelson Johnson, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. Henry Jewett, Mrs. Alexander Wetmore, Mrs. L. O. Colbert, Mrs. John Oliver LaGorce, Mrs. George Hutchison, Mrs. Walter Myers and Mrs. Lilian Coville, daughter of the hostess.

The British Ambassador, Lord Inverchapel, was a guest of Dr. Grosvenor at luncheon.

The auburn haired Queen, who is several inches taller than her husband, exclaimed upon arrival in New York: "I want to see everything, do everything; it's my first visit here and I've heard so much about it."

The King, a visitor to this country six years ago, can show her the sights. He came to Washington on that visit, was entertained by the American Newspaper Women's Club and at a series of official fetes.

THE famous Inka Taki trio of Peru will perform for guests at the Peruvian Embassy on Sunday at a cocktail party the Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Ferreyros will give.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William H. Arnold will entertain on Wednesday, May 19, at their quarters at Fort McNair and on Friday, May 14, there's to be a colorful ceremony at Fort Myer in celebration of the sixth anniversary of the Women's Army Corps. The retreat parade by the Third Infantry Regiment at 5 p. m. will be followed by a reception at Hop Hall.

Any number, just so it's four, or adds up to four, will suit members of the Indian Embassy staff. They're so superstitious about that number that some of the secretaries and attaches are trying to wangle license plates with the digit or a combination of it for their cars.

Brazilian Officers Honor Col. Kingman

BRAZILIAN Air Attache, Brig. Gen. Ivan Carpenter Ferreira, and Lieut. Col. H. F. Koeler, chief of Brazilian aeronautical commission, were hosts at luncheon yesterday at La Salle Du Bois in honor of Col. Allan F. Kingman, U. S. A., field commissioner for military programs.

Guests included Maj. Alfonso Costa, Maj. E. L. Correa, Maj. H. Bonapace, Capt. D. M. Ferreira, Capt. J. C. Dieguez, Capt. F. Rugiero, Capt. J. F. Lourenco, Lieut. J. O. Santos and P. E Tole, all of Brazil.

Bachelor Farmer, 80, Suggests That Nephew And Wife Come Live With Him, a Move That Appeals to Man, But Which Wife Thinks Unwise

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband has a bachelor uncle, 80 years old, who owns quite a large farm. He wants us to come and live on his farm and my husband wants to do this, with an eye to having the farm after his uncle passes on.

I don't want to leave our little 17-acre place, as I love it dearly; and though Uncle Dan is a dear, he is very set in his ways. He likes me very much but I am afraid to risk the move; and John and I have enough property now without accumulating more.

In addition to this little place, where we have chickens, a cow and a good market for our eggs, we own three houses in a fairly large city, have a large amount of cash in the bank, some thousands of dollars invested in Government bonds, and no debts whatever.

Man Is Aiming At Inheritance

I AM telling you this so you will see that my husband doesn't need his uncle's farm. Our little place is 17 miles from my husband's work in town and Uncle Dan's farm is much closer in, only 5 miles out. John gives this as his reason for wanting to move, but I am sure his real reason is the hope that uncle will leave him the farm.

There are three other relatives who expect a share, but my husband thinks the place will be deeded to him. I think it's terrible to scheme to get property and money, especially when you don't need it; and I know trouble will ensue if we move there. So my problem is whether to risk our very happy marriage by obliging my husband's wish in this matter?

F. C.

Uncle's Project Is Self-Serving

DEAR F. C.: Obviously you are a woman of rare common sense and incorruptible integrity, with sturdy self reliance and freedom from pettiness your outstanding traits, qualities of which Uncle Dan is positively mindful, I'm sure, in urging you and John to come live with him; or rather, move in and take care of his person and possessions in his last years.

As an octogenarian bachelor and man of property, his existence has been self-centered and (to a degree) self-sufficient for years, I daresay; but now his sense of self-sufficiency has begun to dissolve as he realizes that great age must have immediate companionship for emergency.

Hence he is casting about for the best self-serving arrangement he can devise, at least expense and inconvenience to himself (in the way of change), and one that will yield him maximum dividends of comfort and security, in terms of conserving his health, strength and property holdings,—and so, in effect, he is holding a carrot in front of John's nose.

Wife's Character The Drawing Card

EVALUATING his cloudy proposition, it is my thought that his bid doesn't mean he feels a preferential bias for John as versus other potential heirs, or tacit intent to deed his farm to John in payment for caretaker services, or faith that this nephew would be more devoted to his welfare than other relatives; but rather (1) that he knows John's cupidity, hence his vulnerability to the carrot-approach, and (2) that consciously or unconsciously, he feels he can trust you absolutely, as a fine disinterested character.

In brief, it strikes me that basically he is counting on your helpfulness, as conscientious housekeeper and goodhearted prospective nurse, to be the best of the bargain if he can swing this deal through John, by fanning his hopes of a plum, though guaranteeing none.

As a man of means, it's the uncle's obligation to meet his needs in a businesslike way, on a clear-cut basis, here and now; and I quite agree you would be foolish to take stock in his wily offer, which is sure to breed ruction if acted on. So do yourself the justice of turning it down; and for John's information may I say Uncle Dan is more likely to leave his cherished land to thrifty kin who don't need or angle for it, rather than to any who would scrabble, scheme and slaver for it. M. H.

Depends on the Attention

If you have time to stir the custard constantly and see that it does not stick to the pan, an ordinary saucepan may be used, but if you are busy around the kitchen with other things by all means cook the custard in a double boiler.

Winter Potatoes

If the potatoes you bought for winter are not quite used up add a slice of lemon to the water in which they are boiled. It will prevent them from discoloring and give them a better taste.

Fast Colors

One important thing to remember when buying bath towels is to buy them with fast colors. There is nothing so unattractive in the bathroom as a faded, bedraggled bath towel.

Tireless First Lady

Mrs. Truman Embarks On Busy Social Schedule

By Elizabeth Maguire

After shaking hands with 1800 guests Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Truman began another two weeks of luncheons, teas and receptions. Yesterday at 5 o'clock she received 230 representatives of the National Conference on Family Life, and later attended the tea at the Congressional Club given by Associate Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton in honor of Representative and Mrs. Clifford Davis.

Today she will attend the Cathedral Choral Society concert at the Cathedral at 8:30 p. m., and tomorrow she will open the annual flower mart at the Cethedral. If it rains, the latter ceremony will be postponed until Saturday.

Other highlights in the forthcoming two weeks include the annual White House picnic for the Senate Ladies' Luncheon Club on Wednesday, May 19, at which Mrs. Truman, the ladies of the Cabinet and the wives of the Secretary of the Army, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Secretary of the Air Force will act as hostesses.

Garden Party

The President and Mrs. Truman will receive members of the American Law Institute and the ladies accompanying them at a tea on Friday, May 21, and on Wednesday, May 26, the President and Mrs. Truman will give a garden party for veterans hospitalized in Government hospitals in Washington.

Other engagements include a luncheon given by the B'Nai B'Rith Women, Argo, at which Mrs. Truman will be guest of honor, on May 10; and a breakfast on May 11 given by the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs at the Mayflower Hotel, at which Mrs. Truman will again be guest of honor. The afternoon of May 11 the First Lady will attend the benefit fashion show and carnival which the Women's Board of the George Washington University Hospital will give at Lisner Auditorium.

May 12, Mrs. Truman will attend a luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club, given by the Colonial Dames of America. The following day, May 13, she will have a luncheon for wives of the members and delegates to the fourth International Congress on Tropical Medicine and Malaria.

To Receive Penwomen

On Saturday, May 15, she will receive the delegates attending the biennial convention of the National League of American Pen Women, and on Monday, May 17, Mrs. Truman will be guest of honor at a luncheon which the 76th Club will give at the Wardman Park Hotel.

A luncheon given by the Washington Section of the National Council of Jewish Women at the Mayflower Hotel on Tuesday will be attended by Mrs. Truman, and in the afternoon of the same day she will receive ladies accompanying the members of the American Psychiatric Association to their meeting in Washington. Guests will number 600.

Mrs. Truman will receive the members of the Woman's National Democratic Club on Tuesday, May 20, at 5 o'clock. She will greet ladies attending the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor convention on Monday, May 24, and also the District of Columbia P. E. O. Sisterhood.

Tuesday, May 25, the members of the graduating class of George Washington University will be received at the White House at 3 o'clock, and Wednesday, May 26, Mrs. Truman may attend the Washington Wellesley Club benefit fashion show and tea at the Shoreham Hotel.

Duties in Stride

According to Mrs. James Meredith Helm, secretary to Mrs. Truman, the First Lady takes her duties in her stride, and never seems to tire, no matter how many hands there are to shake.

The largest crowd Mrs. Helm remembers at the White House was during the Wilson administration. The Executive Mansion was turned into a beehive, she said, when 5000 attended a reception for members of the Bar Association.

Miss Truman in N. Y.

Miss Margaret Truman went up to New York yesterday for a brief visit, staying with Mrs. Earle Stewart, a friend of Mrs. Truman. On Friday, May 14, Miss Truman will be back to attend the dinner to be given by the National Young Democratic Club at the Mayflower Hotel.

No summer plans have been announced for Mrs. Truman and Margaret. Mrs. Truman will go to Independence for a short visit, however, the end of the month, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. D W. Wallace, who is now a guest at the White House.

Dorothy Williams Nominated to Head Women's Press Club

Dorothy E. Williams of the United Press was nominated for the presidency of the Women's National Press Club at a meeting held Tuesday night, in the Statler Hotel. She has no opposition for the office.

Other nominees include Elinor Lee of CBS-WTOP, first vice president; Isabelle F. Story of the National Park Service, second vice president; Margot R. Grubb of Collier's Magazine, recording secretary; Elizabeth Sutherland Carpenter of the Tufty News Bureau, corresponding secretary; Mildred M. Diefenderfer of the Wall Street Journal, treasurer.

Only opposition in the single slate of officers will be in selecting three members for the board of governors out of four nominees. Those nominated for the board include Ruth Cowan of the Associated Press, retiring president; Marie Sauer of the Washington Post, Martha Strayer of the Washington Daily News, and Nancy Osgood of NBC-WRC.

Honor Society In Education To Meet Here

A joint convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honor society for women educators, will be held at Wardman Park Hotel Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Events include workshop groups on Saturday. Topics and chairmen of these groups are: "Scholarships," Dr. Evelyn Mudge, professor of education at Western Maryland College; "Recruitment of Teachers," Miss Lucille Appleby, counselor, Montgomery-Blair High School; "International Relations," Dr. Esther Crooks, professor of Spanish, Goucher College; "Publicity," Dr. Regis Boyle, instructor in journalism, Eastern High School and Catholic University; "Membership," Mrs. Rebekah Stonebraker of Hagerstown; "Program," Dr. Grace Holmes, counselor, Calvin Coolidge High School; "Legislation," Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, president of the Montgomery County Education Association, and "Administration," Dr. Vera Butler, professor of social science, Connecticut College for Women.

Mrs. Olive Remington Goldman, special assistant to the director, Committee for the Marshall Plan to Aid European Recovery, and candidate for election to Congress from the Twenty-second Congressional District of Illinois, will be the speaker at the banquet Saturday at 6:30 p. m. Guests of honor will include Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools; Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, jr., Maryland State superintendent of schools; Col. Mary Agnes Brown of the Veterans' Administration, and three members of Delta Kappa Gamma, Mrs. Georgia Lusk, Representative from New Mexico; Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, Representative from Maine, and Mrs. John W. Bricker, wife of Senator Bricker of Ohio.

Russian Benefit Will Be Colorful

The entertainment program of the White Russian Relief benefit party to be held at the United Nations Club on Saturday from 5:30 to 8 p. m. promises to be as varied and interesting as it is colorful.

Features of the program will be songs by Michel Michon, Russian gypsy singer of the Club Balalaika; music by the Balalaika Orchestra led by Gregory Titoff, and numbers by the Russian Chorus directed by Victor Stepantsoff. Mme. Chautemps, noted pianist, will give a program of Russian music and there will be songs by Nan Garcia, young contralto.

How to Clean Pigskin Gloves

I read of a method of cleaning pigskin gloves with soap and water. I tried that and now most of the glove is dark and dull. Although I didn't put them on to wash them, should I try it that way, or will that be more injurious to them? I. R.

The appearance of your gloves may be caused by not getting them entirely clean or by too-slow drying. It is possible that by washing the gloves again, very thoroughly, using a mild soap such as castile, and then thoroughly rinsing them in several waters, that you can improve their appearance. When you wash and rinse the gloves, turn them inside out several times to thoroughly clean the leather on both sides.

Placing them on the hands during the process is designed to keep their shape—it doesn't affect their color. When the gloves are thoroughly clean and rinsed, pull them into shape and pat them inside and out to remove as much moisture as possible. Now, lightly stuff the fingers and hand with paper tissue to hold them in shape and dry as quickly as possible without placing them in the sun or near heat. Work with the fingers occasionally during the drying process to soften the leather.

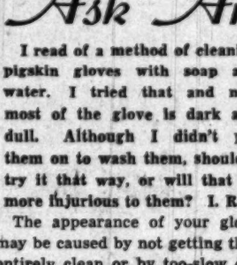
In attempting to block sweaters to shape I have used nickel-plated thumb-tacks, with the result that their points leave the garment rust-spotted. Can you suggest where I might buy thoroughly rustproof thumbtacks? J. F.

There does not seem to be a thumbtack on the market which can be absolutely guaranteed against rust. However, there is a decorative brass upholstery tack which is approximately one half inch long and rustproof. It seems it would serve your purpose. It can be purchased wherever tacks are sold.

PETUNIA!



I thought I'd poured the batter
As even as could be . . .
But one layer's ONE inch high . . .
The other one is THREE!

It wouldn't happen, Petunia, if you'd use your kitchen scales for measuring the batter. Then the layers will brown evenly—look better—and bake in the same length of time.

In Bridal Procession

Miss Mary Jane Bean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bean of Fredericksburg, Va., and Walter Noel Bond, son of Mr. and Mrs. William George Bond, also of Fredericksburg, were married April 24 at Old Mannsfield Hall in Fredericksburg. The Rev. James J. Wedmir of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church officiated.

Mr. Bean gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowned in blush lace and satin and carried a cascade bouquet of French lilacs centered with pink orchids. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of tulle trimmed with pink forget-me-nots.

Miss Patricia Driscoll, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Bond, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Betty Johnson and Mrs. Henry Dress. All attendants wore aqua marquisette and carried cascade bouquets of snapdragons, roses and carnations in shades of pink.

Jones Dannehl Heffernan of Richmond was best man, and Peyton Rowe served as usher.

The bride attended Mary Washington College, Briarcliff Manor in New York, and Harcum College, Bryn Mawr, Pa. The bridegroom was graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Va. He served two years in the European theatre of war.

Kaplan—Goldberg

Mr. and Mrs. Morton F. Harris announce the marriage of their daughter, Doris Goldberg, to Stanley B. Kaplan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kaplan of Kingston, N. Y.

The ceremony took place in New York on April 18 with Rabbi Reistram officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Kaplan will live in Kingston.

Brown—Cartwright

Miss Alma Cartwright and Lee Geddie Brown were married May 1 in Western Presbyterian Church at 5:30 p. m., the Rev. C. Stewart McKenzie officiating. Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie C. Cartwright, and Mr. Brown is the son of Mrs. Nell G. Brown of Liberty, S. C.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a suit of aqua with white accessories. Mrs. Albert Cartwright was matron of honor, and G. L. Templeton, uncle of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Templeton at 2000 F st. nw., after the ceremony.

Mortar Board Names Virginia Kirkbride

Miss Virginia Kirkbride, director of Women's Activities at George Washington University, was re-elected president of the Mortar Board Alumnae Association of Washington, D. C., at a recent buffet supper meeting at the home of the retiring treasurer, Mrs. Raymond L. Suppes, in Chevy Chase.

Other officers elected were Miss Edith Macauley for second term as vice president; Miss Ann MacMillan, secretary, to succeed Mrs. Glen E. Weston, and Mrs. J. W. McCalley, treasurer.

This letter offers the research fellowship to your uncle, m'boy. I think it will be simpler if I wire my acceptance in his name.
I'll ask Uncle Ralph—
Don't bother, Barnaby. I'm sure the foundation won't quibble when a scientist of my stature arrives instead!
But—
In fact, the news of my affiliation will have the entire scientific world all atwitter—

Weird Answers Slow Dr. Gallup Down to a Trot

At the Press Club Monday, Dr. Gallup told the story of the woman who wanted to know why she'd never been questioned by the Gallup Poll.

America's foremost pollster explained that if his interviewers talked to 10,000 people every week, that would mean only 520,000 each year. It would take perhaps 180 years to interview everybody.

The woman was unimpressed, so Dr. Gallup tried again. "Look," he said. "Suppose we consider the odds against your being struck by lightning."

"Suppose we do, doctor," replied the lady. "It happens that I have been struck by lightning."

When the George Washington University's Women's Board invited Dr. Gallup over to the Shoreham for a question-and-answer session, we got two more good stories.

The first concerned the old man who was asked by an interviewer: "Do you think the gold content of the dollar should be determined by the President or by Congress?"

"Well, I'd say by the President. He's the figurehead, so I guess he ought to do all the figuring."

Dr. Gallup also told his audience that at regular intervals he gets out into the field, to sample a few opinions at first hand.

Up in Maine recently, Gallup was interviewing a local citizen who suddenly turned the tables and asked, "Say, Buddy—what's your name?"

The subject of the interview drew back a pace and critically surveyed his questioner. Then, having completed his appraisal, he murmured caustically:

"A relative, eh?"

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Your item about our Capital City Spelling Club brought us a number of visitors. Thanks.

We meet on the first Thursday of every month at 7:30 p. m. The place is the Mount Pleasant Library. We have no dues and no restrictions as to membership.

I enjoy your corner very much and—by the way—I have yet to find a misspelled word in it. Why don't you join our club?

Dear Elmer:

Thanks, but I think I'll rest on my laurels. This way I have the proofreaders backing me up.

Bill.

ADDENDUM

Karl Itkin of 1216 Shepherd st. nw. isn't satisfied with our recent discussion of the vagaries of bridge hands.

We mentioned that a player might hold 635 billion different hands. But Karl thinks we should have added that the number of combinations possible in the four hands is roughly 5.36 times 10 to the twenty-eighth power.

In plain Arabic numerals, it's quite a mouthful. It comes to 53,644 followed by 24 other assorted digits.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Joan Crawford is telling of a lady who had a terrible dream, that a dark, evil-looking giant entered her bedroom, prowled around it, and then started to approach her with his long, claw-like hands outstretched. The lady tried to scream for help but couldn't utter a sound. All she could muster was a hoarse whisper: "What're you going to do?" . . . "Who, me?" shrugged the evil giant. "How should I know? It's YOUR dream, lady."

Ed Hungerford and Adele Nathan will use a herd of buffalo and an array of Diesel engines for their Chicago Railroad Fair opening July 15. It will be a three-million-dollar project on Chicago's lake front.

Peter Lind Hayes, who soon will return to New York to appear in a musical comedy, still hasn't recovered from the shock he suffered when stick-up men, working with methodical precision, held up the Mounds Club where Hayes was appearing. One of the unreported incidents of this stick-up occurred at Hayes' table. The stick-up group included a member who evidently was a jewelry appraiser. He examined the lady's diamond ring and said "No, its phony." The lady protested: "Phony my eye. It's real. It cost $8000." . . . "Okay, lady," the stick-up man told her. "Have it your way then"—and took it.

U. S.-Argentine Arms Deal Nears

By Drew Pearson

Despite the many slaps Argentina gave the United States at the Bogota conference, Gen. Humberto Sosa Molina, Argentine War Minister, is coming to Washington to discuss details of an agreement by which Argentine armament plants would be licensed by the United States to manufacture a number of the latest American weapons.

Von Der Becke

Sosa Molina is coming on the joint invitation of the National Defense and State Departments. Accompanying him are Gen. Manuel Savio, director of Argentine arms factories; Gen. Felix Urdipilleta, former Minister of the Interior, and various other high-ranking officers.

Conclusion of this deal will mean that, for all practical purposes, Juan D. Peron's Fascist Argentina has supplanted Brazil as our chief South American ally. It will also be a personal triumph for pleasant, persistent Gen. Carlos von der Becke, former Argentine Chief of Staff, who has spent almost two years selling Washington officials on the plan.

Von der Becke first arrived in Washington in June, 1946, and laid the arms-licensing proposal before Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Ike gave him no encouragement, although there was much favorable sentiment and attempted pressure on lower levels of the War Department.

Now Secretary of State Marshall, who always thought well of the idea, has become convinced that it should be put into practice, and has brought Gen. Omar Bradley around to his view. As usual, Marshall's decision was based strictly on strategic considerations, without regard for the ideological or political angles. Unfortunately, the effect on Brazil and other staunch friends of the United States will probably be disastrous.

Exit John Snyder?

Despite all the denials, it looks more and more as if Secretary of the Treasury Snyder is leaving his job in the Truman Cabinet to join the Gianninis' Bank of America, largest bankers in the United States.

Big, bluff, genial A. P. Giannini was in Washington the other day at a significant luncheon. Luncheon host was Eric Johnston, dynamic head of the motion picture producers, and a director of Giannini's bank. Other guests included Paul Hoffman, head of the Marshall Plan; Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, A. P. Giannini, Walter Braunschweiger, Gisnnini's executive vice president, and Roland Pierotti, Giannini's Washington representative. John Snyder seemed to feel right at home among all the Gianninis.

When Tom McCabe was appointed chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, replacing Giannini Critic Marriner Eccles, the venerable West Coast banker was given credit for getting Eccles out. Though he denied this, it was interesting to note that last week in Washington, Giannini and the man who replaced Eccles as Federal Reserve Board chairman, Tom McCabe, huddled alone in Eric Johnston's office.

Note—President Truman, though making a public commitment to appoint Marriner Eccles vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, so far hasn't come across. Some people are attributing this to the strong hand of the Gianninis via John Snyder.

GOP Merry-Go-Round

Speaker Joe Martin's friends claim they've made a deal with the Dewey crowd to switch all of New York's 97 Dewey delegates to the Speaker if it becomes clear Dewey can't make the grade . . . Governor Driscoll of New Jersey will be the favorite son of the New Jersey delegation on the first ballot in Philadelphia. On the second ballot, the boys will switch to Stassen . . . Pennsylvania Republicans are split wide open. The powerful political machine of Joe Pew, Sun Oil Co., is now reported definitely though quiet for Stassen. However, Senator Ed Martin is for Taft. In the end, Stassen will get most of the Pennsylvania delegates after the first ballot . . . In West Virginia Stassen is expected to take over the entire delegation . . . Governor Dewey is staking a lot on the Oregon primary. However, Stassen's stock is rising and he may come out the favorite . . . In brief, Stassen will go to the Philadelphia convention with far more delegates than ever expected, though he will probably be euchred out in the smoke-filled rooms.

The Diplomatic Pouch

The Australian government is sending a formal note to the State Department protesting General MacArthur's plan to rebuild Japan. Australia fears the resurrection of the Japanese military will again threaten the peace in Asia . . . More money is going to Turkey—this time 300 million dollars. The State Department considers it necessary in order to keep Turkey out of the Russian orbit . . . Incidentally, the Turks consider it quite a joke—the way they can squeeze money out of Uncle Sam.

HAIR TREATMENTS

DO YOU WANT THESE FACTS ABOUT THEM?

R. W. PLASTERER, Trichologist

METHODS?
Hair & Scalp Clinic treatments are locally applied and consist of everything that has been proven beneficial in the treatment of hair and scalp problems. Cleansing and germicidal agents, electrotherapy, including Ultra Violet ray; physical and mechanical massage. The very methods used and recommended by foremost authorities. Each treatment takes 25 to 45 minutes and leaves your scalp feeling brisk, clean and alive.

RESULTS?
Each client accepted for treatment sees visible results within 5 treatments. New, replacement hairs are visible within 10 treatments. Thicker, healthier hair—stronger hair is evident within a few months. Dandruff, too dry or oily hair, other annoying scalp conditions respond immediately to Hair & Scalp Clinic treatment. No one is ever accepted if results are not certain.

COST?
Any man or woman can afford Hair & Scalp Clinic treatments. Fees are reasonable and vary slightly with each case, but can be paid as treatments are taken. The average cost to put your scalp in healthy condition, save and thicken your hair and overcome your scalp problems is $110.00. (Average of 2,000 cases.) Based on the average life span, this is less than 25c per month to save your hair!

WHERE?
Hair & Scalp Clinic specialists are outstanding because of their past record of achievement. They administer the most effective, fastest acting methods, developed in their own laboratories. Professional, business and theatrical people—people in all walks of life—take these treatments and praise the results. And—fees lower than most other types of treatment.
